SIR SAMUEL HOARE IN PLEA FOR PEACE BEFORE COMMONS

"Still Breathing Space" to Effect Settlement Before Sanctions Are Applied, Briton Says.

FUTURE OF EUROPEAN CIVILIZATION TIED UP

Foreign Secretary Declares Britain Plans No Military Action in Italian-Ethiopian War.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, told the House of Commons today that he hoped that an eleventh-hour solution of the Italian-Ethiopian conflict could be effected before the full pressure of economic sanctions against Italy was applied.

Sir Samuel told the House Great Britain planned no military action against Italy.

Sir Samuel stated that Great Britain had never turned its back on a peaceful solution, adding: "There is still breathing space before the economic pressure can be applied. Can it not be used for another attempt at such a settlement?"

The legislative chamber was crowded and many diplomats sat in the gallery.

"Italy still is a member of the League of Nations," said Sir Samuel. "I welcome this fact. Cannot this eleventh-hour be so used as to make it unnecessary to proceed further along the unattractive road of economic action against a fellow member, an old friend, a former ally?"

"Great Issues at Stake."

He continued: "I do not know whether there is hope or not for what I am urging. I do, however, know that great issues are at stake, much greater than the local aspects of the African controversy." The whole future of European civilization, he said, was tied up in the present conflict. He said the British were praying that "the principles of constructive action may be upheld and a way speedily found to end this hateful controversy."

Re-emphasizing the need of finding an honorable settlement "within the framework of the League," Sir Samuel stated that he had never adopted an extreme partisan attitude, declaring: "Indeed, I believe that, outside Italy, I was the first public man to remind the world of Italy's claim for expansion and economic security."

He said he already had pledged Great Britain to the investigation of colonial war materials as a contribution to removing the causes of war, and that he had not let a week pass without in some way expressing Great Britain's "readiness to take our share in bringing about an honorable settlement acceptable to all three parties—for there are three—not two—the League, Italy and Ethiopia."

Solidarity of British Empire.

He said he rejoiced that Great Britain, during the present tense days, enjoyed not only the solidarity of British public opinion but the unbroken solidarity of its empire and the impressive unanimity of the great dominions.

"Some of our foreign friends have been surprised by the depth and breadth of these expressions of opinion," Hoare remarked. "They failed to understand our belief in the League as an instrument not only for stopping war but also for removing its causes."

"They didn't realize the sincerity of our hope and faith in the new order of international relations. They failed, also, to understand that most of us regard the League as a bridge between Great Britain and Europe, and, if this bridge is grave-weakened and broken, co-operation between us and the continent becomes difficult and dangerous."

Decline Selfish Interests.

Pointing out that the controversy raised an issue between the League and one of its most powerful members, Sir Samuel said: "There is a temptation to throw up the sponge, to say, 'Some there be in Europe who have tended to succumb.'"

"There was a cry on the continent early in this century: 'World peace or decline?' We say now: 'World peace or destruction.'"

The British empire, he said, is bound to have enemies and enemies who are jealous of the British position, want to make trouble in Europe, and "embroider us with our own tale."

"It is such as these," he said, "who are trying to make it appear that Great Britain is attempting to

"Way Out of Line," Rural Resettlement Officials in Washington Say.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Plans for a low-cost housing community for St. Louis County have been abandoned because of the price asked for the site, officials of the Rural Resettlement Administration said today.

The community—one of five to be built by the Resettlement Administration—was to have been of the same type and size as that just begun at Berwyn Heights, Md., popularly known as "Tugwelltown," after Rexford G. Tugwell, Resettlement Administrator.

The price for the site in St. Louis County was "way out of line," according to a resettlement official who declined to be quoted. There are one or two alternate sites but Resettlement officials would not disclose where they were.

Resettlement officials spoke with some bitterness of the efforts of St. Louis real estate operators to boost the price of the land sought by the Government. They said the price was considerably higher, proportionately, than that asked in other communities.

There was only a slight hope that the decision might be reconsidered, in the event an agreement on the price was reached, an official said. Speed, it was indicated, would probably be a deciding factor. The Resettlement Administration's money must all be obligated by June 1, 1937, which means work must start at once, officials said.

SOVIET OFFICER SENTENCED TO DEATH FOR TREASON

Crime Was Alleged Action 15 Years Ago Which Led to Execution of 10.

SEBASTOPOL, Soviet Russia, Oct. 22.—Serge Mullarenok, an officer and hero of the Red army, was sentenced to death today for treason which led to the execution of 10 Communist leaders 15 years ago.

Mullarenok, convicted in the Crimean Supreme Court, gained the confidence of the Bolsheviks after the defeat of the Gen. Wrangel forces, which he is alleged to have served. He joined the Communist party and won the Red banner decoration for heroism in battle.

In recent years he has occupied important posts in the Crimean military command.

The court found that it was on the strength of information supplied to them by Mullarenok that the Whites apprehended 10 members of the military section of the Sebastopol Bolshevik organization and executed them in 1920.

Mullarenok said he gave the information to the Whites only after his capture and as a ruse to gain an opportunity to escape and rejoin the Red forces, and that the information had already been discovered by White agents.

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 22.—Emperor Haile Selassie gave a raw meat feast today to 20,000 warriors under the command of Dedjazmatch Abbera Damtew, the Governor of Gama and Gofa Provinces.

The grounds of the two palaces were not large enough to hold all the men, so the Emperor pressed into service a third big field for the all-day banquet.

Three hundred twenty cattle were slaughtered in Mosaic fashion. Emperor Haile Selassie, although he himself ate none of the raw meat, presided over the banquet.

The wild-eyed and bushy-haired warriors rose in groups from their squatting postures and rushed before the Emperor, professing their unwavering loyalty and shouting that they wanted to fight the Italians. This group of warriors will leave for the front tomorrow morning.

Imperial Guard Departs.

Eight thousand crack soldiers of the Imperial Guard marched off to the northeast today to make Dessye the center of Emperor Haile Selassie's line of defense against the Italians.

There, on the central plateau in the heart of the empire, Ethiopians think the Italian northern and southern armies intend to join in a final drive against Addis Ababa.

Piloted by John C. Robinson, Chicago Negro aviator, the Emperor today made his first plane flight in several years in order to say goodbye to his Imperial Guardsmen.

The Emperor waved his farewells as the soldiers saluted, then returned to the palace.

The Emperor awaited full reports of an Italian bombing along the Setit River on the northern front and capture by the Italian southern army of the Ethiopian posts of Daguerre and Sciallev on the Webbe Shiheli River.

Government officials said they were not inclined to treat seriously an Italian contention that the Dargi victories precluded the hope that Dedjazmatch Nasibu would cut off the Fascist forces under Gen. Rodolfo Graziani from their base in Italian Somaliland.

The Italian advance from the south nevertheless would lead directly up the Webbe Shiheli River valley to the strategic city of Harar, the Addis Ababa-Djibouti Railway and the troop concentration point of Dessye.

Emperor Haile Selassie was thought to have felt that he could not afford to waste any more time in making his defenses secure and therefore decided to move his imperial guard to Dessye.

Farewell to Soldiers.

As the 8000 men of Ethiopia's only crack regiment took the Dargi road, mothers and children who bade farewell to the khaki-clad warriors from the summit of Mount Entoto trudged silently back to the capital, wondering whether the men ever would return.

Ras Mulugeta, Minister of War, received final strategic instructions and administrative orders from the Emperor today, then departed for Dessye to command the warriors there. The Ras also will prepare the way for the Emperor's state entry into Dessye next week, after which Mulugeta's forces will start for the Northern front.

Reared in rugged mountain land where only the most fit survive, Ethiopian soldiers undergo an existence which—whether in war or in peace—is one long battle against death. Fever, parasitical diseases, infectious maladies, famine and exposure assail them from all sides. Doctors, nurses, bandages, medicines and even beds are virtually unknown.

The troops rival the Spartans of old in their privations and sacrifices. If wounded seriously, they die on the spot where they fall unless comrades rescue them from death or from the jackals and hyenas which prowl by night.

In camp, Ethiopian warriors sleep as many as seven to 10 in a single dog tent. At the front, they sleep on the earth, covered only by hides.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Oct. 22.—With the eastern end of Cuba cut off by a hurricane, authorities here today feared restored communications would show a widespread loss of life.

The hurricane, which swerved on its course from the Caribbean so widely that the Belen and National Observatories lost track of it, swept into Oriente Province early today.

At least one person was killed and five were injured in Santiago, where the destruction of property was immense. But Santiago apparently was west of the storm center.

The blow was believed to have hit the eastern area much harder. Two deaths by drowning were reported from Jamaica, where the storm caused damage estimated at $2,500,000.

The storm seemed to have moved inland around Guantanamo Bay and Caimanera, where the United States naval station is situated.

Baracoa Cut Off.

The important banana-shipping city of Baracoa and other points to the east were cut off from the western part of the island. Relatives of persons living in the area were unable to get more than the vaguest idea of what had happened.

The lack of highways made penetration of the district difficult.

The city of Santiago, where the correspondent was slightly injured in the storm, was still today in the "fringes" of the wind center.

Roofs were blown off houses and walls crumbled last night. The force of the wind made it impossible to travel down the debris-strewn streets.

At noon, reports from the Belen Observatory said the center of the disturbance still was hovering over the middle of Oriente Province.

Airplane pilots declined to go aloft and all regular plane services were canceled. Telephone and telegraph lines were down as far west as Camaguey.

(Apparently the area thus isolated covers several thousand square miles.)

The city's electric light and power was cut off when the power plant's roof was ripped loose. Bread and milk were scarce.

The Cauto River overflowed,

Ship Puts in for Shelter.

A message to Havana from Antilla, in Oriente Province, said the steamship Cuba had been forced to put in there when the force of the storm prevented it from continuing to Baracoa, near the eastern tip of the island.

Two Eastern Cuban towns, Caimanera and Bouqueron, had been evacuated.

The storm's course generally was believed to have been through the windward passage, between Eastern Cuba and Haiti, only 50 miles across at its narrowest point. From there it was heading apparently for the Eastern group of the Bahama Islands.

Santiago had battered down for the blow. Cafes and theaters were closed. Trams and buses were halted. Patrols of firemen, police and soldiers helped secure residences against the force of the storm. Railroads made fast all rolling stock, except that used for evacuation of the populations of Caimanera and Bouqueron.

Wilfred Jones, the lawyer who procured the baby for the Muench baby hoax, which the Post-Dispatch has exposed, testified this morning in the St. Louis Court of Appeals that he had a conference Sunday with Aaron Benesch, city editor of the Star-Times, and Harry C. Barker, counsel for Anna Ware retained by that newspaper, and that "the object was to get this case out of court and get this girl's baby back."

He testified that Benesch took him to Barker's home and that the editor suggested that the case could be settled. Benesch said, he continued, that "the case was hurt" and that they were losing money in it, and he wanted to know if he couldn't stop this and get the baby back.

"Here Is What We Discussed."

"The matter was discussed mutually with Mr. Benesch," continued Jones. "Here is what we discussed: How could Anna be sure the baby offered her was hers. I had told you (to Barker, who was questioning) that she said she could recognize it and I had said the baby would be returned by the same person who took it away. I said if Anna was satisfied, you'd have to be, too."

Asked by Barker about a suggestion by Jones at the conference that Jones and Anna meet with Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, the witness responded that he had not mentioned Dr. Muench's name.

Anna charges in her habeas corpus suit, now being heard by Special Commissioner Rush H. Limbaugh, that her baby is in custody of Dr. Muench and his wife, Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, and is being "palmed off" as their own.

Attorney Barker veered his questioning to another phase of the case, without disclosing whether any final decision had been reached at the Sunday conference between himself, Jones and Benesch.

No Money From Muenches.

Asked whether the Muenches had given him any money since last April for any purpose whatsoever, Jones replied: "I'll go farther than that. They never gave me any money in their lives. They were not my clients. I never sent them a bill and they don't owe me any money."

"At another point in his testimony he said:

"The action of Dr. and Mrs. Muench would not influence me one way or another in this case. They are not my clients and do not control me, and I do not control them."

Jones testified that he advised "Mr. and Mrs. X" in discussions of adopting a baby, that "if they employed a lawyer to get a baby for them, the lawyer would not have to tell the facts in court."

RETURN OF CHILD WILL SATISFY ATTORNEY BARKER

Says He Can't Say Whether

Harry C. Barker, counsel for Anna Ware, petitioner in the Muench-Ware habeas corpus proceeding, was asked today by a Post-Dispatch reporter whether Anna, her counsel and advisers, or any of them, intended or were willing to accept the return of her child and terminate the pending case without a decision by Commissioner Limbaugh or the St. Louis Court of Appeals.

The reason for the question was the statement of Wilfred Jones, published yesterday, that an executive editor of the Star-Times who is assisting Barker in the case, asked him, Jones, in the presence of Barker, whether he could and would return Anna's baby.

Following this meeting Jones held a long conference with the Muenches and one of their lawyers. Barker's reply was:

"As far as I am concerned, this matter will be concluded when the identity of the Ware baby has been conclusively established, and the child restored to its mother."

Barker was then asked, if the proceedings go on, whether he would now, or at any time before the conclusion of the hearing, ask the Court to order Wilfred Jones, or Dr. and Mrs. Muench, or all of them, to produce in court Anna Ware's baby, or the male child 2 months old now in the Muench home.

"I can't say now," was the lawyer's reply to this question.

JONES' TESTIMONY EVOKES STATEMENT

Under Ruling Requiring

Broker Says 'Mr. and Ware's Baby.

Special Commissioner Rush H. Limbaugh took a sudden and dramatic personal part in the proceedings in the Anna Ware habeas corpus suit this afternoon when he declared from the bench that he was looking to Wilfred Jones, Dr. Ludwig O. Muench and Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench "to help settle the issues in this case."

"The Commissioner said he was 'compelled from the testimony as developed' to look to these persons whom he characterized as the principal respondents to the habeas corpus suit in St. Louis Court of Appeals by which Anna Ware is seeking to regain custody of her two-month-old baby boy, alleged by her to be in custody of the Muenches.

Commissioner's Statement.

Speaking in decisive tones, the Commissioner said to Jones: "You as an officer of this Court and a party to the case, owe a duty to the Court to have the baby returned. The Commissioner feels we are trifling with the law and blocking the avenues to justice by not getting anything done to see the baby recovered . . ."

"It seems the hearing has degenerated to a point where it will be difficult to determine the facts unless all of us are frank and open and do all we can to get the baby back. I feel you are in a position to supply the information to the Court and it should be done as quickly as possible."

Earlier in his remarks the Court had told Jones that he felt it was the duty of "this officer of the court (meaning Jones) who furnished the brains that worked out the process by which the baby was obtained, to go and get that baby, wherever it is, and bring it into this court and place it in the hands of the mother."

At one point in the afternoon questioning Anna Ware's counsel asked Jones if he would swear her baby was not in the Muench home.

"No I won't swear that," Jones replied. "I will swear I don't know where it is. 'Later,' he added, 'if it is there, I don't know it.'"

Commissioner Limbaugh's remarks were made after Jones had been ordered to give the name and addresses of the mysterious "clients" for whom he had obtained the Ware baby, and had told a long and rambling account, the net of which was that the name of the "clients" was "Palmer" and that he did not know where they could be found, or where they had ever lived.

ITALIANS PREPARE FOR NEW ATTACK IN MAKALE REGION

Gen. de Bono Says Men Are in Excellent Condition—Ethiopians 50 Miles South of Town.

Unofficial Figure Includes Both Dead and Wounded Since Start of African Campaign.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.) WITH THE ITALIAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ETHIOPIA, Oct. 22—Gen. Emilio de Bono pronounced his troops in excellent condition today, apparently on the eve of a new assault, and pledged himself to complete submission of Ethiopia.

"I intend to carry out my task methodically and resolutely, with full confidence that events will justify Italy's action," the commander-in-chief of the Fascist forces in East Africa told the correspondent. With the next objective the important caravan trail center of Makale, about 60 miles southeast of Addis Ababa, it was thought no major clash could occur between Italian and Ethiopian troops on this northern front for some weeks.

The Ethiopians were concentrated at Amba Alagi, 50 miles south of Makale. It would require considerable time for them to gather provisions, move up to Makale and encounter the Italians. The absence of roads between Amba Alagi and Makale would render any rapid march difficult.

The total of Italian casualties thus far in the fighting, which has advanced the Fascist columns from Eritrea to a line 60 miles deep in Ethiopia from Adigrat through Addis Ababa, was estimated unofficially at 87 dead and wounded. Two Ethiopian soldiers taken prisoner died before a firing squad today after a revolver was forced from them.

Says He'll Face More Slaves. Gen. de Bono said that step by step, as the Italians advanced farther into Northern Ethiopia, all slaves would be released. "We do not do that in other parts of Ethiopia because the slave markets are far from the Tigre province in the north, and because Tigre is exposed to the neighboring Italian civilizing influence from Eritrea," he said.

"We are arranging the details as to what to do with the slaves, and of whom will stay with their present masters. "But they are now free to pass to other employers if they want to. At any rate, they will be released step by step as the occupation proceeds."

Gen. de Bono said trade from the slave market of Uoliga, Kaffa Province, had been stopped. "Italians Called Liberators." He said the welcome given the Italians by the population of the territory already occupied did not surprise him. The Italians were regarded as liberators, he declared.

"We scrupulously observed the rights of the population," he said. "Payments for food furnished to us are strictly made. Damages suffered in our occupation are paid for by cash. "The people are accepting Italian money with full confidence. The organization of justice, sanitary and medical assistance for the population followed the occupation immediately."

"The population has been brought around by a realization of Italy's justice and benevolence and by finding themselves free to pursue their own occupations." Gen. de Bono said the health and morale of his troops were excellent. State-Controlled Market.

Gen. de Bono gave orders for institution of a state-controlled market. Prices had risen to a point where Ethiopians were selling beer at $1 a bottle and a chicken for $1.50, although the day the Italians entered Addis Ababa the inhabitants were glad to exchange a chicken for a bottle of mineral water.

Recruiting of many former Askari, Eritrean native troops who fought with Italy in Libya in recent years and who were now living in Ethiopia, was begun. Officers estimated that 20,000 Askari were living in the Ethiopian territory now occupied and that there were 30,000 more in the territory ahead.

About 1000 have reported and requested enlistment. Many were assigned to the same battalions in which they formerly served. Reports reached here that Emperor Haile Selassie had removed former Emperor Lij Yasu, who was being held a prisoner in the Harar region behind the southern front, to a safer place in Galla, owing to the approach of Italian troops. Lij Yasu was imprisoned in 1916 after a battle with the forces of Ras Tafari, then Prince Regent and now the Emperor.

eastern tip of Cuba, said the wind had attained such velocity as to necessitate cutting off electrical current as a precaution against fire danger. All vehicles in the town were pressed into service to hasten the evacuation of families living in the lower sections by the sea.

The military ordered families to remain in sheltered areas, and many huddled under anything affording protection along the sidewalks. No other shelter was available after 900 families had crowded into the City Hall and army and police barracks. A hundred prisoners were removed from the jail, and 80 patients from a hospital, to hotels and churches as another safety measure.

Rain Squalls at Havana.

Havana experienced rain squalls, and turbulent seas buffeted the shore. In Port Au Prince, Haiti, pelting rain and heavy gusts of wind led residents to prepare for a major storm, though the high mountains surrounding the city form a natural protection. Ships left the wharf and anchored in mid-stream.

Northwestern Haiti, it was thought, might receive the brunt of the damage on that island.

Weather Bureau Says Storm Is Not Likely to Hit U. S.

By the Associated Press. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 22—The Weather Bureau at Jacksonville said today the tropical hurricane was passing through Central Cuba at 6:30 a. m., apparently curving slowly to the west, but "there is small likelihood it will hit the North American mainland," although its future path was described as "uncertain."

The wind reached a velocity of 56 miles an hour for five minutes at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and guests moved as rapidly as 70 miles. The Jacksonville Weather Bureau, however, said the diameter of the storm was "very small" and not nearly as severe as two others since Sept. 2.

Nazi Police Reported to Have Gone Over Border to Seize Alleged Offender.

By the Associated Press. METZ, France, Oct. 22—Emile Jolas, a French merchant of Strasbourg-Wendel, France, was reported today to be in jail at Larchesfur, near Saarbrücken, on a charge of insulting Reichsfuehrer Hitler. French authorities' efforts to have him arrested have been futile.

Jolas, who is understood to have brothers in Louisville, Ky., and Chicago, was said to have been sentenced to 18 months in jail for making a remark about Hitler in a discussion with a Saarlander while standing near the frontier.

It was reported the Saarlander called the Nazis "pigs," who crossed the frontier and seized Jolas.

LAVAL INFORMS CABINET OF HIS PEACE EFFORTS

Full Ministerial Council to Consider Tomorrow Move to Get Italy to Modify Suggestions.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Oct. 22—Premier Laval told his cabinet today of his efforts to negotiate peace between Italy and Ethiopia and it was officially indicated that the possibility of modifying Premier Mussolini's suggestions would be considered at a full ministerial council tomorrow.

Today's cabinet session was largely devoted to France's own financial and political problems. Laval announced decrees for the strict control of public demonstrations and the private possession of arms. The decrees are intended to check fights between political forces and will be offered the cabinet later for approval.

Laval in "Buffer" Role.

Laval was officially described as "a sort of buffer" between Great Britain and Italy, trying to induce Mussolini to modify his peace terms before submitting them to London.

"Great Britain knows what is going on in Laval's negotiations with Italy," said an official, "but the Italian suggestions have not yet been officially transmitted to London."

It was indicated that Great Britain consequently should refrain from making the responsibility of rejecting the suggestions while Laval, acting on his own responsibility as mediator, tries to find a basis acceptable to the League of Nations and Ethiopia.

The Cabinet will meet again tomorrow for further discussions of the situation, with the Ministerial Council meeting under President Albert Lebrun who acts as chairman, immediately afterward.

Marshal Pétain going to Britain. France's good will efforts between Italy and Great Britain are expected to be continued by Marshal Philippe Pétain who went to London today to be guest of honor at a banquet to be given by the "Great Britain-France Association."

Officials indicated that France will refrain from following Great Britain in restricting the refueling of Italian ships which are laden with war materials at colonial ports, saying, "The Italian position is that the Italian ports are too near for that particular problem to be raised."

Published reports of the Italian peace conditions said they included disarmament of Ethiopia, an international protectorate over Amharic regions of the empire and an Italian protectorate over the remainder—all of which Emperor Haile Selassie has thus far rejected.

Spain Formally Declares Arms Embargo Against Italy.

By the Associated Press. MADRID, Oct. 22—The Spanish Government issued a decree today prohibiting exportation of war materials of any description to Italy. The decree was the first decisive step Spain has taken in the Italian-Ethiopian dispute.

It was decided on by the Cabinet after Salvador de Madariaga, Spain's representative at the League of Nations, recommended that the league's program for an arms embargo against Italy be actively supported by Spain.

The decree, effective tomorrow when it will be published in the official gazette, specifies that the embargo includes any and all chemical weapons might be used in chemical warfare.

FLOOR SHOW SCORES HIT AT PARK PLAZA

Rick and Snyder, whose faces and voices are familiar to many St. Louisans, received the most enthusiastic reception ever given an entertainment act in the Crystal Terrace at the Park Plaza. A capacity crowd brought them back for a record number of encores at their opening supper show Saturday night.

This well-known singing team has been heard over the radio and in the country's most popular hotels, night clubs and theaters. Jimmy Cassidy accompanies them at the piano.

The current popular floor show also features La Mae and Alice Louise in unusual dance interpretations, Ruth Urban, charming soprano, Charlo, acrobatic dancer, and Joe Winters and his mellow music.

20,000 ETHIOPIAN WARRIORS HOLD RAW MEAT FEAST

retire at sundown and arise at daybreak. The only light is furnished by torches dipped in oil or wax. They have an occasional camp fire. They do not sit too close to it, as they want to fortify themselves against the rigors to which they are constantly exposed.

As the Ethiopian army has no commissary, one principal activity of the soldiers is foraging for food. They are assisted by their wives and servants, who follow the armies like hosts of locusts, stripping the countryside of all edibles. The women help to cook, care for the wounded, carry water, pitch tents and are often seen battling in the front lines.

The first activity of the day is reading the psalms of David. Little Ethiopia invariably carry small leather bags in which are held David's canticles, printed on ancient parchments. The soldiers know most passages by heart and retire to isolated corners of their camps to murmur the psalms to themselves. The soldiers also are fond of martial songs which they sing throughout the day. These ballads recite the exploits of valor of Ethiopian armies. The troops have no bands, but merely barrel-shaped drums and long trumpets splinters and other foreign bodies are removed, their wives and other camp followers dress the warriors' feet with goats' tallow, poured boiling hot into the wounds.

Ethiopian soldiers eat only once a day, usually in the morning, if food is plentiful. If it is scarce, they prefer to eat at night. They have many feast days which are rigidly observed.

Before entering battle, the warriors purge themselves not only spiritually but physically, because they believe they must be purified if they wish to enter Heaven. All camps have priests. Many fight beside the soldiers, especially now that the Ethiopians consider their conflict with the Italians a holy war after the capture of the sacred city of Aksum on the northern front.

KILLER GARROTED IN SPAIN

Fifth Man Executed Since 1933 Restoration of Death Penalty.

GRANADA, Spain, Oct. 22—Manuel Vargas, the fifth man executed in Spain since re-establishment of the death penalty in 1933, was garroted today. He was convicted of murder.

Almost to the last, Vargas, who was married yesterday in the prison chapel to make his child legitimate, hoped his sentence would be commuted. He heard earlier this morning mass and received absolution from a Jesuit priest. When the hour arrived for application of the iron collar and tightening of the screws, Vargas walked to his death quietly.

Telling His Story

WILFRED JONES.
(In the St. Louis Court of Appeals Lobby.)

Benesch, city editor of the Star-Times, and Barker, employed by the newspaper to represent Anna Ware, had told Jones that the baby was delivered to them either here or in Memphis.

"Since the publication of this case in the newspapers they have been alarmed and have not communicated with me for a week," Jones said. "I tried to get in touch with them. I asked Mrs. Diefenbach to help me and she is trying to find them and I think she will. These people would like to see the baby and I think they would like to see the baby and I think they would like to see the baby."

Jerome Duggan, as attorney for the respondent, Carl Dufinsky, told Commissioner Limbaugh that Dufinsky had told Jones to return the baby to his mother, agreeing to give necessary financial aid to return Anna Ware's baby to her.

"As a father," Duggan said of Dufinsky, "he knows a mother's baby should be placed in the mother's arms."

It was at this point that Commissioner Limbaugh took a hand in the proceedings by questioning Jones and by saying that he looked to Jones and Jones to help settle the issues of the case, as told heretofore.

More Questions by Barker.

When questioning of Jones was resumed after the lawyers' discussion, Barker asked him who was at the Muenches home when he was there last Sunday night. Jones named Dr. and Mrs. Muench, Attorney Keating, and a Negro maid. Barker asked Jones if he had not talked to Julius Klein, Star-Times reporter, at the Jones home Sept. 15. Jones replied that he did not know that Klein had been there almost continually.

Asked if Klein had not questioned him as to whether Mrs. Diefenbach was the nurse, Jones said, "I can't say—he asked so many questions."

In reply to questions, Jones said that he did not recall telling Klein that Mrs. Diefenbach "has had so much trouble that it would be a shame to bring her in this and that she was ill in Chicago when the Ware baby was born."

He testified also he could not recall saying to the reporter, "I can give you my solemn oath that she didn't know anything about this case. She has not been in St. Louis since June."

"Well, was she ill in Chicago when the baby was born?" "She was not."

"Where is Mrs. Thomasson now?" Barker shot at the witness suddenly. "She told me Saturday she was going to Chicago."

"Have you seen her since Saturday?" "No."

"She said she would write," "Where in Chicago is she?" "She said she would write me as soon as she got there."

"She knew we would be seeking to serve her with a subpoena?" "I don't know."

"Well, you knew we would want to after you testified?" "No."

"That never occurred to you," Barker commented sarcastically. "As a matter of fact, she was at the Park Manor Hotel until Monday morning, wasn't she?" Barker continued. "I don't know," replied Jones.

"Are you swearing positively that you didn't see her Sunday at the Park Manor?" "Yes, I am."

Counsel then asked Jones if he recalled being in a room at the Windsor Hotel Sept. 29 with Mrs. Diefenbach.

"That was a reference to Mrs. Grace Caroline Thomasson-Diefenbach, previously named by Jones as the 'nurse' who took the Price and Ware babies from their mothers."

"She later made the contact for me about getting a baby for them. I understood from Mrs. Diefenbach that these people were in Memphis

Speculation as to Whether Law Muenches Fear They Violated Is Federal Mail Fraud Statute

Anna Ware Induced to Come to St. Louis on Representation Baby Would Be Adopted by Good Family.

Speculation as to what criminal statute Dr. and Mrs. Ludwig O. Muench feared they had violated when they refused to testify on the score that they might incriminate themselves has extended to Federal as well as state laws.

One state law which it appears might have been violated, as was told in the Post-Dispatch Saturday, was the misdemeanor statute prohibiting the taking of custody of a child without consent of the juvenile court.

The Federal scheme to defraud statute provides a penalty of imprisonment in the penitentiary, a fine, for using the mails in carrying out any scheme or artifice to defraud.

Use of Mail in Anna Ware Case.

The evidence so far developed in the habeas corpus proceeding has shown that Wilfred Jones, friend and off-the-record adviser of Dr. and Mrs. Muench, conducted part of the negotiations by which Anna Ware's baby was to be obtained for them by mail. Anna Ware came to St. Louis from her home in Pennsylvania and gave birth to her child at the home of Mrs. Rebecca Winner, a retired midwife, at 6015 Maple avenue as a result of exchanges through the mail. Mrs. Winner is the mother-in-law of the young man who Anna Ware has charged in a warrant is the father of her child.

A number of letters which passed between Jones and Mrs. Lily Gordon, who resides in Newtown, Pa., the wife of the man against whom Anna Ware instituted proceedings as the father of the child, have been introduced in evidence.

One dated July 30, addressed to Jones, disclosed that Jones had used the mails in the negotiations. It mentioned a letter from Jones enclosing a railroad ticket to be used by the young woman in making the trip to St. Louis. (In testifying yesterday, Jones admitted sending the railroad ticket.) Mention also was made of a money order for $15 sent by Jones.

Representations Made to the Girl.

The testimony has disclosed that Anna Ware was led to believe that the child was to be adopted by a "good" family, and that in addition to the payment of her expenses, St. Louis was to receive $50. She testified that she had not received the money.

"The idea of my coming out here was to get the baby adopted to a good family because I didn't have any money," the girl testified in the habeas corpus proceedings which she instituted after she became convinced that those to whom Jones sent the baby were Dr. and Mrs. Muench.

Mrs. Gordon, in one of her letters to Jones, recited that the understanding between them was that the child was to be placed in a good home.

Diefenbach and Klein. Jones said he recalled being there one evening, but said in reply to further questions that he did not recall hearing Mrs. Diefenbach say she had never heard of the Ware or Price babies until she read of them in Chicago newspapers, that she was in St. Louis at the time and that she "couldn't have had anything to do with it."

Doesn't Recall "Perfect Alibi."

Jones also said he was unable to recall saying to Klein, "There's no use questioning the lady. She has a perfect alibi. She was in Chicago all the time."

Replying to other questions, he said he did not "cold Mrs. Diefenbach for talking too much."

"Did you ever before yesterday tell anybody that she was the nurse in this affair?" asked the lawyer. "I don't know now whether I did or not."

"Didn't you deny it to everyone, including these reporters you are complaining about?" Jones gave a rambling answer, saying Mrs. Diefenbach had asked him to keep reporters away from her, that she had business here and could not do anything with them following her.

Transfer of the Ware Baby.

Barker, continuing to question Jones about the removal of the Ware baby from the Winner home, asked:

"Then you surrendered the baby to Mrs. Thomasson?" "I didn't surrender it—she took it," Jones replied.

Asked if he knew if the baby was still alive, Jones replied that he could not say.

Barker asked, "Will you swear the baby is not in Dr. Muench's home?"

"No, I won't swear that. I will swear that I don't know where it is," the question was repeated by Barker and the second time Jones answered: "If it is there, I don't know it."

Miss Ware's attorney asked, "Don't you know you told me in the corridor outside and again at not it was in the Muenches' home? Do you now swear it is not there?"

Jones replied: "I wouldn't swear to that. I don't know where it is. You are asking me to swear to something I don't know anything about."

The Signatures Analyzed

EXPERT FINDS SAME HAND WROTE HELEN SIGNATURES

of the respondents in Anna Ware's suit, refused to admit that the "Helen Meyers" signature was the same handwriting as the "Helen Berroyer" signatures, when asked to do so by Barker. The opposing attorneys later agreed that the signature records would remain in custody of the court so that handwriting experts could testify about them. Mrs. Berroyer resides with her mother, Mrs. Mayne Hawker Meyers.

The clothing receipt signed in 1928 bears two "Helen Berroyer" signatures. Becker, the handwriting expert, said that in his opinion they were written by the same person, but that the lower one was more indicative of the characteristics in the signature "Helen Meyers" on the receipt of last July 11 than the upper one.

Becker's Analysis of Writings.

Using the lower one as an example and comparing it to the "Helen Meyers" signature, Becker analyzed them in support of his opinion.

"I note that the second stroke of the capital letter 'H' of 'Helen' in the 'Berroyer' and 'Meyers' signatures is higher than the beginning stroke."

"Both 'e's' in 'Helen' of each signature are closed, having no loop, and have the appearance of 'i'."

Also each time 'Helen' was written the 'e's' are above the normal base line of writing. (He explained that line is one used for the purpose of comparison and is set at the average lower edge of all letters in a signature.)

"The 'l' in 'Helen' is identical as to the point of intersection of the up and down stroke and is characteristic in both signatures in that the lower part of the 'l' is noticeably lower than the letters 'e' following and preceding."

"The letter 'n' is similar in both writings of 'Helen' according to spacing, and in relation to the letter 'e' preceding—that is, the beginning of the curve at upstroke to the 'n' is lifted above the normal base line. However, the terminal 'n' in 'Helen' of the 'Meyers' signature does differ slightly from the one in the 'Berroyer' signature, in that it has no tail stroke."

Characteristic "e's."

"Both 'e's' in 'Meyers' have the same characteristics as the 'e's' in 'Helen' of the Berroyer signature

The signature of "Helen Berroyer" on the 1928 operation permit did not show so many similar characteristics, when compared to the "Meyers" signature as the one of the 1928 clothes list, Becker said, but it still was similar enough for him to state his opinion it was written by the same person who wrote "Helen Meyers."

Only Similarity Is Slant.

Comparing authenticated signatures of the former Mrs. Thomasson with the "Helen Meyers" writing, Becker said, "The only similarity I find at all is in the slant."

"The outstanding difference is in the form of the 'e's', most of which have an open loop in the Thomasson writing, while they are closed in the 'Meyers' signature," he continued. "Also, the small 'n' differs sharply in construction of the middle stroke—in 'Helen' it makes a sharp curve to the left and in the 'e's' it is either straight or curved slightly to the right."

"The terminal letters, 'e' in Grace and 'n' in Thomasson, show a reduced pressure, whereas the ending stroke in Meyers shows increased pressure. The 'y' are decidedly different in the top stroke of the yoke as well as in the middle."

"The Thomasson writing generally tends to follow the guide line better than the 'Meyers', and it also has a more rounded character throughout."

Snow in Western Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 22.—Northwestern Kansas today had the second snow of the season, which threatened a heavy freeze for tonight. Light snows were reported falling this morning at Goodland and St. Francis. In the Black Hills of South Dakota six inches of snow fell yesterday on Hartney Peak, the highest point in the Hills.

If you aren't 'collar-conscious' new fall shirts will make you so!

Until recently about the only requirement of a shirt collar was that it fit comfortably. Today the collar must not only fit perfectly, it must have authentic style—for if the collar isn't right the shirt isn't right. The collars on the shirts shown below were sponsored by three of the best dressed men in the world. Wear them knowing they're correct in every way!

The Duke of Kent WIDE-SPREAD BUTTON-DOWN COLLAR Shirt

The Earl of Sefton REGULAR BUTTON-DOWN COLLAR Shirt $200

One of Britain's most famous sportsmen introduced this collar! You'll see it everywhere on well-dressed men like its easy informality and practicality. You'll find it here on handsome shirts of cheviot and oxford in distinctive stripings — $200

PLOT OF INSANE CONVICTS TO ESCAPE IS FRUSTRATED

Officials at Kansas State Prison Find Weapons and Bombs; Inmates Planned to Kill Guard.

LANING, Kan., Oct. 22.—Details of a plot by inmates of the Kansas State penitentiary planned to kill a guard with pistols made way through a wall to freedom, were disclosed today by Deputy Warden E. M. Stubbfield.

The plot was frustrated, Stubbfield said, with discovery last Friday of two crude pistols and ammunition, several bombs with fuses and a quantity of explosives which inmates had manufactured. Two men, H. S. Kile, 34 years old, serving 5 to 15 years for grand larceny, and Charles Luster, 25, under long term for first degree robbery, were placed in solitary confinement as leaders of the plot.

It was the second escape plot uncovered by prison officers in recent weeks. Recently, five prisoners were placed in solitary confinement after discovery of their plan to tunnel their way to freedom.

$15,000 LITERARY CASH PRIZE

Bross Foundation Award for Best Book on Humanities.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—An international literary contest for a cash prize of $15,000 was announced today by Herbert McComb Moore, president of Lake Forest College, on behalf of the Bross Foundation. The prize will be awarded Jan. 1, 1940, for the best book or manuscript heretofore unpublished "on the connection, relation and mutual bearing of the humanities, the social sciences, the physical sciences, the biological sciences, or any branch of knowledge with and on the Christian religion." The award will be made every 50 years under a foundation established at Lake Forest College in 1870 by William Bross in memory of his son, Nathaniel. William Bross was a former Lieutenant-Governor of Illinois, a trustee of Lake Forest, and a co-founder of the Chicago Tribune.

JONES REPLIES "I DON'T KNOW" OR "DON'T RECALL" TO MANY QUESTIONS

SAYS HE WAS NOT NEGOTIATOR FOR EITHER OF BABIES

no, without qualification, to a question whether "Mr. and Mrs. X" actually lived in Memphis, as he had said they did, he replied that he could not, that he had seen them twice in St. Louis, and once had dinner with them in a Memphis hotel.

Asked whether he would swear that these people were the ones who got Anna Ware's baby and that the baby was now in their custody, he said he would not.

He declared that when he made the arrangements for Anna Ware to come to St. Louis to have her baby, with the understanding it was to be adopted by his "clients," he had been told she was about 22 years old. "If I had known she was a 19-year-old girl, I would never have sent her a (railroad) ticket or a dime," he said.

Mrs. Madge Hill of Detroit. Jones testified that a woman with whom he took Anna Ware for an automobile ride before the birth of her child, and whom Anna has identified as Mrs. Muench, was a Mrs. Madge Hill "a lady who lived in Detroit and had relatives in the South."

The witness testified that he did not know how to get in touch with his companion of the automobile ride and suggested there was no way to do so except possibly to wait until she got into town and called him up. She did that sometimes, he said.

The point about which Jones gave this strange testimony had been made particularly significant by Anna Ware's statement that the woman identified by her as Mrs. Muench had asked if she had red hair, and had put other questions about her personal appearance, so that she assumed the woman was the prospective foster mother of her son.

Jones testified at yesterday's session that Mrs. Grace Caroline Thomasson Diefenbach was "the nurse" in both the Ware and Price babies. He said he had been offering for three weeks to sell to the Post-Dispatch a sprightly narrative of the great baby drama, with herself in the important role of "the nurse." She offered no proof of her statements, however.

Jones Returns to Stand. Jones was recalled to the witness stand at 10 o'clock this morning as Commissioner Limbaugh convened court for the sixth day of the hearing on the habeas corpus suit.

The first questions of counsel for the petitioner were directed toward an attempt to get Jones to amplify his story, told yesterday, of his procurement of the Price baby, central figure in a baby episode preceding the Ware case.

Jones, who had testified glibly for two hours yesterday in answer to all questions save those touching on the identity of "Mr. and Mrs. X," frequently took refuge today in such answers as "I don't know" or "I don't remember," as the examination proceeded.

Barker's first question was a request to the witness to take up the thread of the story about the Price baby, where it had been dropped yesterday. Jones responded that he could only answer questions, that he had "no story to tell."

"I Don't Know." Barker then asked him on what day of July he took the Price baby from the home of Miss Christine Krout, 1429 Hill terrace, where the child's mother, Estelle Oberg, was recuperating from childbirth) to the Muench home, and from the Muench home to Jewish Hospital. "I don't know," the witness replied.

"Assuming that the Jewish Hospital records are correct, showing the baby was admitted for treatment on July 11, then on what day was it?" My recollection is that it was the same afternoon or evening."

Asked if he had not taken the baby to the Muench home on the preceding day, July 10, Jones refused to commit himself, saying it could have been any day in early July, but that his recollection was that it was the day on which the baby was taken to the hospital.

Dr. Aaron Levy, baby specialist who was called to the Muench home by Dr. Muench on the afternoon of July 11 to treat the child, had quoted Dr. Muench in his testimony as saying it had been there on the day before. Apparently referring to this testimony, counsel asked Jones if he had seen Dr. Levy on July 11, when Dr. Levy had testified, he was there. Jones replied that he had never seen Dr. Levy anywhere.

Doesn't Recall "Anything Definite." Asked if he had not stated to a newspaper reporter on Sept. 8 that it was 9 or 10 o'clock at night when he took the Price baby to the Muench home, he answered that he didn't recall telling the reporter "anything definite."

"I don't remember," was his reply when he was asked if Mrs. Jones testified that she had seen the baby in the Muench home, he said he knew nothing about it.

Questioning Jones

HARRY C. BARKER, counsel for Anna Ware.

Grace Thomasson Diefenbach, whom he named as having helped him with the Price baby, had gone into the Muench home with him.

"I don't recall," was his answer when he was asked if he had told Anna Ware that the persons who were to adopt her child intended to take it to Jewish Hospital.

"Did you have any conversation with Mrs. Muench about the Price baby while you were at her home?" "I don't recall any when the baby was brought in."

"Did you carry the baby in your arms?" "I don't remember. What's the significance of that?" "Did you carry the baby out?" "I don't remember."

"At first," Jones continued, "when I entered the Muench house, I have no recollection of seeing Mrs. Muench or talking to her, or whether she was there. The Doctor took the child into a room and put it on a little perambulating table of some sort, striped and examined it. He told me the thing that worried me, the infection that covered the head and neck, was impetigo, and that the baby was emaciated."

"On my second visit, the Doctor was not there, and Mrs. Muench said the child was dangerously sick, and that they had called Dr. (Aaron) Levy, and were going to send the child to the Jewish Hospital—that Dr. Levy was the best baby specialist in St. Louis. Up to that time, I didn't know where I was going to take the child."

"I had told them the mother was poor and the baby was sick, and she had no one to help her."

All for a Sick Child. "Did you tell them your interest in the baby?" Jones was asked. "I don't know whether I did or not," he said. "The child was sick, and you don't sit down and talk over private affairs when you have a sick child to care for."

"Why did you take it to the Muenches?" Dr. Muench had treated patients for me before—charity patients."

"Was this a charity patient?" "It turned out that it was."

"The child," Jones continued, "cost my clients $50 more than I had said it would. I turned the money over to the mother's big sister (Christine Krout) and she kept all the money."

"Did you tell Dr. Muench to hire a baby doctor expert?" "No, but I was glad he did."

"Did you tell him to send the baby to the hospital as a private patient?" "No, of course not. I didn't know it was done."

"The testimony shows it was done," said Attorney Barker. An objection followed, which the Commissioner overruled, saying he could determine what was in the testimony.

To further questions about the hospital arrangements, Jones said: "Let me answer and save time. I made a deposit at the hospital that took care of practically all the expenses of the baby while there."

"Where did that come from?" "Out of my pocket."

"Your own money?" "Yes. I did not bill my clients for it."

Says Muenches Were Not Clients. Barker then asked Jones: "Have Dr. or Mrs. Muench, since last April, ever given you any money for any purpose whatever?" "I'll go farther than that," Jones replied. "They never gave me any money in their lives. They were not my clients. I never sent them a bill, and they couldn't owe me any money."

Jones was asked if he had advised his "clients" that the Price baby was ill. He said he had not, that Mrs. Diefenbach had told him she would attend to that. Asked if he was instructed to get another baby after the death of the Price baby, he said that Mrs. Diefenbach told him "they" wanted to go ahead with it, but that nothing was done until Mrs. Rebecca Winner, the

What the "Head Man" Said.

When asked about a visit to the office of the St. Louis Star-Times, the witness, who had been slouching in his chair, straightened up and replied angrily:

"I was escorted to the Star office and threatened. It was said I would be run out of town and disbarred if I didn't give them an exclusive story. They said they had me on the spot and if I didn't give them a story within 48 hours they would have me run out of town and disbarred."

"Who said I, I want to know?" asked Barker. "The head man said it," replied Jones. "I thought it was a large order from an editor. He claimed he knew the facts and the influence to do it."

"Did you say you'd give him the story?" "No. I had no story to sell."

At this point, after respondents' counsel entered an objection, the Commissioner remarked that he was "very impatient with the way the case is dragging along," but overruled the objection.

"Did you offer to sell any part of your story if the names of the Muenches were eliminated?" was Barker's question.

"The story," the witness replied heatedly, "wouldn't be worth a nickel if their names were eliminated, and you know it. I wouldn't sell any story about my law practice anyhow."

"Would you tell what you know if the Muenches would consent?" "I wouldn't tell unless my clients asked me to."

"That doesn't answer the question. If the Muenches would consent would you tell?"

"The action of Dr. and Mrs. Muench would not influence me one way or the other in this case. They are not my clients, and do not, control me, and I do not control them."

Where Jones Was Sunday Night. Jones, asked where he was last Sunday night and until 3 a. m. yesterday, said he was at Attorney Barker's home.

"Did you go to the home of Mrs. Muench, his own home and a friend's home. Asked if he went to the Park Manor Hotel, he said he did, to see whether Mrs. Grace (Thomasson) Diefenbach was there or had checked out, and that he did not see her. He was knocked out of the hotel at about 11 o'clock, and he did not get out of the fifth floor of the hotel, though Mrs. Diefenbach had been occupying a room on the sixth floor.

"Listen, Mr. Barker," Jones demanded, "who's giving you this information?" He said he knocked on the door of Mrs. Diefenbach's room, and got no answer.

"Did you go to the Muench home?" "Yes," Jones replied, "to meet Mr. Ed Keating (State Representative Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City, lawyer for Mrs. Muench) who was the first time I had seen him since June. We talked about many things, little about this case."

Says He Didn't Get Witnesses. Barker, reminding Jones of his statement that he never represented the Muenches, asked if he represented them in any way pending Mrs. Muench's recent trial at Mexico on the charge of kidnapping, of which she was acquitted. He replied in the negative.

"Did you get any witness for them at the change of venue hearing (held at Clayton in June)?" "I didn't get any; I think some names were talked over. At that time, that case was being discussed like this one now; people were talking on street cars."

"You were not paid by them?" "Oh, no, no, no. There were witnesses subpoenaed that I know like I know you."

"Did you help get them?" "No." "Are you familiar with the adoption laws of Tennessee?"

"When you discussed this adoption matter with Mr. and Mrs. X, at Memphis, and set out to get a baby for adoption, did you agree not to disclose the name or address of your clients?"

"They asked me if I could do it without disclosing the name or address, and I said yes."

"Why?" "So they wouldn't be bothered."

"Clients' Desire for Secrecy." Jones then repeated previous statements as to the desire of his "clients" for secrecy. This matter, he said, he discussed with them at least three times, once at a Memphis hotel, the name of which he did not give, and twice at his home on McCausland avenue.

"The first suggestion," he said, "was a year and a half ago, when they wanted to adopt Mrs. Thomasson's 3-year-old daughter, for which a boarding-out was sought. (Mrs. Thomasson) would not consent, nor would the father. He said his 'clients' were not acquainted with Mrs. Thomasson Diefenbach, except through this incident."

What Jones Told "Clients." "Did you tell your clients, 'Mr. and Mrs. X,' that you could get a baby for them without disclosing their name and address, and if so, just what you told them?" "I told them—I told them—the witness began after a long pause. His counsel went to the rescue with an objection, but it was overruled.

Jones then gave a long and rambling statement, the sum of which was that he told his "clients" if they employed a lawyer to get a baby, the lawyer would not have to tell the facts in court. Asked what he intended to do about the formalities of adoption, the lawyer replied that he did not know whether the baby was to be adopted in Tennessee or Missouri.

"You never did have any clients living in Memphis, Arkansas, or where you were to get a baby—are you in a position to answer that yes or no?" "No, I am not in position to answer yes or no. I saw these people once in St. Louis on their way to Memphis and once while they were on their way to Chicago. Once I had dinner with them in a Memphis hotel."

"Do you swear that these people who lived in Memphis, in Memphis and later in Chicago, are the ones who got the Ware baby and that the baby is now in their custody?"

"No, I will not swear. I will only swear to what I see. I could tell you what I think, but I won't."

"Never mind what you think," counsel rejoined, but the Court, on objection of respondents' counsel to Barker's remark, told him to proceed.

Jones' Conference With Barker. "The only thing is that I told you I would do everything I could in an endeavor to get this girl's baby back," Jones said, directing his remarks to Barker. "I told you the people who had it had put out quite a lot of money, had cared for the baby and learned to love it. This child must get their consent. I told you this could be done without court procedure and I was willing to undertake it without compensation."

"Do you refer to a conference at the home last Sunday?" Barker asked.

"The object was to get this case out of court and get this girl's baby back," Jones continued, after indicating by a nod that he meant the Sunday conference. "The editor of your newspaper, the paper that employed me, wanted a conference. I had with my counsel at his house and suggested this case could be settled."

"He said it was hurting them and they were losing money in it and he wanted to know if we couldn't stop this and get the baby back. I said they would have to give me time—I didn't know what the situation was."

"I said we would have to arrange it so these people would not be exposed or humiliated. He asked me if I would talk to you, I didn't know where you lived, but he got into my car and drove all around South St. Louis and finally wound up at your house. I told you I didn't think these people would come into court and give the baby back."

Jones said he told Barker at the conference he doubted "his people" would come into court because of the publicity that would result.

"How Would Anna Be Served?" "I asked you, didn't I?" Barker began a question. Jones interrupted and said, "There was no question asked. The matter was discussed mutually with Mr. Benesch (Aaron Benesch, city editor of the Star-Times). Here's what we discussed:

"How would Anna be sure the baby offered to her was hers?" "I had told you that she said she would recognize it and I had said the baby would be returned by the same person who took it away."

"I said if Anna said the baby was not hers, you could go ahead with this suit, and I said also, if Anna said she was satisfied, you would drop the suit, and I said, 'I don't think so, maybe I did.'"

Barker then referred to a letter written by Dr. Muench to Jones about Aug. 28 after Anna had written her mother she was discontented and that she intended to use all the money she obtained from the Gordons to get her baby back.

"Does that indicate Anna was satisfied with the arrangements?" "I thought it was a good thing for her to give up her baby."

"You think it is good advice to any unwed mother to tell her to give her baby up?" "Provided she gives it up to good hands."

Jones then continued to address himself to Barker, saying: "Mr. Barker, this is not a Court of Domestic Relations case. You filed a habeas corpus suit against me, the Muenches and others requiring me to produce Anna Ware's baby. I can't produce it. You know I can't. You say I control Dr. and Mrs. Muench. Introduce some evidence to show that."

"Now Mr. Jones," Barker broke in, "you know where this baby is. You are the one man who knows all about it."

Barker was interrupted by an objection. A 10-minute recess then was taken.

Signatures and Photographs. When testimony was resumed after the recess, Barker did not repeat the question asked before the recess, and not answered by Jones, if he knew the present whereabouts of Anna Ware's baby. Instead, Barker showed Jones purported photographs of the signature of Mrs. Grace Caroline Thomasson-Diefenbach. One of these was on a check; another, written last month, was on a registration card of the Windsor Hotel; also four purported photographs of Mrs. Diefenbach.

Jones said one of the pictures resembled Mrs. Diefenbach, and that some of the writing was like hers, but he could not be sure. The hotel signature was in the name of Jane Putney, the name Putney being that of a former husband of Mrs. Diefenbach.

Jones said he visited Mrs. Diefenbach at the Windsor several times, but did not know what name she was registered there.

Wayne Law, assistant manager of the hotel, was called to the stand and said Mrs. Diefenbach lived there Sept. 22 to 30, under the names of Mrs. Jane Putney and Miss Jane Trammey. He was asked by Jones if reporters hung about the place, and if he knew of reporters for the Star-Times getting into Mrs. Diefenbach's room in her absence. He said he had not heard of such an occurrence.

Anna's attorney then handed Jones the Jewish Hospital clothes slip bearing the name "Helen Meyers" which was signed by the woman who, with him, took the Price baby to the hospital. This woman has been identified in court as Mrs. Helen Berroyer, friend of Mrs. Muench and a respondent. "I'll ask you," the attorney said, "whether this is in Mrs. Thomasson's writing."

"The 's' and the 'n' are similar," stated his persuasion that Mrs. Gordons was Anna's agent, not his.

Letter to Mrs. Gordons.

"I wrote Mrs. Gordons," Jones said, "and told her I wanted Anna and if she wasn't satisfied, she could go right back. When Anna arrived, she was satisfied. It was Mrs. Gordons' own arrangement."

Barker quoted, from a letter of Mrs. Gordons to Jones, the statement that, after her arrival in St. Louis, "Anna wrote me a very discontented letter," and complained of having been questioned as to the child's father was.

"I questioned her as to the kind of man he was," Jones said, "and Anna, in an open and friendly way, said he was an American, about 26, married to a woman older than herself who had a child by a previous marriage. She was very much in love with him. This child was not the result of force—it was a love child."

"She (Anna) didn't use those words, but I said to her, 'You must have been very much in love with him,' and she replied, 'Positive, yes.' (She has since stated, in her testimony, that Gordons is the father.)"

Jones was asked whether the matter of adoption papers had been discussed. He said Mrs. Rebecca Winner, Mrs. Gordons' mother, at whose home Anna boarded, talked about an "adoption deed," and that Jones told her there was no such thing in Missouri.

"I did draw up an agreement form," Jones said, "but I didn't ask Anna to sign it, because I learned that she was only 19 years old. Mrs. Winner told me she was about 22. Had I known it was a 19-year-old girl I would never have sent her a ticket or a dime."

Jones said, in reply to a question, that he did not represent Mrs. Gordons or act as her agent.

"Did you intend ever to do anything about adoption papers?" Barker asked.

"I had in mind," Jones answered, "to get her (Anna Ware) to sign her consent but I found she was only 19 and could not legally sign. I told her my client would have to wait until she was 21 or we would have to have a guardian appointed to sign for her."

"I don't think so, maybe." "Did you tell Anna her baby was going to Memphis?" "I don't think so, maybe I did."

Barker then referred to a letter written by Dr. Muench to Jones about Aug. 28 after Anna had written her mother she was discontented and that she intended to use all the money she obtained from the Gordons to get her baby back.

Jones answered, and the 'y' and the 'e' are similar.

"I want to say this," Jones continued, "I never saw her write 'Helen.' I cannot qualify as a handwriting expert. I did not see her sign this, I did not hear her ask to sign it, and I was not informed that she had signed it. I want to say that I have seen the handwriting of Mrs. Thomasson over a period of about five years and that there is a variance at times in the style in which she writes."

Jones said that while Estelle Oberg, mother of the Price baby, was recuperating from childbirth he had taken her for an automobile ride, but declared he did not recall stopping near a house in St. Louis and pointing it out to her as the home where her child would have lived had it not died. Miss Oberg had made a statement that he had done so, in an interview at Minneapolis with a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Stock-reducing SALE OF CURTAINS

DRAPERIES AND DECORATIVE FABRICS

Starts Wednesday

10 A. M.

Because individual groups are relatively small and values so sensational, we've delayed the opening from 9 to 10 A. M. to give busy home-makers an extra hour's grace to get down here for the very beginning of the sale. There's a reason for these "unheard of values" right at the start of the season: we decided to clean house and take drastic markdowns now instead of spreading them through the season. Take advantage of this unusual opportunity... be here at 10 A. M. ... and save substantially!

QUESTIONS

except to wait for her to get in touch with me."
No Way to Reach "Mrs. Hill."
Jones said he knew of no way to get in touch with "Mrs. Hill," except to wait for her to get in touch with him.
He was asked if he had told Julius Klein, reporter for the Star-Times, that the woman in the automobile was Mrs. Laura Etta Williams. He said he had not, and then went on to tell how Mrs. Williams' name entered the conversation. Mrs. Williams, a divorcee, who lives at 5132 Cates avenue, has been subpoenaed as a witness.
"Klein had been offering me $100 for an interview with the woman in the car," Jones said. "He told me Anna Ware had identified Mrs. Muench as the woman. I told Klein I knew four women in St. Louis that resembled Mrs. Muench, and that two were clients of mine, one of them Mrs. Williams. She has red hair and is good-looking."
Jones testified, in response to a question that he had not seen Mrs. Williams since the middle of July until he saw her yesterday in the lobby of the courthouse.

Route and Stops on Auto Ride.
Asked to tell the route taken on the automobile ride with Anna Ware and "Mrs. Hill," Jones said they had driven over Delmar boulevard, De Baliviere avenue and Union boulevard before going to Forest Park where they stopped on Art Hill, hoping to find a breeze because it was a hot night. Leaving the park, he said, they had driven over Skinker boulevard to Delmar, out to Hanley, and then back over Delmar.
Anna's attorney inquired whether, during the course of the ride they had met a man. Jones said that on some street, the name of which he could not recall, "Mrs. Hill" had asked him to stop, saying she had some friends there and wanted to let them know she was in town. She walked away and was gone about three minutes, he said. When she returned, he added, she was followed by a man, who waved to her as she got back in the car.
Jones said the woman held some conversation with Anna in the automobile, but he explained he was deaf in the right ear and could not hear what was said.
They stopped three times, he said, once on Art Hill, and once when the woman met the man. The third time he did not mention then, but presumably it was a stop on Delmar boulevard for root beer which he had mentioned previously.
There was some perfunctory conversation during the stop on Art Hill, Jones said, the woman asking the usual polite questions about whether Anna had been to St. Louis before and how she liked it.
At this point it was 1:05 p. m. and an hour's recess was taken for lunch.

STRIKING LONGSHOREMAN KILLED IN FIGHT IN TEXAS

Non-Union Workers and Band of Men Clash at Port Arthur; Four Severely Beaten.
By the Associated Press.
PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Oct. 22.—Etienné Christ, a striking longshoreman, was shot to death yesterday in a fight between non-union workers and a band of men. Christ, who officers thought was a picket, was found shot about 300 feet from the Texas Co. terminal road.
A short time before men thought to be strike pickets pulled four non-union men out of a box car and beat them severely. The non-union workers were being transported by shippers to the Texas Company terminal.

ABE SHUSHAN DEFENSE RESTS UNEXPECTEDLY

Ally of Late Senator Long Fails to Take Stand as Announced.

By the Associated Press.
NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—The defense of Abraham L. Shushan, charged with evading $71,000 income taxes over a period of five years, was closed suddenly today, taking both prosecution and spectators by surprise.

The announcement that the defense rests was made by Hugh M. Wilkinson, chief counsel, who previously had said Shushan, president of the New Orleans Levee Board and political ally of the late Senator Huey P. Long, would take the stand in his own defense. He was not called.

The defense's case was concluded with the testimony of M. Karger, New Orleans night club operator, who said the defendant had lost money at his gambling casino during the five years covered by the indictment, 1929 to 1933, inclusive. Chief Prosecutor Amos W. W. Woodcock declined to say whether the Government would offer any rebuttal testimony.

When the defense resumed presentation of its case today, the thirtieth of the trial, many witnesses were called to testify about expenditures by the defendant in behalf of the organization.

The defense is trying to show that large sums which the Government charged flowed into Shushan's hands from the Standard Dredging Co. of New York and which it is charged he did not report in his income tax returns for the years 1929-1933, inclusive, were political contributions and were received as the fiscal agent for the Long organization.

Milda Weber testified she was in charge of the records of the New Orleans Municipal Auditorium, and that her books showed the auditorium was rented by Shushan on two occasions in 1930 for speeches by Senator Long. She said Shushan paid $1000 for each speech.

Edward Burke, president of the Second Ward Louisiana Democratic Club, testified he got money for campaign expenses in his ward during every election in the period covered by the indictment. All told he said he received $2475 during the five years, in allotments ranging from $100 to $450. He said Shushan made all the payments in cash and that no records were kept of the transactions.

Simon Palanque, Third Ward leader of the Louisiana Democratic Association, testified he had got campaign funds from Shushan for the major elections, and fixed the total amount for the five years in question at $6400.

DAINTER, 32 years old, who died Saturday night of a skull fracture, suffered, police were told, when he was beaten on the head with a nightstick by a policeman after he refused to stop playing a mouth harp on a street corner at 2:30 o'clock in the morning. An open verdict was returned by Coroner's jury yesterday.

LAUNDRY TRUCK SET AFIRE WHILE DRIVER IS ABSENT

Damage Estimated at $150 Laid to Labor Trouble by Company Manager.

A truck of the Superior Laundry Co., 1745 South Eighteenth street, was damaged by fire today while the driver was making collections at 4954 West Pine boulevard. Firemen detected the odor of coal oil and found pieces of a glass jar in the back of the truck. Damage was estimated at $100 to the truck and $50 to the contents. The driver, Andrew Elder, 5450 Neosho street, told police he did not belong to the drivers' union, now on strike at some laundries. Harold Milligan, manager of the laundry, laid the damage to labor trouble.

TOM MOONEY INQUIRY AT PORTLAND, ORE.

Two Say Principal State Witness Had Bad Reputation for Veracity.

By the Associated Press.
PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 22.—Frederick L. Shaw, 71-year-old cattleman of Durkee, Ore., and his son, Leonard A. Shaw, 31, testified yesterday that the late Frank C. Oxman, principal witness against Thomas J. Mooney in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness day bombing trial, had a bad reputation for veracity.

The character testimony by the Shaws concerning their neighbor rancher was ruled admissible by Referee A. E. Shaw at the conclusion of a hearing on Mooney's habeas corpus petition before the California Supreme Court.

Counsel for Mooney, convicted of murder in the bombing and serving a life sentence, meanwhile asked the United States Supreme Court in Washington to reconsider its recent refusal to review his conviction.

Recently found communications between C. M. Fickert, who as San Francisco District Attorney obtained the conviction of Mooney, and William Frank Woods, who was railroad station agent at Durkee at the time of the 1916 explosion, were identified by Woods, who now lives in Portland. He admitted writing a letter to Fickert stating that Woods knew a man who witnessed the bombing and would "put you in touch with this party for $2500."

Only evidence or testimony purporting to show that Mooney was convicted on perjured evidence or that evidence which would have been helpful to him was suppressed by the State is being admitted in the habeas corpus proceedings.

Woods, interrogated concerning Oxman's testimony and other versions of the bombing, replied: "Well, it looked like perjury to me."

Oxman testified at Mooney's trial that he saw Mooney and others place a suitcase at the scene of the explosion.

Mooney's counsel contends Oxman was in Woodland, Cal., at least the morning of the explosion when Woods recalled receiving for Mrs. Oxman at Durkee a telegram from Oxman at Woodland, 90 miles from San Francisco.

The hearing will be continued tomorrow at Cheyenne, Wyo.

Joseph de Luca, Band Master, Dies.
By the Associated Press.

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 22.—Joseph de Luca, 47 years old, band director and composer, died here last night. He had been connected with the University of Arizona music faculty since 1928. A native of Rome, he made his first American appearance as a member of Pryor's band and later was a soloist with John Philip Sousa.

Four, Injured in Plane Crash, Wed

EMPLOYEES of Miss Ruth Nichols, who were hurt yesterday when a 20-passenger plane fell at Troy, N. Y., and caused the death of the co-pilot and serious injury of Miss Nichols, married a few hours later. From left: RAY HAINES, Atlanta, Ga., and his bride, the former Nena Berkenheiser; GLADYS, a sister, and her husband, WILLIAM HOLT, also of Atlanta.

RUTH NICHOLS' PILOT DIES OF CRASH INJURY

Harry Hublitz Succumbs in Hospital—Woman Flyer Seriously Hurt.

By the Associated Press.

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Federal and state investigators sought to determine today why a 20-passenger air liner crashed, killing the pilot and seriously injuring Miss Ruth Nichols, noted woman pilot, yesterday. Capt. Harry Hublitz, 42 years old, a veteran flyer, died last night in a hospital of burns and injuries suffered when the plane fell as it took off for Florida.

Miss Nichols is in a hospital but physicians said she has a "better than even" chance to recover. She suffered fractures of the left wrist, ankle and nose, contusions and burns.

"Miss Nichols has reacted from her injuries and the shock has about disappeared," doctors said at noon. "There is no evidence of internal injuries and her fractures are reduced."

Four employees—two men and two women—were treated for less severe hurts and last night had a double wedding in a hotel here. They had planned to be married in the air over New York City. Hublitz was at the controls of the plane, owned by Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flyer, when it took off for New York.

With Miss Nichols as co-pilot, the plane had been used in Troy for a week for passenger rides. Ten per cent of the proceeds were given to charity.

Miss Gladys Berkenheiser was married to Ray Haines, Miss Nichols' mechanic, and her sister, Nena, became the bride of William Holt, ticket taker on the tour. All four were in the plane and had planned to be married last night in the air over New York City.

Describes Down Current of Air. Testifying at an inquest today Haines described a downcurrent which drove the ship into a tall elm just as Capt. Hublitz and Miss Nichols, who was in the co-pilot's seat, appeared about to accomplish a safe landing with one motor crippled.

"We took off from the airport and were up 1500 feet," Haines testified. "Everything seemed working fine. Then the left engine popped and sputtered and went out."

"Capt. Hublitz said: 'We won't try to go on with one motor. We'll go back.' He was making a wise approach when the bottom fell out of everything. Two hundred feet off the ground a down draft caught us. Hublitz fought with the controls to save the plane. So did Ruth. But the wind threw us into the tree."

"Is it possible to land a big plane on only one motor?" Coroner Walter Healey asked.

"Certainly. I have done it many times," Haines said. "Hublitz was doing a very nice piece of work, but we had 440 gallons of gasoline in the wings, and it was a tough job bringing her in with that load."

MURDER NOT AN 'ACCIDENT'

Widow of Man With Police Record Denied Double Indemnity.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Oct. 22.—The murder of a man with a police record, the Colorado Supreme Court held yesterday, is not "accidental" insofar as life insurance definitions are concerned.

The ruling reversed a Denver District Court decision which had awarded to Mrs. Nettie G. Roma, widow of Joe P. Roma, double indemnity on a $2000 insurance policy issued to her husband by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Roma was murdered in 1933.

COTTON MILL STRIKE ENDS

2100 Employees Return at Salem and Peabody, Mass.

By the Associated Press.

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 22.—A 10-week strike of 2100 employees of the Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co. here and in Peabody was settled last night. J. Foster Smith, company agent, announced, and workers will return at their old wage scale.

Employees walked out of the Pequot mill here and the affiliated Danvers bleaching at Peabody, after demanding wage increases of 25 per cent. Officials of the Naumkeag company proposed they return at pay reductions averaging 11 per cent. Smith said the employees and company officials agreed to submit the books of the mills to an audit by an agent of the State Board of Labor and Industry, and abide by his decision as to whether the company's financial condition necessitated wage cut.

It's our family's whiskey, neighbor—and neighbor, it's your price!

HARRY JR. AGAIN

Here's a pretty good likeness of me and Harry Jr. together just a few yards from our front gate.

That's Harry Jr. leaning over me. I've been in the distilling business some 40 odd years, and I never laid eyes on a finer distiller than Harry—even if he is my own boy.

Harry E. Wilken, Sr.

It's just like I told Harry Jr.

City folk—Country folk—Rich folk—all are going for our family's whiskey!

Look here, I said to Harry Jr.—folks are pretty much the same when it comes to liking good things. For instance, take us Wilkens that have been spending our whole lives making whiskey. Our own Family's Whiskey tastes grander to us than any other whiskey we ever took a taste of. Well then, it's more than likely it'll taste that much better to other folks, too! And taking it all in all, it appears to have turned out pretty much that way—considering how excited everybody's got over the tastiness of our Wilken Family Whiskey!

TWO LOW-COST HOUSING PLANS
IN ST. LOUIS ARE DROPPEDPWA Office for Obtaining Options for Slum Clearance Projects Closed.

An office of the Housing Division of the Public Works Administration, which was established in the Buder Building, 705 Market street, for preliminary work on two (St. Louis) slum clearance and housing proposals, has been closed.

The development was eliminated from PWA plans in a curtailed schedule approved by President Roosevelt Sept. 26.

About 90 per cent of the property in the area bounded by Tenth, Chambers, Fourteenth and North Market streets had been optioned for the development for white persons, and about 66 per cent for the housing scheme for Negroes, within Fourteenth street, Franklin avenue, Seventeenth street and Olive street. William W. Butts, real estate dealer, had charge of the optioning.

Henry Rosenbrook Jr., 19-year-old nationally known Gardenville (Nev.) trapeze artist, was wounded in the face by a charge from a shotgun.

CranberriesFIRE INSURANCE FIRMS REQUESTED
TO LOWER RATESProposal Made to Concerns Operating in Missouri at Conference With Superintendent O'Malley.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 22.—State Insurance Superintendent R. Emmet O'Malley requested the stock fire insurance companies operating in Missouri to file a reduced schedule of rates for fire insurance in a conference held here yesterday afternoon as a result of the action of the Missouri Supreme Court in rejecting a proposed compromise of suits over a 16-2-3 per cent increase now being collected by the companies. No definite conclusion was reached.

O'Malley said the company representatives made no commitments in the conference, which was an executive one, as to whether they would accept the request. He said they asked for further time in which to submit the matter to the approximately 210 companies engaged in the present rate litigation, which has been in progress more than five years.

No Certainty of Acceptance.
The superintendent said he asked the companies to file the schedule of reductions from the present rate level which they originally had agreed to file, if the compromise was approved by the courts.

He said there was no certainty that the companies would accept, as the proposal does not cover a division of the approximately $11,000,000 in excess premiums, representing the increase, which have been impounded in the rate suits in the Federal and State courts. The compromise called for returning 20 per cent of this amount to the policyholders and splitting up the other 80 per cent among the companies, their agents, lawyers for both the State and companies, court costs, and other purposes, the nature of which have not been publicly disclosed.

The compromise agreement provided for the companies, which were sued last May by O'Malley, granting reductions from the present rate level of 13-2-3 per cent, or 80 per cent of the 16-2-3 per cent increase now being collected. This order, which O'Malley attempted to make retroactive for five years, was intended to justify the 80-20 split-up of the impounded premiums.

Other Provisions.
The agreement further provided that if the compromise, based on the O'Malley order, was approved by the courts, the companies later would file new schedules of rates, which would bring the 16-2-3 per cent increase down to about 8-4 per cent, and that later the companies would reclassify the risks to bring the increase down to about 5-5 per cent.

These rate reduction proposals were a part of the compromise agreement entered into between O'Malley and company representatives last May, but were not set forth in stipulations covering the compromise, which were submitted to the Federal and State courts by attorneys for O'Malley and the companies.

The compromise plans have been rejected twice in the State court case, in which 73 of the companies are seeking a review of an Insurance Department order issued in May, 1930, denying the 16-2-3 per cent increase. The increase was forced into effect June 1, 1930, through injunction suits by the companies.

Circuit Judge Nike Sevier threw the compromise out of Cole County Circuit Court, and held for the policy holders in the review suit, last May. The companies appealed to the Supreme Court and last month submitted the compromise plan to the Supreme Court. The higher court rejected it last Friday.

No Federal Ruling.

The compromise proposal also has been submitted to Federal Court in Kansas City, before which are pending 137 separate suits by as many companies, to enforce the rate increase. The Federal Court has not ruled on the compromise so far.

Rejection of the compromise by the Supreme Court placed the Insurance Department and the companies in the position of having to carry on with the rate litigation on its merits, so far as the State court case is concerned, or to seek some other basis of settlement.

"I am trying to unravel the web the courts have woven around the situation," O'Malley said. "The whole situation is complicated by conflicting court decisions and I am seeking some way to clear it up."

"I called the conference for the purpose of having the companies file new rate levels, which they had agreed to down to the proposed compromise settlement had received the approval of the courts. I took the position that they had admitted that they could write insurance at lower rates than now being charged because of favorable conditions now prevailing.

Company Officials Present.
"I am hopeful that the companies will meet the situation in a manner that will be gratifying to the public, particularly the policyholders."

Company representatives in the conference were R. J. Polonie of Chicago, chief counsel for the companies in the rate litigations; Ho-

BANKHEAD TAX ON COTTON CUT FROM 6 TO 5.4 CENTS A POUNDAAA Sets 10.90 Cents as Selling Price; Exemption Rate
Also Lowered.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—A reduction in the Bankhead cotton ginning tax from 6 to 5.4 cents a pound of lint cotton, effective as of Oct. 21, was announced today by the Agriculture Adjustment Administration. The tax applies on cotton ginned in excess of individual quotas set under the national program. The AAA said 10.90 cents a pound had been determined as the average price of lint cotton "for a representative period."

The law provides the tax shall be 50 per cent of the average market price of 1/8 inch middling spot cotton on the 10 spot markets for a representative period. The tax may not be less than five cents a pound. The AAA also announced a reduction in the sale price of cotton tax exemption certificates from five to four cents a pound. With this reduction, the AAA said the special surplus cotton tax exemption certificate pool has been closed and the regular 1935 national pool will be opened soon. These pools, set up by the AAA, permit a grower who did not produce the full amount of his allotment to sell his tax exemption certificates for the balance.

MEDICAL REPORT AWAITED
IN DEATH OF TEACHERPolice at Leola, S. D., Say Woman Apparently Was Strangled and Attacked.

By the Associated Press.
LEOLA, S. D., Oct. 22.—Police are awaiting medical reports today in the death of Leola Halvorson, 24-year-old Madison, S. D., teacher whose nude body was found in a hotel room Sunday morning.

W. S. Gordon, chief of the State Department of Justice, said investigation indicated she had been strangled and attacked. The teacher arrived here Saturday night. She had an appointment to meet Miss Martha Koppy, teacher Miss Halvorson was to relieve. Miss Koppy told the authorities she went to Miss Halvorson's room at 9 a. m. but noticed nothing unusual.

Returning, she said, she saw Miss Halvorson's body on the floor behind a bed which had concealed it. An inquest was recessed pending examination of the contents of Miss Halvorson's stomach at the University of South Dakota.

ceived by State Department.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The State Department received from the League of Nations last night a voluminous communication outlining the steps it has taken to apply sanctions against Italy and inviting the comment of the United States.

Officials, asserting that the material contained nothing more than an official record of recent events at Geneva, indicated it would not be made public, if at all, until a reply was sent by the American Government.

The formulation of Washington's reply will await the return of President Roosevelt.

mer H. Berger of Kansas City, of company counsel, and P. W. Terry of St. Louis, manager of the Missouri Inspection Bureau, a central rating bureau for the companies. The department was represented by O'Malley, Powell McHaney, department counsel, and Leonard Poor, chief raters.

MAN, THOUGHT VICTIM OF HOLDUP MEN, DIESEast St. Louis Railroad Carpenter Succumbs to Injuries; Found Under Trestle.

John G. Galster, 68-year-old railroad carpenter of East St. Louis, died last night of hemorrhages of the brain and chest, suffered under circumstances which led police to believe he had been beaten in a holdup.

Galster was found unconscious by two Negroes yesterday morning under an abandoned railway trestle at Nineteenth street and Lawrence avenue. Physicians at St. Mary's Hospital found no marks of violence, and were unable to determine the cause of his condition. Police, assuming he had collapsed from illness, were not attracted to the case until this morning, when an autopsy disclosed the hemorrhages and also four crushed ribs.

It was learned that Galster's purse, containing $30 or $40, and his annual railroad pass, was missing from his clothing when he was found. His sons, Fred and George Galster, of Little Rock, Ark., who went to East St. Louis on learning of his death, immediately started an investigation of their own in an effort to trace his movements since he was last seen.

They found a friend of their father, Charles Huskey, 1712 Division street, East St. Louis, who said he last saw Galster about 5:30 p. m. Sunday, leaving a boarding house at 8 North Seventeenth street, with three companions, saying they were going to a tavern nearby. Police are seeking the other men with a view of tracing his movements further.

Galster never regained consciousness at the hospital. Deputy Coroner John Soucy, a physician, said the man "looked as though he had been beaten."

The body will be returned to Little Rock, where Galster resided until a year and a half ago, for burial. Since going to East St. Louis, he had roomed at 1941 Central avenue. The sons said his wife had planned to join him shortly. Surviving also are another son and three daughters.

of his death, immediately started an investigation of their own in an effort to trace his movements since he was last seen.

They found a friend of their father, Charles Huskey, 1712 Division street, East St. Louis, who said he last saw Galster about 5:30 p. m. Sunday, leaving a boarding house at 8 North Seventeenth street, with three companions, saying they were going to a tavern nearby. Police are seeking the other men with a view of tracing his movements further.

Galster never regained consciousness at the hospital. Deputy Coroner John Soucy, a physician, said the man "looked as though he had been beaten."

The body will be returned to Little Rock, where Galster resided until a year and a half ago, for burial. Since going to East St. Louis, he had roomed at 1941 Central avenue. The sons said his wife had planned to join him shortly. Surviving also are another son and three daughters.

ADMINISTRATION FUND FOR MUNICIPAL RECORD WORK

Money for Turning Over Part of Records to Local Governments Disclosed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The National Youth Administration disclosed plans yesterday for giving a large share of its funds to local governments, with directions for full-time municipal employees.

Williams said, however, that most would serve as community playground assistants, 55,000 being scheduled for such recreational activities in cities, and 20,000 in rural sections. There would be 15,000 assisting local governments, and 4000 carrying on "studies in various types of public records."

putting 94,000 young people to work at a variety of tasks. Director Aubrey William invited local governments to submit applications, saying he hoped to have the program going in most states by Nov. 1.
Wages ranging from $6 a month for high school students to $15 for those in college would be paid. Some not attending school also will be employed. The work, to be given students and others between the ages of 16 and 24, would include checking, old municipal records, carrying out censuses of traffic, and otherwise supplementing efforts of full-time municipal employees.

STATE RESTS IN SECOND TRIAL OF EPSTEIN

Herman Cooperman, Brother of Victim Tells of Shooting in Hotel.

The State rested its case today in the second trial of Eugene J.
Epstein, real estate dealer, charged with second-degree murder in the killing of Abe Cooperman, hotel proprietor and Democratic politician.

Following the luncheon recess, Circuit Judge Connor declared another recess so the defense might find its witnesses. Epstein, who took the stand at his first trial, was expected to appear as the final witness for himself.

As at Epstein's first trial last December, when the jury was unable to agree, William Novack, 4117
Washington boulevard, who was Cooperman's chauffeur, was the first witness for the State.

He told of meeting Epstein the night of Jan. 26, 1932, in a drug store across the street from the St. Francis Hotel, Sixth and Chesnut streets, where the shooting took place a short time later. Epstein, he said, told him to tell Cooperman that he would meet him in the lobby of the St. Francis in accordance with a previous arrangement.

Gave Cooperman Message.
Novack said he saw Cooperman
a short time later in the Laclede Hotel lobby and gave him Epstein's message.

Flournoy Harbell, Negro porter at the St. Francis Hotel, told of hearing a shot in the lobby as he sat in an adjoining room. On reaching the lobby, he said, he saw Cooperman lying on the floor, his hands held to his abdomen, while Herman Cooperman, his brother, struggled with Epstein for possession of the revolver.

Herman Cooperman, who gave his address as 518 Chestnut street, and said he was in the cleaning and dyeing business, testified that he had gone to the St. Francis Hotel to return an insurance policy to his brother, explaining that he was an insurance salesman at the time.
Seeing him talking to Epstein in the lobby, he said, he walked to a window and stood with his back toward them until he was attracted by the sound of a shot.

Turning about, he said, he saw his brother on the floor and ran toward Epstein to disarm him. As he struggled with Epstein, a policeman entered and separated them.

Policeman Testifies.
The policeman, Milton A. Poser, who had been directing traffic, told of finding Herman Cooperman beating Epstein, who was on his knees, and taking a revolver identified as Epstein's from Herman Cooperman's hand. In response to questions of defense counsel, which contended at the first trial that Abe Cooperman was armed, Patrolman Poser said he saw no other revolver except the one he took from Herman Cooperman and which was admitted to have been Epstein's.

Epstein, who is 56 years old and resides at 541 Rosedale avenue, pleaded self-defense as his first trial, testifying that he fired only after Cooperman drew a revolver during an argument about $7500 in bonds. The bonds, which he had obtained from Cooperman in connection with the sale of a small hotel, proved to have been stolen, Epstein said, and he had demanded that Cooperman reimburse a brokerage firm to which Epstein had sold $2800 worth.

PROSECUTION ENDS ITS CASE AT FILM CONSPIRACY TRIAL

Final Announcement That Government Rests Held Up Pending Ruling on Admitting Evidence.

Presentation of the Government's case in the movie conspiracy trial was concluded in Federal Judge
Moore's court at noon today.

Final announcement that the Government rested its case in chief was deferred until the Judge could rule this afternoon on a motion by Russell Hardy, Special Assistant Attorney-General in charge of the case, intended to clarify the record.

The trial, in which corporate movie interests of Warner Bros., Paramount and R-K-O and a group of their executives are defendants, is on the charge of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act in withholding films from Fanchon & Mar-co's Ambassador, Missouri and Grand Central theaters.

Hardy's motion requested the Court to admit everything which had been offered in evidence as evidence against all of the defendants, except a conversation between Herman Starr, a Warner executive, one of the defendants, and J. M.
Ulmer, a Cleveland lawyer. This conversation related to an alleged statement by Starr about how Warners obtained control of theaters by buying off equity holders cheaply.

Change in Judge's Rulings.
During the first few days of the trial, Judge Moore sustained objections by counsel for the Paramount and R-K-O defendants to application to their clients of testimony about conversations of Starr and Gradwell Sears, another Warner executive and a defendant, with various witnesses. Later, the Judge announced he had been mistaken in this ruling, and thereafter he overruled such objections. The purpose of Hardy's motion was to offset the early rulings in favor of the Paramount and R-K-O defendants.

The Government, which planned at the start of the trial, Sept. 30, to examine 47 witnesses, called only 22. Sam B. Jeffries, of Warners' counsel, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that there probably would be testimony for the defense, how-much he could not say.

It was taken for granted that the defense would file a demurrer to the Government's case this afternoon, seeking a directed verdict of acquittal, on the ground that no conspiracy had been proven, or, if there was a conspiracy, it was an intrastate matter and not a violation of Federal law.

Records Are Introduced.
Five witnesses, who told of the volume of film production of the five principal picture makers other than the defendants, were heard within 20 minutes yesterday morning. Then the rest of the day was devoted to partially successful attempts of the Government to introduce into evidence various documents and records.

All of these met with a variety of objections from the defense.
While counsel argued over admissibility of the items the jury was excluded. As a result, the jurors spent more than half of the court day outside the courtroom. When they got tired of lounging in the corridor they moved to a file room, where they found chairs.

Contracts by which a Warner subsidiary leased the Shubert and Orpheum theaters last year were introduced. Then Hardy offered a financial statement of Warner Bros. for 1934.

In opposing admissibility of this evidence, former Senator James A.
Reed of Kansas City cited a decision by the United States Circuit of Appeals of this circuit, which went against him in another case several years ago. Reed, representing the Snyder interests of Kansas City, had obtained a $350,000 judgment against Union Electric Light and Power Co. for damage to the Hahatonka development by creation of the Lake of the Ozarks.

"Recalcitrant Witness."
The case, he recalled to Judge
Moore, turned on his examination of a "recalcitrant witness," while introducing facts on the wealth of the electric company, seeking to make the witness admit the company officers could not pledge themselves to do certain things because they did not control the company. The appellate court held that this examination constituted prejudicial and inflammatory error, Reed said. Judge Moore sustained Reed's objection.

Hardy told the Court he offered the evidence of Warners' finances to prove the power of Warners to carry out threats which he declared, had been shown by testimony. In his opening statement to the jury he said the three defendant movie groups had combined assets of $660,000,000 and controlled 48 per cent of the feature films produced annually.

MAN CAPTURED IN PLANT WHEN BURGLAR ALARM SOUNDS

Employee Living Next Door to Ignition Company Knocks Down One of Two Intruders.
When a siren burglar alarm sounded at the Fox Ignition Co., 2815 Washington boulevard, at 7:15 o'clock last night, Carl Pettit, 35, employee of the company living next door, ran into two men running through the yard.
The man carried a small sledge hammer, which Pettit grabbed and used to knock the suspect unconscious. After being revived by police the man, who gave an address in Wellston, admitted that he and a companion broke into the ignition company and were attempting to force an inner office door when the alarm sounded and they fled. He was held.

REVOLTA 3 UP, ARMOUR 2 UP, AT 18-HOLE

AL ZIMMERMAN AND WATROUS TRAIL IN P. G. A. SEMIFINALS

By the Associated Press. OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Oct. 22.—John Revolta of Milwaukee ended the first 18 holes of a 36-hole P. G. A. national tournament semifinal match today 3 up on Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore.

The black-haired Revolta, with a par 35 for the first nine compared with Zimmerman's 38, made the turn 3 up and then saw his lead cut to nothing as the Portland player staged a determined rally climaxed by a birdie deuce on the fourteenth which squared the match. Revolta came back, however, to take three of the next four holes as Zimmerman blew himself to a pair of sixes and a five. Both had 38 coming in, Revolta ending the morning round with a 73, three over par, and Zimmerman carding a 76.

Mist Hampers Players. Tommy Armour of Medinah, Ill., ended this morning round 2 up on Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich. Armour, after a sub-par 34 going out which gave him a 4-up lead on the mythical Watrous, who carded a 38, dropped to a large 41 on the nine. Watrous had a 39 coming in. Armour ended his round with a 75 as Watrous was carding a 77.

The matches were played in raw, biting weather with a chilling mist whipped by a strong breeze making conditions unfavorable for players and spectators. A small gallery braved the elements. Whether he becomes a finalist or not, Zimmerman could lay claim to high honors for he defeated the 1934 P. G. A. champion, Paul Runyan, in a brilliant exhibition yesterday. But it was his opponent of today, Revolta, who disposed of the medalist, Walter Hagen.

The cards:
OUT:
Zimmerman — 444 354 344—35
Revolta — 454 355 344—38
Watrous — 443 364 344—35
Armour — 454 365 345—38
IN:
Zimmerman — 434 334 344—35
Revolta — 435 334 344—38
Watrous — 435 334 344—35
Armour — 435 334 344—35

Fairway shots which floated into traps and heavy rough were responsible for the ballooning of Armour's score from 34 to 41 on the respective nines. Watrous' trouble was on the greens, where he missed chances for wins by miffing comparatively short putts.

"Whoop!" Then "Doggone!" The change in fortunes in the Zimmerman-Revolta match came with dramatic suddenness. Zimmerman, staggered by Revolta's par play on the out nine, began to cut in on the Milwaukeean's lead with a birdie 3 on the tenth.

A 40-foot putt from a difficult stance on the fourteenth brought him his deuce to square the match, the usually stoic-faced youngster following the ball until it plopped into the cup, and then giving vent to his pent-up feelings by throwing his cap into the air and whooping in joy.

The sharp-faced, flashing-eyed Revolta, unperturbed by this turn of events, parred the fifteenth and sixteenth for wins, halved the seventeenth in par, and bagged another par on the eighteenth as Zimmerman pulled his second into a grove and wound up with a flat six.

Flub-a-Dub-Dub! Armour was even par for eight of the nine holes on the out nine and birdied the other. Coming in both he and Watrous flirted with disaster continually. Armour ended up the second with 6-5-5, three over par on the holes.

On the sixteenth Armour flubbed his second to the rim of a ditch, hooked his third into a canyon, and his fourth into a sand trap, and blasted his fifth clear over the green. "That's enough," said the disgruntled Tommy, as he conceded a five. "I could play better than this when I was six years old," he added.

He also found a trap on the seventeenth, but his great recovery was futile as Watrous stroked his par.

Counterfeiting of Admission Tickets Is Charged.

By the Associated Press. OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22.—Dorset Carter Sr., owner of Twin Hills Golf Course, asked county and Federal officers today to investigate what he charged was counterfeiting of admission tickets to the National Professional Golf Association tournament.

Carter said only 300 tickets were sold at the gate yesterday while more than 2000 persons saw the tennis.

Tennis Matches Postponed. The Public High School's tennis tournament was postponed again yesterday. Whenever weather permits, the meet will be continued at over two weeks to get the rounds of play because of postponements.

Error in Mutuels on Kismet. Due to an error in the Associated Press report of the second race at Sportsman's Park yesterday, the prices paid on the winners, Kismet, were given as $48.50 win, $24.70 place and $12.90 show, when they should have been $14.60, $6.20 and $3.20, respectively.

Trimming the Champion—Al Zimmerman Winning P. G. A. Match From Paul Runyan

Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., playing No. 28 at the Twin Hills Golf Club, Oklahoma City, in his match with the defending P. G. A. champion, Paul Runyan. Zimmerman won, 3 and 2, to reach the semifinals.

Football by J. M. Gould

To Pass or Not to Pass.

If you want to find out just how important the pass has become in football attack and scoring, read any week-end accounts of important games and count up the number of those won by means of passing. As a matter of fact, the whole offense of the game has been completely changed by the development of the forward and lateral pass.

Time was, and not so long ago, either, when the pass was used only as a threat to make the opposition open up its defense and make running plays succeed. Touchdown plays were running plays in the main. Now, all that is changed and the running attack seems to have become just a threat to make the passes good.

Gale Bullman, assistant coach at Washington U., knows his football and he has followed the pass and the development of it carefully through many years of connection with the game as a player, college and professional, and coach. So, his views are well worth while. He knows whereof he speaketh, as it were.

"As things are now," says Gale, "you're liable to beat anyone and anyone's liable to beat you. The pass no longer is just a threat or a desperate chance; it's the roving pass that gathers the touchdowns. Did you ever stop to figure that under present conditions a touchdown is often just one throw by an accurate passer?"

Give Don a Big Hand.

EVEN if the Missouri Tigers fail to win another game on their third try, Don Denney, the star of his "new deal" in football must be spotted in the limelight and heartily applauded. The Tigers this year have won all three games they have played. Two of the teams they figured to defeat and the other they figured to lose to. And in the game the Tigers entered as under-dogs, they handed the pre-contest favorites a sound trouncing.

Of course, three games don't make a successful schedule, but three victories for the Tigers is exactly one more than Missouri's record shows FOR THREE PREVIOUS SEASONS! They won one game in 1932, one in 1933 and none at all last year. Why, in the last

Cavarretta Will Not Undergo a Knee Operation

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—CHARLIE GRIMM, manager of the Chicago Cubs, made a hurried trip to Chicago yesterday to halt an operation on one of First Baseman Phil Cavarretta's knees.

Grimm, who came up from his home near St. Louis, did not question the judgment of Cavarretta's doctor, but insisted the operation, for removal of a bit of cartilage, might keep the youngster from action early next season. After a consultation of specialists, it was decided that a rest cure should be tried before resorting to surgery.

The knee caused Cavarretta occasional trouble during the recent season. Grimm banned basketball and other sports from Cavarretta's winter program.

MIKE JACOBS TO AID GARDEN IN PROMOTING TWO LOUIS BATTLES

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Mike Jacobs will be associated with Madison Square Garden in promoting two indoor boxing shows featuring Joe Louis, clouting Detroit heavyweight, it became known today.

Louis' first appearance in the Garden in December will pit the Detroit youngster against Paulino Uzcudun, veteran Basque wood-chopper, for the benefit of the Christmas Fund. His second bout, in March, will be against an opponent yet to be selected, possibly Walter Neusel of Germany.

Under the terms of an agreement that still awaits official approval by the Garden's board of directors, the Garden will take 12 1/2 per cent of the net profits of each of the two shows. The Garden board was to meet later today to give final approval.

In view of the successful end of his negotiations with the Garden, Jacobs said he would abandon his plans to remodel the New York Coliseum, big arena in the Bronx.

The promoter, whose Ross-McLarnin, Louis-Carnera and Louis-Baer bouts outdoors the past summer all were big money-makers, had announced several days ago he would promote boxing at the Coliseum if unable to swing any deal with the Garden.

Although the agreement between Jacobs and the Garden covers only two bouts, boxing observers regarded it as likely to lead to a more or less permanent arrangement, paving the way for a championship meeting next year between Louis and Jim Braddock. Louis is under contract to Jacobs until 1940; Braddock, the champion, is tied up with the Garden.

TEXAS LEAGUE CLUBS MADE MONEY ON YEAR

By the Associated Press. DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 22.—The Texas Baseball League is well in the black.

J. Alvin Gardner, president of the league, has two clubs in Oklahoma and six in Texas, said to be the winners, one other being doled out as likely to lead to a more or less permanent arrangement, paving the way for a championship meeting next year between Louis and Jim Braddock.

BEAR MACHINE NOT THE SAME SINCE IT LOST HARRY BROWN

By J. Roy Stockton.

Washington University's side-line committee, self-appointed after the Illinois defeat and augmented after reverses at the hands of Southern Methodist and Duquesne, is about through with its sweeping investigation and when all the testimony has been given and considered, it is likely that the majority report will have to do with a crying need for an inspirational team leader.

The more the interested observers see of the Bear football team, the more they are inclined to conclude that the graduation of Harry Brown took more out of the squad than anybody expected at the time. And if there is a young man on the Bear squad who has the qualities of a leader, who can coax, cajole or bulldoze a group of football players into rising to the heights, now is the time for him to come to the aid of his alma mater.

What else could be the matter with the Bears? They have the same coach, the brilliant Jimmy Conzelmann, who took the Washington University team to the national championship last year. The same coach who knocked the ninth-grade schools off the schedule and obtained games with Southern Methodist, Illinois, Duquesne and Michigan State. It probably was a foolhardy thing to do. It was helping the school and putting the coach on the spot. It would have been easier to continue the game with pushovers. But Jim couldn't see it that way.

Man Power Satisfactory. Except for Brown there were no serious losses in man power. When Ed "Twelve Jobs" Niehaus graduated, there was the brilliant Al Izzel to play center. And Hobbs, Haffel, Benzing, Lamb, Bowman, Gog, Londe, Locke, Tomlinson, Bertagnelli and the others certainly seemed able to take care of the line.

Joe Bukant joined the backfield squad, and with Zbyovsky, Ozment, Droke, Wimberly, Wolf, Wagner and Huggins, the ball carrying department didn't show signs of decay.

There must be Harry Brown had something. Persons close to the scene of battle say that he did. They tell how Brown barked at his men when they were in a huddle during a battle; how he cajoled them, even berated them for not blocking. He had the Bears on their toes, every man doing his best, rising to an occasion. He was not a great football player, but he made himself one, by making it a team game.

Co-Captains This Year. There is nobody now to bark at the players in a huddle. There are two captains—Mike Zbyovsky and Chick Droke. Perhaps the division of authority has something to do with the Bears' 2-0 record. At any rate, the Bears sorely miss Harry Brown, and Coach Conzelmann admitted last night that he would give all the paper dolls he soon will be cutting up to the eleven individuals.

Jim and his bruised Bears went through a long workout last evening. Players who didn't see action against Duquesne and some of those who did, scrimmaged with the freshmen, and observers wondered if the coach was planning to toughen his second team for the Michigan State game Saturday and save his first string material for the November games.

Several regulars were missing. Zbyovsky was nursing a bruised rib region, and Nate Tutinsky drilled to fill the quarterback position against Michigan State. Les Brungard was on the field, but in uniform, with a new elbow. Bill Wendt was missing, having suffered a compound jaw fracture when he carelessly ran into Duquesne last Friday night.

Don Wimberly still has an injured leg muscle, as Ray Hobbs, out since the Illinois game with a lame leg, is still far from being fit for duty.

It is too early to tell what the Bear lineup will be Saturday afternoon. Conzelmann probably will strive to avoid further injuries, and the athletes who are handicapped by lame muscles probably will not be sent into the fray with the tough Michigan State eleven.

MISS MILNE VICTOR IN WOODLAWN GOLF MEET. Miss Elizabeth Milne was the winner of the Woodlawn Country Club women's fall tournament, concluded yesterday afternoon, with Margaret Milne as consolation winner in the championship flight.

B. H. Lahrman took medalist honors with 98. Class "A" was won by Miss Gertrude Ruhe, Mrs. J. H. Gormley was second and Mrs. W. R. Dickerson was third.

Charles F. Hoyt won Class "B" title, Miss Elizabeth Harrington, second, and Mrs. Fred Schuchof, consolation honors. Ringer awards were shared by Mrs. Lahrman and Miss Elizabeth Milne in the championship flight, while Class "A" went to Mrs. E. Lanz, and Class "B" to Mrs. Hoyt.

BILLIKENS' NEXT FOE HAS SCORED ONLY 26 POINTS IN FIVE GAMES

By James M. Gould.

All available statistics point to an easy game for the St. Louis University Billikens when they play Arkansas State here Friday night. Coach Muellerleile sees his task as one that will keep his team keyed up to Marquette pitch. He fears, perhaps, that there may be a letdown after last Friday's height and he is taking every precaution to guard against it. Probably, he won't order any real scrimmages this week despite the fact that every one of the players who opposed Marquette came out without the slightest injury.

Now, it may be thought that Arkansas State is being underestimated, but the following 1935 record of the team is offered in extenuation of any under-estimation there may be. Here it is:

Southwestern 28, Arkansas State 6. So. Ill. Normal 0, Arkansas State 19. West Tenn. Teachers 9, Arkansas State 19. Tenn. Jr. College 23, Arkansas State 9.

Hendrix 27, Arkansas State 6. So. in five games, State has won two, has scored 26 points and has permitted 80 points by opponents. Considering the class of said opposition, it would seem certain that the thatch of Coach Muellerleile of St. Louis probably will be a mainly by the possible result of the game.

Want to Perfect Plays. Nevertheless, the Billikens will work hard all this week. They have a few plays they want to perfect for the benefit of the Arkansas game, figuring that these plays might come in handy later against a stronger opponent. So, there will be considerable passing for the remainder of the week's practice period, with attention paid to the timing of certain line maneuvers.

The Billikens have, including the Arkansas State game, six to play before completing their 1935 schedule. All but the one with DePaul are at home, and it is at home that Muellerleile's eleven has shown its strongest form.

Against Sewanee, Kinkaid, Missouri Mines and Marquette, the Billikens have made 70 first downs to 29 for the opposition, have completed 15 out of 44 passes for a total of 332 yards, have intercepted enemy hands and have recovered seven of 10 fumbles.

In scoring, at home, 120 points against 27 for the foe, the Billikens have gained the fine total of 110 yards. The eleven has intercepted 40 yards for opponents, less than a quarter-mile. Carl Wood is the biggest individual gainer with 240 yards gained in three games—average of eight yards a try. Louis Drono's average total is 17 yards but his average is 58 yards a try. Charley Harris has the third best average with 66 yards a try.

Shea's Status Doubtful. It probably will be known today definitely whether or not Bob Shea can be depended upon for the game with Arkansas State. Pictures are being taken of Shea's injured wrist and the showing of the pictures will determine his playing. Coach Muellerleile feels there is a need of rushing things in this connection.

Johnny Nunn is rapidly developing into the Billikens' most dependable kicker. He has a fault though—he's rather slow in getting his punts away. He will receive special instruction from Assistant Coach Carl Pike this week.

The old fellows are turning out to help Muellerleile. Conspicuous yesterday's practice was Tom Tierney, a senior, also a punter, and one of the best St. Louis U. ever developed in the position. Tom got into uniform and worked with the linemen all afternoon.

Severid Beats Dizzy to Punch; Calls Off Exhibition Contest. By the Associated Press. SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 22.—Dizzy Dean will not pitch an exhibition game here tonight. Not even for his old army buddies, who gave him the start in baseball that carried him to fame and fortune with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The eccentric pitcher who walked out on exhibitions scheduled last week at Chattanooga and New Orleans, when the receipts were not large enough to suit him, threatened to do likewise here and Hank Severid, former Brownie, who had arranged the game for Tech Field with Randolph Field opposed to the bill for the Ninth, beat Dizzy to the punch. He called the affair off—definitely and finally.

Severid said: "In a telephone conversation with Dean Sunday night at Dallas, he told me to my amazement that this was the first time he had heard of his scheduled exhibition in San Antonio. This seems very strange to me, as I have seven telegrams regarding the game and accepting the date from his booking agent."

"Dean said he was scheduled to pitch Wednesday in Los Angeles and couldn't pitch here tonight and make the coast game, too."

"In view of this uncertain attitude, I felt it wise to cancel our game here. The Army consents to this attitude. I will not knowingly be a party to any games in which

CUBS' RECEIVER GETS 75 POINTS; DIZZY DEAN IS SECOND WITH 66

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Charles (Gabby) Hartnett, veteran catcher of the pennant-winning Chicago Cubs, was voted the most valuable player in the National League for 1935 today by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The announcement was made by James C. Isaminger of the Philadelphia Inquirer, chairman of the Award Committee.

Hartnett, who went to the Cubs in 1922 from Worcester, Mass., has played his entire major league career with the Bruins. He received 75 points against 66 for Dizzy Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals, who ran second, Dean won the 1934 award.

Members of the committee each voted for 10 players, their first choice receiving 10 ballots, second nine, down to one point for the tenth choice.

Five Firsts for Hartnett. Hartnett was first choice of five members of the committee; Dean of two. The only other player who was a first choice was Wally Herman, first baseman of the Boston Braves, who tied for sixth honors with 20 points.

Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh shortstop, was third choice with 45 points. Billy Herman, another Cub, ran fourth with 38 points. Gabby's heavy hitting and brilliant catching was an important factor in the down-the-stretch flag of the Cubs, during which they rolled up 21 straight victories in a 27 game winning streak.

In all, the Award Committee voted on their point score follow: Joe Medwick, St. Louis, 37; Carl Hubbell, New York, 20; Wally Berger, Boston, 20; Bill Terry, New York, 20; Augie Galan, Chicago, 15; Pepper Martin, St. Louis, 16; Hank Leiber, New York, 11; Lon Warneke, Chicago, 9; Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati, 8; Frank Frisch, St. Louis, 7; Cy Blanton, Pittsburgh, 7; J. Moore, Phillies, 5; Ethan Allen, Phillies, 4; Gus Mancuso, New York, 4; Paul Derringer, Cincinnati, 4; Mel Ott, New York, 3; Paul Dean, St. Louis, 2; J. Collins, St. Louis, 2; C. Davis, Philadelphia, 2; and Paul Waner, Pittsburgh; W. Lee, Chicago; Travis Jackson, New York; and Delph Camnitz, Philadelphia, 1 each.

The Honorable Mentions. Players receiving honorable mention were Bill Jurgens, Larry French and Phil Cavarretta of the St. Louis Cardinals; and Virgil Davis of St. Louis; Floyd Herman of Cincinnati; Hal Schumacher and Joe Moore of New York; Sam Leslie, Van Mungo, Tony Cuccinello, Jim Bucher and Al Lopez of Brooklyn; Jimmy Watson, Philadelphia, and Ray Young, Pittsburgh.

Judges Decline To Name Winning Dog as Champion

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Tip's Buffalo Jake, white and black pointer dog owned by Mrs. E. H. Vane Jr., of Philadelphia, handled by W. D. English of High Point, N. C., was first place in the annual running of the National Pheasant dog championship, which was decided here yesterday after two days of competition.

In awarding Mrs. Vane's dog first place, however, the title of champion was withheld, for in the estimation of the judges no dog in the race quite met with approval as a real pheasant dog champion.

Tip's Buffalo Jake was perfect in his work on pheasants, making seven clean points, but in range and other qualities he was slightly deficient. As no other dog out of the 21 starters was able to surpass his heat, first money was awarded to him.

Second went to the pointer, Air Pilot, S. Sam, owned by L. D. Johnson of Evansville, Ind., and third to Bill's Faith, also a pointer, owned by Jay F. Carlisle of East Liverpool, Long Island, New York.

The stake had 21 starters, composed of the classic field of pointers and setters in America. Birds were expected to be plentiful, but the general appearance of the dogs was scarcely championship caliber. The judges were: Dr. T. Benton Kin of Brownsville, Tenn., and E. R. Beetham of Cleveland, O.

GUNNERS WILL PLAY FUTURE HOME GAMES AT SCHOOL STADIUM

Future home games of the St. Louis Gunners professional football team will be played at Public School Stadium, it was announced today by Fred Perry, former director of Frisco Park, formerly Illinois U. star, has been granted permission to lease the field by Board of Education.

Any player who may be of the team will be played at Public School Stadium. The team now under direction of Fred Perry, formerly Illinois U. star, has been granted permission to lease the field by Board of Education.

In five games, State has permitted 89 points by opponents. Considering the class of opposition, it would seem certain that the thack of Coach Muellerleile of St. Louis probably isn't being grayed by the possible result of the game.

Oct. 22.—Dizzy Dean will not pitch an exhibition for his old army buddies, who all that carried him to fame and fortune.

San Antonians may be taking a chance on being duped about the appearance of an advertised player.

Severed said money taken in a good box seat advance sale was being returned.

In the Sporting News, baseball publication, Dean's pitching schedule shows he is not due in Los Angeles until Sunday.

WERNER AND 905 TEAMS TIE IN CORKBALL GAMES

The Werners of the St. Louis Corkballed League and the 905 of the National Corkballed Association played a 6-0 tie after 12 innings of play at Fairground Park in the third game of the series for the city championship. There were 25 hits in the game, but they failed to result in a run.

The Werners own the only decision in the series, having taken the second contest, 1-0, after the opening game was tied, 0-0, after 10 innings. The fourth game of the series will be played next Sunday morning at 9 a. m. at Benton Park.

HARTNETT NAMED "MOST VALUABLE" IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

TOP ROW—That's Just Where He Belongs

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Charles (Gaby) Hartnett, veteran pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, was voted the most valuable player in the National League today by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The announcement was made by James C. Isaminger, of the Philadelphia Inquirer, chairman of the Award Committee.

Hartnett, who went to the Cubs in 1932 from Worcester, Mass., has played his entire major league career with the Bruins. He received 66 points against 66 for Dizzy Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was named second choice.

Members of the committee each voted for 10 players, their first choice receiving 10 ballots, second nine, down to one point for the tenth choice.

Gaby's heavy hitting and brilliant catching was an important factor in the down-the-stretch fight of the Cubs, during which they rolled up 21 straight victories.

In all, the Award Committee voted on 27 players. The others and their point scores follow:

Joe Medwick, St. Louis, 37; Carl Hubbell, New York, 20; Wally Berger, Boston, 20; Bill Terry, New York, 20; Augie Galan, Chicago, 18; Pepper Martin, St. Louis, 16; Hank Sawyer, New York, 11; Lon Warlick, Chicago, 9; Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati, 8; Frank Frisch, St. Louis, 7; Cy Blanton, Pittsburgh, 7; Phil Cavarre, Chicago, 6; Phil Frazier, Chicago, 6; Gus Mancuso, New York, 5; Hal Schumacher and Joe Moore of New York, 3; Sam Leslie, Jim Mungo, Tony Cuccinello, Jim Fisher and Al Lopez of Brooklyn, 2; Phil Nease, Philadelphia, 1; Ray Young, Pittsburgh, 1.

Members of the Award Committee were: Gary Schumacher, New York Evening Journal; Stuart Whitman, Boston Herald; Ben Baumgardner, Philadelphia Inquirer; Thomas Holmes, Brooklyn Eagle; Ed Burns, Chicago Tribune; J. Judges Decline To Name Winning Dog as Champion

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Tip's Manitoba Jake, white and black pointer dog owned by Mrs. E. H. Yare Jr. of Philadelphia, handled by W. C. English of High Point, N. In awarding Mrs. Yare's dog first place, however, the title of champion was withheld, for in the estimation of the judges no dog in the race quite met with approval as a real pheasant dog champion.

Tip's Manitoba Jake was perfect in his work on pheasants, making seven classy points, but in range and other qualities he was slightly deficient. As no other dog out of the 21 starters was able to surpass his best, first money was awarded to him.

Second went to the pointer, Air Pilot, St. Sam, owned by L. D. Johnson of Evansville, Ind., and third to Bill's Faith, also a pointer, owned by Jay F. Carlisle of East Long Island, New York.

The stake had 21 starters, composed of the classiest field of pointers and setters in America. Birds were exceptionally plentiful, but the general appearance of the dogs was scarcely championship caliber. The judges were: Dr. T. B. Berton Kin of Brownsville, Tenn., and E. R. Listed below are fifteen major football games scheduled for Oct. 26. To enter the Post-Dispatch Football Knowledge Test, fill in your estimates of the scores of the games and send your entry to the Football Scores Editor, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, with a brief explanation of your selections. Entries will close at midnight, Thursday, Oct. 24.

The following cash prizes will be awarded:

First Prize — $100.00	Washington U.—Michigan State—
Second Prize — 50.00	Centenary—Texas Christian—
Third Prize — 25.00	Harvard—Dartmouth—
Fourth Prize — 15.00	Holy Cross—Colgate—
Fifth Prize — 10.00	Illinois—Iowa—
Ten Prizes, each — 5.00	Iowa State—Missouri—
25 Prizes, each — 1.00	Minnesota—Northwestern—

Here Are the Simple Rules

Prizes will be awarded to participants whose entries are most accurate and whose explanations, in the opinion of the Football Scores Editor, are most logical and convincing.

The Football Knowledge Test is open to everyone except Post-Dispatch employees and members of their families.

A brief explanatory letter must accompany each entry.

The games on which the competition is based will be listed daily in the Post-Dispatch sports section up to and including Thursday, October 24. The competition will close at midnight, October 24 and entries must be postmarked before that time.

It is not necessary to use the entry form in the Post-Dispatch. Any piece of paper of approximately the same size will do. You do not have to buy the Post-Dispatch to enter. Copies may be examined at public libraries or in the business office of the Post-Dispatch.

Only one entry may be submitted by each participant.

In the event of a tie for any award, the full amount of the award tied for will be paid to each participant.

Names of successful participants will be published in the Post-Dispatch Wednesday, October 30.

The Football Scores Editor will be the sole judge of entries submitted and his decision must be accepted as final.

Chocolate to Referee.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Oct. 22.—Kid Chocolate, once the brown flash who held both the featherweight and junior lightweight championships of the world, has decided to become a referee.

Twice the Cuban "hon-bon baby" has tried comebacks and found that at 24 he has burned himself out.

Next Saturday night he will officiate in a Havana ring.

OLIN AND LEWIS CONTINUE HARD WORK FOR TITLE BOUT NEXT WEEK

An opponent has little trouble hitting Bob Olin, light heavyweight champion of the world, observers have noticed in his training bouts at the Business Men's Gymnasium where he is getting ready to meet John Henry Lewis, Arizona Negro, in defense of his title at the Arena, Oct. 31.

But at the same time Olin is aggressive and lands some punches himself. And they hurt, according to Joe Parks, clever St. Louis youngster who is picking up some experience by boxing daily with the title holder.

Parks started boxing here several years ago when he weighed less than 100 pounds and he boxed through several divisions of the amateurs as he grew and his boxing skill increased. But he was very young and Kid Bundy, his manager, advised him to stay out of the ring for some time until he grew bigger and stronger.

Parks "Grew Up."

Joe didn't box for about 15 months and just recently has begun to beat back. He is about six feet tall now and weighs 170 pounds. He is strong and rugged and has all his old boxing technique. So he is an ideal partner for Olin.

Parks is really a better boxer than the champion and has found little difficulty reaching Bob with his left hand, also he has crossed his right with considerable success. But Bob walks always forward and Joe says when he hits you his punches jar. Olin's best weapon is his left hand and he jabs and hooks efficiently with it.

Yesterday the champion had the best workout since he has been here. He boxed three rounds with Marty Sampson, his sparring partner, and two rounds with Parks. Sampson and Olin seemed to have it in mind to slug it out with each other and they really threw some punches. Both landed frequently and none of the blows was hurt. It appeared that both felt like fighting and seemed to enjoy the rough going. At the same time both were no doubt glad that they had on the big training gloves rather than the regulation mitts.

Parks started right off jabbing his right hand and moving about to keep out of harm's way. And, as a matter of fact, the champion caught up with him only once when he pinned Joe in a corner and let go a hard right which he rocked Joe. But the St. Louis boy kept going back for more and gave Bob plenty of action for the two rounds.

Bob is getting right close to fighting weight now and has been in training almost regularly so there is little chance of his finishing in training at the present time. And if he does he will owe a vote of thanks to Parks.

Lewis' Routine.

Lewis went through the same routine which he has been following for several days. That consists of road work, calisthenics and boxing. He did no boxing for he is already under the 175-pound limit and doesn't want to risk staleness.

Also he is waiting for Jack Blackburne, Joe Lewis' trainer, to arrive to take charge of his finishing workouts and to let the eye which he cut the first day heal properly.

Blackburne's difficulty in Chicago, it is said, will not prevent him coming here and he is expected probably today or tomorrow.

Meanwhile the coming title battle, the first in St. Louis for many years, continues to attract more attention especially in the territory surrounding the city.

It was announced at the headquarters that Mike Jacobs, head of the Twentieth Century Club, New York, who has been promoting the appearances of Lewis in New York, had wired for reservations and it is thought likely that he may try to arrange some sort of a match for the winner of the Olin-Lewis bout with Lewis.

COLISEUM PROGRAM

Allen Matthews, St. Louis, vs. Jack Charvez, Phoenix, Ariz., Middleweights, Ten rounds. Mixed match.

Irwin Striebel, St. Louis, vs. Arthur "Red" Davis, St. Louis, Heavyweights, Eight rounds.

Jimmy Webb, St. Louis, vs. George Daw, Pine Lawn, Middleweights, Eight rounds.

Armand Sicilia, Springfield, Ill., vs. Elmer Sawyer, St. Louis, Featherweights, Six rounds.

Joe Huff, St. Louis, vs. Jimmy Everett, Jefferson Barracks, Middleweights, Four rounds.

Starting time, 8:30 o'clock.

point where he will have to be reckoned with in the 160-pound division and since mixed matches have been legalized in Missouri he will have a better chance.

Charvez doesn't figure to be anything more than just another victim of the hard punching Allen, for Jack was defeated by an unknown in Kansas City the other night.

A bout which likely will take the play away from the Matthews-Charvez go, so far as the fans' interest is concerned, is the heavy-weight battle between Irwin Striebel and Babe Davis at eight rounds.

It will be the fifth meeting between the pair. They fought four times in their amateur days and each won two. All of their fights were hard struggles, even though Striebel outwitted Davis by from 40 to 50 pounds.

The bout has been declared as for the State heavyweight title, but that doesn't mean much, if anything. However, the two boys have been real rivals in the past and each is anxious to score the victory.

Webb to Meet Daw.

Jimmy Webb, rising young middleweight, is scheduled to box eight rounds with the rugged, hard-punching George Daw of Pine Lawn. Daw knows little or nothing about boxing, but botes in, throwing gloves. He can "take it," too, could when he boxed rather regularly here. Webb should outpoint him rather easily.

Elmer Sawyer, Fireman Dan O'Keefe's good boy, meets Armand Sicilia, former amateur national bantamweight champion, in a return match. They met here last month and Sicilia won the nod after a hard fight.

Joe Huff, South St. Louis welterweight, is making a comeback in a preliminary against Jimmy Everett. Some few years ago it appeared that Huff might be headed some place in the boxing game, but he tried to move too quickly and a knockout stopped his career. He has been out of the game for quite a while, but he still is young.

DO YOU DRIVE A CHEVROLET?

It gives you wonderful service, doesn't it? Always ready to take you places . . . quickly and comfortably. Make your car keep it operating with maximum efficiency this winter, by putting Eveready Prestone in the radiator.

Eveready Prestone will not boil off. It is approved by car manufacturers, and it is guaranteed by National Carbon Company, Inc., to provide all-winter protection against both rust and freeze-up. Contains no alcohol nor glycerine. Has no odor.

And this year, thanks to the biggest sales in history, the price has been reduced to only $2.70 a gallon. Your dealer has a chart showing exact cost of complete protection for your car, in any temperature down to 62° below zero. Put in Eveready Prestone now and get freeze-up worry off your mind for the entire winter. Based on the 20 year average, freezing weather is due in St. Louis about Oct. 27.

W HILE Mr. Walter O'Hara of Narragansett Park, is busy arranging a meeting between Cavalcade and Discovery, rivals of 1934, he might as well make it a three-cornered event by taking in Top Row, twice conqueror of Discovery, this year.

The son of the record breaking Peanuts and the grandson of that great old-time High Time daddy of Sarazen, Top Row, is both by breeding and record worthy of attention. Somehow, Top Row has not managed to arouse fan interest this year, although he has won eight races, finished second twice and third four times. He has run out of the money only three times.

That was early in the year. Today he is the winner of almost $80,000, largely in handicaps, more than half of it gained by defeating Discovery, the horse of the year. To top off his performances he has set a track record and otherwise shown signs of being a class AA racer.

Can He "Take It?"

THUS far Top Row has not shown us that he can go with under high weight and at distances of one-and-one-quarter miles or over.

Many observers of his races against Discovery believed that he had the races gone on to a mile and one-quarter Discovery would have won, as he gained in the stretch run and was only a neck behind at Suffolk Downs, with 138 pounds in the saddle, at the comparatively short distance of one-and-one-eighth miles.

Top Row is fit right now and a chance to show what he can do against Discovery and Cavalcade has been earned. Then, too, the youthful but sportsmanlike A. G. Vanderbilt, Discovery's owner, having obligingly sent his horse against both Cavalcade and Top Row for two years without asking favors, it seems almost time that the rival owners should give Mr. Vanderbilt a break.

He is one owner who seems to have earned everybody's applause.

A Coming Stable.

YOUNG VANDERBILT, one of the few wealthy owners who really takes a hand in the management of his horses and of his stable, is building one of the strongest outfits in the country with the aid of J. H. Stoller, his trainer.

He has a splendid establishment, Sagamore Farm, at Glyndon, Md., and is turning out juveniles of real class. In his stable in training at the present time are more than half a hundred horses, a majority of them two-year-olds; in turn, a majority of these are by that great and courageous sire Display, daddy of Discovery.

A straight shooter, Vanderbilt's entry in any race invariably attracts a betting following because of the quality of his horses.

The "Good Old Days."

OLD TIMERS talk of the "good old days" of boxing in St. Louis, going back 40 years ago to find instances.

Not everything was "jake," however, even in those halcyon days, when it was a felony to arrange a battle within the borders of Missouri and fights had to take place on the river or in private.

In this connection we may present Exhibit A, the same being an ancient clipping from the Police Gazette of July, 1894:

St. Louis has had an experience of pugilism at its worst in its fly-by-night form. Jack Steiner and Billy Zachritz met to do battle on a river steamer. Bob Farrell was referee, and he and the gang are accused of having had Zachritz slated to win or get a draw.

Steiner is not a coming champion, but he had Zachritz' friends upset the platform upon which the men were fighting, and the referee declared a draw.

Of the thousands spectators on board, a considerable proportion was of what is designated as "the better element." These were more than glad to reach shore without being shot full of holes.

One more attempt is to be made Aug. 6 in the line of excursion boat pugilism when James D. Colon and John C. Wiseman of St. Louis, who have had three battles of the nip-and-tuck order, will try to settle the question of superiority.

It is quite a problem whether the steamboat style of the game either loses or wins.

Seeing a prize fight in those days was an adventure—one that didn't always turn out well for the spectator.

GRINNELL, CREIGHTON WILL PLAY THIS WEEK

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 22.—The Grinnell Pioneers, major exponents of the aerial attack in the Missouri Valley football circles, brushed up their maneuvers today for the homecoming game with Creighton Saturday.

The Pioneers, tied with the Bluejays and Tulsa U. for the conference lead, will depend mostly on their forward passes for a victory over Creighton.

Grinnell will be in good condition for the Bluejay invasion, for the Pioneers were idle last week-end, while Creighton had a hard battle to get a 6-to-6 tie with Drake.

The Bluejays opened the week with a light practice session as some of the boys were still nursing bruises from Saturday's game.

BUDWEISERS SET 3-GAME RECORD IN PIN LEAGUE

With games of 1032, 1136 and 1112, for a total of 3280, the Budweisers established a new high three-game record for the season in the Classic Bowling League on the Rogers Recreation alleys last night. The big count enabled the Budweisers to win three straight, from the Say It With Flowers five, which counted only 2854.

Every member of the Budweisers went over the 600 mark, with Harold Schaeffer showing the way with 695, including a high game of 259. Harry Frederic totaled 668, Ervin Brunsman 656, Art Scher 634 and Ray Newton 628.

The Chas. J. Krons rolled 2937 to 2936 for the Hermanns won the odd game, taking the final one in the roll-off after the quintets had tied at 888. Jim Gosney and Bob Wills each counted 669 for the winners, while Sam Garofalo was high for the losers with 682.

The Allhoffs totaled 2970 and won two out of three from the Silver Seals with 2962. Joe Walsh, 650, and Frank Boehm, 632, were the team leaders.

Led by Oscar Whitehead, who totaled 679, with games of 226, 194 and 259, the old Judge five rolled 1089, 1033 and 1051 for a 3173 count to win three from the Rogers Recreation with 2869. Bud Ens' score of 606 was best for the losers.

WISCONSIN COURT TEST ON PICKETING SOUGHT

Issue Is Whether Union Can Use Method to Get Members Where There Is No Strike.

By the Associated Press.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 22.—A court test to determine whether organized labor can legally picket a plant for purposes of unionization where no strike is in progress, is being sought by attorneys for both sides in a dispute here. The case is the first of its kind in Wisconsin. The American Furniture Co. has applied to the Circuit Court to stop picketing which has been in progress at its store for several weeks although no strike has been called. Its counsel, Eugene Wengert, contended no dispute existed and all employees were working and satisfied.

Joseph A. Padway, counsel for the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, maintained that labor had a right to picket in order peacefully to persuade non-union employees to join the organization.

Padway said the Wisconsin labor code upheld the principle that the legitimate economic interests of organized labor in a particular industry extended to all shops in the industry, and that company's statement that it paid higher than union wages did not alter the principle.

Appearing as "friend of the court" in the case was Walter Bender, attorney for the Golden Guernsey Dairy, which also was picketed although no strike existed.

New Jersey Coal Dealer, Expecting $12, Gets Wrong Check.

By the Associated Press.
VINELAND, N. J., Oct. 22.—George Duggan, a coal dealer, opened his mail today, looking for a check for $12 from the State Emergency Relief Administration. What he actually got was an indorsed check for a quarter of a million dollars.

The check was drawn by Lee Pickard, manager of the Finance Division of the ERA, and payable to William H. Albright, State Treasurer, who had indorsed it. Duggan called ERA headquarters at Newark and was told to bring the check in immediately. The $12 check he had expected was for coal sold to a relief client.

'ADS' LED TO ORPHIR'S DISCOVERY OF WRECK

Ex-Naval Officer Tells How He Got Information on Aera to Be Checked.

By GILBERT McALLISTER.
(Copyright, 1935.)

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP ORPHIR, Oct. 22.—Want-ads in a Cork newspaper resulted in the discovery of the apparent wreck of the Lusitania, Commander Robert Harding Dring revealed to me yesterday. Commander Dring was the man referred to as the "British naval commander" who accompanied Capt. Russell on his shore excursions just before the discovery was made. He has joined the expedition.

Dring, who fought with the British Navy throughout the World War, retired in 1920 to his farm Glanville, in County Cork, and has lived there since as a gentleman farmer. He was spending the summer at the seaside near Old Head of Kinsale when the Orphir began its search for the Lusitania. It occurred to him that he might help by collecting information.

"Accordingly I inserted an advertisement in the Cork Evening Echo," said Commander Dring, "offering a reward for information likely to lead to the discovery of the Lusitania."

"I received an enormous number of replies. Sifting these, I proceeded with my researches. By co-ordinating the information I took off bearings on maps and charts, and then got in touch with Capt. Russell."

"Together we went around the countryside, the Captain checking the bearings with the ship's compass, which he brought ashore. These bearings were charted and the point of intersection determined."

"It was by working on these observations that this big wreck was found—within the area of intersection." Bad weather kept the Orphir in the protection of Kinsale's summer cove again. The rest is welcomed by the men. Much calmer weather will be required before the Orphir can proceed with operations.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 22.—Michelangelo Gentile received a life sentence here in 1911 for killing a man suspected of stealing his savings. Ten months ago he was pardoned on condition he return to Italy, his native land.

He hastened to Italy to join a childhood sweetheart but found she had been married. Recently he wrote Harry Walsh, his one-time attorney, that he intended to enlist in the Italian army. Word that he was at the front in Africa came yesterday.

BLACK TO EXPOSE HOW OCEAN MAIL AWARDS ARE LET

Waste Having Been Shown Senate Committee Turns to Means of Getting Contracts.

'STARTLING' DATA ALREADY COLLECTED

He Says U. S. Sells Ships at Fraction of Cost, Lends Money to Pay, Then Gives Operators Profit.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Senator Hugo Black, chairman of the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee, said today that the methods used by private ship owners to obtain lucrative Government mail contracts for their companies would be investigated when the committee resumes public hearings a few weeks hence. He added that "considerable evidence, some of it startling in character," already has been assembled and is being prepared for presentation.

On a previous occasion Black was chairman of a committee which investigated ocean mail and air mail contracts, and reported that the system had resulted in "a saturnalia of waste, inefficiency, unearned exorbitant salaries, bonuses and other forms of 'compensation'; corrupting expense accounts, exploitation of the taxpayer by the sale and manipulation of securities, the value of which is largely based on the hope of profits from robbing the taxpayer."

But that inquiry dealt primarily with the waste and extravagance of the system, while the proposed investigation will be directed specifically to ascertaining the means employed by ship company representatives to obtain the contracts. About 45 such contracts are in existence. Actually, they are subsidies under a false name, since a normal charge for carrying the mail would be only a small fraction of the $30,000,000 a year which the Government is paying for this service.

Sold at Fraction of Cost.
However, as Senator Black pointed out, this is far from representing the total cost to the Government. Most of the vessels involved were built by the Government and subsequently sold to their present "owners" at a fraction of their original cost. Thus, 229 ships now engaged in carrying mail were built by the Government during the war at a cost of $18,000,000. They were sold to the present owners for $41,000,000.

On top of all that, most of them were purchased from the Government with money borrowed from the Government—much of which is still unpaid. Senator Black characterized the situation in these words: "The Government built the ships, sold them to the operators for a fraction of their cost, it lent them the money with which to pay for them, and now it is paying them enormous profits to operate them."

"Take, for example, the case of the Admiral Oriental Mail Line, operated by the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, Ltd., of Japan."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Senator Hugo Black, chairman of the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee, said today that the methods used by private ship owners to obtain lucrative Government mail contracts for their companies would be investigated when the committee resumes public hearings a few weeks hence. He added that "considerable evidence, some of it startling in character," already has been assembled and is being prepared for presentation.

On a previous occasion Black was chairman of a committee which investigated ocean mail and air mail contracts, and reported that the system had resulted in "a saturnalia of waste, inefficiency, unearned contributor salaries, bonuses and other forms of 'compensation'; corrupt expense accounts, exploitation of the taxpayer by the sale and manipulation of securities, the values of which are largely based on the hope of profits from robbing the taxpayer."

But that inquiry dealt primarily with the waste and extravagance of the system, while the proposed investigation will be directed specifically to ascertaining the means employed by ship company representatives to obtain the contracts. About 45 such contracts are in existence. Actually, they are subsidies under a false name, since a normal charge for carrying the mail would be only a small fraction of the $30,000,000 a year which the Government is paying for this service.

Sold at Fraction of Cost.
However, as Senator Black pointed out, this is far from representing the total cost to the Government. Most of the vessels involved were built by the Government and subsequently sold to their present "owners" at a fraction of their original cost. Thus, 220 ships now engaged in carrying mail were built by the Government during the war at a cost of $316,000,000. They were sold to the present owners for $41,000,000.

On top of all that, most of them are purchased from the Government with money borrowed from the Government—much of which is still unpaid. Some of the evidence in Black's possession shows that large "legal fees" comparable to those paid by the public utilities in their unsuccessful fight against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, have been paid to lawyers who participated in negotiations involving Government mail contracts. The committee is eager to know more about these fees, and the names of all who got them.

Black added that he was far from being finished with the investigation of lobbying against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. Evidence gathered by committee agents, he said, shows that the methods employed by the Associated Gas Electric System, such as sending fake telegrams, were employed by other and even larger utility groups.

Among the larger systems that have not been publicly touched by the inquiry are Electric Bond and Share, the North American Co., and Commonwealth and Southern. Cities Service was handled briefly and is yet to have its day in court. Black and his men are working on the inquiry every day.

erated by the Dollar Interests. That company was formed in 1921 with new ships constructed by the Government. It started with a cash capital of $500 and notes given for capital stock for $499,500.

"During the succeeding three years and five months this company realized net profits from the operation of these vessels of $533,713 and also earned profits totaling $468,882 from other operations largely made possible by the Government contract. During this period the notes given for capital stock were entirely retired by dividends from earnings."

"Subsequently, without investing a dollar in addition to the original $500, the company bought the line and certain other ships from the Government, and has earned net profits of $4,640,204, which does not include $2,127,653 in profits which this $500 company earned from other sources. How Congress or the administration can continue to pour out public funds in the face of such a record passes my understanding. I don't believe it will continue long after the public understands the situation."

President Roosevelt, in a special message to Congress during the last session, denounced the mail contract system, and came out in favor of a straight cash subsidy to the ship companies, based on the amount in behalf of an adequate merchant marine. However, no such measure was enacted.

Senator Copeland, New York Democrat, a consistent champion of the shipping industry, introduced a bill which would have authorized seven distinct forms of subsidy. Black and Senator Clark of Missouri led such a storm of opposition, however, that the New Yorker was induced by the administration to withdraw his measure.

Up to Roosevelt.
Under existing law, President Roosevelt has until April 1 to decide whether he will extend present ocean mail contracts, or cancel them. "There has been no indication of the course he will pursue. Among the principal beneficiaries of the subsidy system are companies controlled by the President's close friend, Vincent Astor, and his cousin, Kermit Roosevelt."

Meantime, postoffice inspectors have been conducting a check which discloses that a number of the mail contractors are violating the terms of their contracts. Many of the ships, they have learned, are incapable of making the speeds specified in the contracts, and Postmaster-General Farley has requested the Department of Justice to file suits to recover payments made to them.

In the case of one company it was found that on voyages when no legitimate mail was consigned to the company for shipment, company officials issued instructions to their employees in America and foreign ports to write letters for consignment to the line, so that it would have an excuse for collecting the contractual rates. They were instructed that this would thereafter be considered part of their routine duties.

Large Legal Fees.
Some of the evidence in Black's possession shows that large "legal fees" comparable to those paid by the public utilities in their unsuccessful fight against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, have been paid to lawyers who participated in negotiations involving Government mail contracts. The committee is eager to know more about these fees, and the names of all who got them.

Black added that he was far from being finished with the investigation of lobbying against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. Evidence gathered by committee agents, he said, shows that the methods employed by the Associated Gas Electric System, such as sending fake telegrams, were employed by other and even larger utility groups.

Among the larger systems that have not been publicly touched by the inquiry are Electric Bond and Share, the North American Co., and Commonwealth and Southern. Cities Service was handled briefly and is yet to have its day in court. Black and his men are working on the inquiry every day.

LORD CARSON, FIERY BRITISH STATESMAN, DIES

Most Celebrated Trial Lawyer in United Kingdom—
Long Leader of Irish Unionist Party.

FORMED AN ARMY OF 100,000 MEN

Then Swayed Followers Into Ardent Support of England in World War—
Was 81 Years Old.

By the Associated Press.

MINSTER, Kent, England, Oct. 22.—Lord Carson, 81 years old, once the storm center of Irish politics, former solicitor-general, and former First Lord of the Admiralty, died today, after an illness of several weeks, of chronic lymphatic leukemia.

Lady Carson and other members of his family were at the bedside when he died. Death came suddenly after he had appeared slightly improved this morning. In July he recovered from an attack of bronchial pneumonia.

Life Story of Lord Carson, a Man of Three Careers.

BARON CARSON OF DUNCAIRN, who, as Sir Edward Carson, led the Irish Unionist party for nearly a decade preceding his resignation in 1921, was known for his fierce advocacy of Ulsterism. It was a career that took him perilously near the brink of treason.

Yet he had had one career—that of the most celebrated trial lawyer in the United Kingdom—before he emerged in 1911 as the unchallenged leader of the Ulstermen. He was then 57 years old, successful in his legal career, but in failing health.

His background, to be sure, fully qualified him for his political leadership. In his early thirties he had been known, and hated, for his efforts to carry out Arthur Balfour's "coercion" policy in Ireland as Crown prosecutor. He had been in constant danger of his life, had faced one of the worst riots in Ireland, with men shouting, "To hell with Carson!"

Before his political career, too, he had become the holder of the most lucrative practice in the United Kingdom, receiving an income of $50,000 to $100,000 a year as early as 1906.

Many Celebrated Cases.
Many of his cases are in the news history of the last 30 years. He was counsel for the Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt, in her separation from the Duke. He filed the annulment proceedings which freed the one-time Alice Thaw from the Earl of Yarmouth. He defended the old Marquis of Queensberry (father of the rules for boxing) when the Marquis was sued for libel by Oscar Wilde. He won a $250,000 verdict for Miss Daisy Markham when she sued the Marquis of Northampton for breach of promise, the largest amount an English court had ever awarded in such case. He successfully represented Lady Sackville when she was sued by the relatives of Sir John Scott, who wanted a share of the $3,000,000 fortune which Sir John bequeathed her.

During four months as Attorney-General in the Asquith coalition Cabinet, in 1915, he conducted the British Government's case against Chicago packers, which inflicted on American exporters to neutral coun-

POLICEMAN SHOTS BULL; GETS HIGHEST RING HONOR

Officer at Madrid Disposes of Animal Which Threatened Harm to Young Matadors.

MADRID, Oct. 22.—A police captain was granted a bull's ear by popular acclaim, the first such distinction granted to a "layman" in history.

It happened Sunday at the San Juan bullring where apprentice matadors were being given the opportunity to display their skill in fighting young bulls. The events ran off on schedule until the attendance apparently through error, let a full-sized fighting bull into the arena. He was too savage for the apprentices to handle. Spectators pleaded with the president of the "corrida" to have him removed before some one was injured. This proved impossible since there were no trained oxen available to lead the animal back to the pens.

A captain of the Civil Guards raised his rifle and killed the bull with one shot. The populace cheered him and demanded of the president that the captain receive the highest honor the bullring can grant. The captain was awarded an ear of the dead bull.

BAKERS IN REPLY TO AAA ACCUSE IT OF UNFAIRNESS

Declare Questions Erroneously Assume Aim of Convention is to Raise Bread Prices.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—The American Bakers' Association yesterday charged the Agricultural Adjustment Administration with trying to create the "erroneous and unfair" impression that the bakers' convention was "assembled here to raise the price of bread."

In a telegram answering a letter in which Donald E. Montgomery, AAA C-numbers' counsel, challenged the bakers to answer 15 questions in justification of bread price increases, the association said:

"Your 15 questions are like the proverbial question: 'Have you stopped beating your wife?'"

"All your questions are predicated on an erroneous assumption that we are assembled here to raise the price of bread one cent. This is not so."

It would be "impossible" for the convention to increase bread prices, the telegram continued, because "the price of bread is a completely localized matter, subject to widely varying factors."

ITALIAN GOVERNMENT BARS LONDON DAILY TELEGRAPH

Paper, Regarded as Mouthpiece of Anthony Eden, Long Source of Annoyance to Rome.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Oct. 22.—The London Daily Telegraph was barred from Italy today.

The Ministry of Press and Propaganda gave no official reason for the action. It is known, however, that the Telegraph, regarded in political circles as the mouthpiece of Anthony Eden, Britain's League of Nations spokesman, has been a source of annoyance to the Italian Government. On several occasions the correspondence of the paper concerning Italian casualties in military activities has been officially denied here.

Particularly irritating to the Italian Government was a recent article which represented Italy as having told France Premier Mussolini's armies were no longer able to defend Brenner Pass (on the Italian-Austrian frontier) unaided in the event of an attack, and would be compelled to call on France for assistance. A Government spokesman called the article false and termed it propaganda.

RIOTS RENEWED IN WEST INDIES; TROOPS ON GUARD

British Marines Land at Kingstown, St. Vincent Island, After Police Kill
3 in Negro Mob.

By the Associated Press.

KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent, B. W. I., Oct. 22.—Rioting broke out anew on this West Indian island today while armed marines from a British warship enforced martial law after three Negro rioters had been shot fatally by police during the night. Eight other persons, including two women, were hurt in the hand-to-hand fighting last night.

The disorders, an outgrowth of labor troubles which had gone on for months and were increased by tension due to the Italian-Ethiopian war, reached a head in the fighting with police last night.

Fixed Bayonets.
The marines, with bayonets fixed, held unruly Negroes in check at Byrass Hill and Camden Park, just outside the city.

There was fear in Kingstown, which is capital of the island, that the Negro laborers would seek to avenge themselves on the whites.

Six policemen were injured by clubs and stones, in the series of fights through the principal streets yesterday after a mass demonstration of laborers before Gov. Sir Selwyn Grier.

The Governor's automobile was destroyed, as were those of a Supreme Court Judge and of the island's Attorney-General, and homes and stores were looted and wrecked before police fired on the rioters. The Governor himself was hemmed in by the mob in front of the courthouse and freed only after a promise to meet their representatives.

Riot Spreads.
By the time a warship had arrived last night from nearby Grenada, the riot had spread from Kingstown into Georgetown and Chateau Belair. Plantations along the roads between the towns were looted as the shouting crowd milled along, threatening the owners with sticks, stones and iron bars.

Resistance was offered at only one plantation. Barriering himself in his home, Capt. C. O. Hazell shot his rifle into the mob. The rioters carried away a wounded comrade.

But they marched into the home of Justice G. C. Williams, robbed it and went on to smash into Attorney-General G. C. Ross' residence. F. A. Corea's home also was robbed, and several drygoods and food stores were wrecked after much shooting had been carried off.

Police Overcome.
Police attempting to check the rioters were overcome time and again. Only the appointment of numerous volunteer special constables gave them enough strength to control the demonstrators when they appeared they were in an ugly enough mood to attempt to burn the town.

Anxious for their safety, authorities removed several white families to the police barracks and kept them there under guard during the night.

St. Vincent Island is 100 miles due west of Barbados.

Peace Committee for Neutrality.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A resolution commending President Roosevelt's application of the so-called neutrality law to the Italian-Ethiopian war was adopted at the annual meeting of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War yesterday.

FARM CREDIT AGENCY REPORTS DROP IN LOAN APPLICATIONS

33,000 Requests a Month in 1934; Only 14,000 in September, 1935.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Farm Credit Administration officials reported today improved collections on loans and a curtailed demand for financial help.

Loans and discounts for the first nine months of 1935 totaled $851,444,000, they said. This is a big drop from the $1,434,498,000 figure for the corresponding period last year.

Applications for loans dropped from an average of $3,000 a month in 1934 to 11,000 in June and 14,000 in September, 1935. Figures on collections will be released later in the week.

New loans for September showed an increase over those of the previous month—$72,500,000 as against $66,600,000—a condition said to be a "normal seasonal increase."

TO HEAD NAVY GENERAL BOARD

Rear Admiral F. B. Upham to Get Post Jan. 1.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Rear Admiral Frank B. Upham has been chosen for the chairmanship of the Navy's general board on the retirement Jan. 1 of Rear Admiral Frank H. Clark. The board was created at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war to advise the Secretary of the Navy.

Admiral Upham was born at Fort Apache, Ariz., Sept. 7, 1872, and entered the Naval Academy from Montana in 1889. During the World War he commanded the cruisers Columbia and Pueblo and was naval attaché at Paris and Madrid. After commanding the Navy air station at Pensacola in 1928 he went to sea until 1930, when he became chief of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department. He went to the Orient Aug. 18, 1933.

REDUCED PRICES URGED AS MEANS OF REVIVING TRADE

Dr. Harold G. Moulton Presents Results of Brookings Study to Falk Foundation, Pittsburgh.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 22.—Business men can do much toward forestalling depression by increasing business volume through price reductions, Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of Brookings Institution of Washington, said last night in presenting the results of a three-year study to directors of the Falk Foundation.

The Institution concluded its report with the assertion that a depression-less world cannot be achieved unless the benefits of greater efficiency of today's science and machine are passed on to the masses in the form of lower commodity prices.

The Falk Foundation, an organization of business men, gave $150,000 toward the cost of the survey and has made an additional grant for a study of quick methods of increasing prosperity.

The institution said the survey completed did not relate so much to conditions of today as to possibilities of improvement over a long period of time. "But even now," Dr. Moulton said, "it may well be possible in many lines to stimulate and increase volume of business through downward price adjustments."

Average Income Too Low.
Dr. Moulton held that simple redistribution of society's existing income could not have the desired results because the average income of the most prosperous year was only $665. The addition of incomes from investments and corporation officers' salaries made it only $140 more.

"The paramount requirement is to increase progressively the total amount of income to be divided," he said.

Dr. Moulton declared that as long as there was widespread underconsumption a public works program would be of little permanent good. "Not unless the Government were to take over the production of food, clothing and other basic necessities would it be possible thus to give the

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Golf in Forest Park.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
JULIE F. WILSON hits the ball squarely upon the head in her denunciation of the despoliation of Forest Park.

Let us all join in one supreme effort to restore Forest Park to the people! And, as the very first move in this campaign, let us proceed to throw the Triple A Club out of the park. This club is a strictly private organization which is squatting upon and occupying nearly 60 acres of public property, to the exclusion of the real owners, the citizens and taxpayers of St. Louis. There is not a particle of justification for this private appropriation of public property, and Triple A should be thrown out of the park without any further ceremony.

The next move should be to close up and dismantle the two public golf courses in the park. Forest Park is no place for a golf course. Such a course takes up entirely too much room, and is really a danger to citizens. Several persons have been seriously injured while walking or standing on these golf courses, and I myself have had several narrow escapes while walking in places which I thought were entirely safe.

Another great objection to golf in the park is that the tendency always to spread out and take in more territory for the game. We started by laying out a modest nine-hole course in the northwest corner of the park. In a very few years this was not enough, and an 18-hole course occupying about three times as much space was added. Then the old Lindell Pavilion was converted from a refreshment stand into a golf club house. Then, on the sly, another very large tract of land at the southwest corner of the 18-hole course was surreptitiously prepared for an extension of the course, but fortunately the taxpayers were wide awake by this time, and this further extension of the links was blocked.

But a golf player never satisfied, and now we find that another large tract of land northeast of the old Lindell Pavilion has been converted into a golf practice ground where embryo players may learn to drive their golf balls. Apropos, why not turn the park in toto over to the golf players? They have the very best part of it already, and they might as well take the rest.

I am reminded, in this connection, of a speech delivered some years ago by the president of the Forest Park Golf Association. He said, in effect, that it was a shame that the lagoons and the slopes of Art Hill were open to the public, because the presence of people in these places interfered with the driving of golf balls across the hill and the water hazards. Too bad, isn't it, that the taxpayers of St. Louis will persist in walking across Art Hill and riding on boats in the lagoons, much to the discomfort of the handful of golf players clamoring impatiently at the tees?

The only solution for this problem is to banish golf from Forest Park at once and forever, and then try to restore the park to its former sylvan charm and beauty.

Query.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
IN REPLY to A. J. Freschi's letter of Oct. 7, in which he accused other European nations of not keeping their promises to Italy years ago, I should like to ask why Italy did not keep her promises in an alliance with Germany and Austria during the World War?

Du Quoin, Ill. PATRICK O'MALLEY.

That De Luxe White House Kitchen. I DO NOT know whether it is permissible to question any such intimate details as expenditures made by the chief executive of tax money, but at the risk of being entirely out of order, I submit that it seems monstrously unfair that $150,000 of tax money is being spent on (leave the mark) kitchen equipment for the White House at a time when the world economy should be practicing, when 10,000,000 persons have no jobs and when the national budget is badly in the red. I suppose, since we have gotten into the habit of talking in billions, that $150,000 for new pots and pans, for one kitchen should seem mere chicken feed, but somehow or other there seems to be something wrong about it, or is there?

It would be interesting to know how much it costs for the chef to supervise this $150,000 equipment—or would you call him a chief engineer?

Spring Creek, Mo. ALTER ROLAFF.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

Solving the Debutantes' Problem. I HAVEN'T been able to think of anything else since the problem of how to get debutantes to their parties with men. I trust the following suggestions will aid in the solution of this grave crisis:

1. Debs stand in front of Park Plaza and "thumb" passing motorists.
2. Debs sit in a hotel lobby and give glad eyes to traveling salesmen and convention delegates.
3. Debs match pennies to see who gets who on the stag list.

If we may now consider this situation properly dealt with, you will permit me to return to my researches on the thesis that the trouble with the poor is that they haven't got enough money.

SYMPATHETIC.

NRA—A BIG, FAT GHOST.

NRA goes robustly, expensively, on, to the tune of about $7,000,000 a year. On May 27, the Supreme Court pronounced the National Industrial Recovery Act unconstitutional. The NRA was a Federal bureau created to administer the act. With the Supreme Court's decision, NRA's reason for being was destroyed.

Congress, however, extended NRA's life for a time, so that it might canvass the results of the Recovery Act and perform other "mopping up" functions. It was popularly supposed that the NRA, under its extended lease, would be a mere shadow of its original organization and the cost of maintenance proportionately reduced.

That expectation has been disappointed. Instead of a skeletonized NRA, operating inexpensively, NRA is about as big as it was in its first incarnation. Public attention was directed to this fact by Senator Vandenberg, on Aug. 14. On that date NRA had 3476 names on its payroll. Its administrative cost, in July, Mr. Vandenberg charged, was $1,017,000, as compared with $887,000 in July, 1934, when it was in full Johnonian bloom.

There are now 2600 names on the payroll, as reported by a Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, not including 200 who are "occasionally" employed. The monthly bill runs from $576,000 to $600,000 a month.

That the Government's spending is viewed with increasing uneasiness, verging on alarm, does not have to be asserted. Apprehension is in the air. The Federal payroll, our correspondent says, is now $1,400,000,000 a year, exclusive of the army, judiciary and Congress. Employees number 770,128. Much of this is chargeable to the New Deal. In the name of emergency, such expenditures might be acceptable. As a permanent charge they cannot be borne.

What plans has the administration for reducing the cost?

A FINE AMERICAN.

The life of Major-General Adolphus Washington Greely typified the army career at its best. Enlisting for the Civil War at the age of 17, he was, like that other youthful Massachusetts volunteer, the late Oliver Wendell Holmes, seriously wounded in the bloodshed at Antietam. The Union saved, he spent practically the whole of his long service in furthering the constructive side of military activity. For, memorable though it was, his historic trip in 1881 with a party of 25 soldiers to establish a subpolar station for recording scientific data was only one of many notable episodes in which he was the leading figure.

As a cavalryman, he helped complete the winning of the West. In the signal corps, he directed the building of the first telegraph line to the Pacific coast. He superintended the rescue and relief work that followed in the train of the San Francisco earthquake. As insular possessions were added to the national domain, he opened the way for their development by the installation of communication systems. Such widely separated places as Cuba and Alaska, China and the Canal Zone possess testimonials to his labors.

The Congressional Medal of Honor was bestowed on Gen. Greely last March, on his ninety-first birthday. Congress honored itself and won the approval of the whole country by thus honoring this modest hero of the frozen North.

LET JEFFERSON CITY KNOW.

There is nothing surprising about the fact that the St. Louis Chapter of the American Association of Social Workers has gone on record for the appointment of trained social workers to the staff of the St. Louis Old Age Assistance Board. On the contrary, such action was to have been expected, since professional social workers have a vital interest in the way such staffs are chosen. This professional concern coincides with the public interest. It is just as much a duty of the public to demand qualified investigators and staff members. Dr. R. Emmet Kane and his associates on the board can and will win their fight for non-partisan administration of the pension law in St. Louis if they are properly supported by the community. The resolution of the social workers should be only the first of many to make its way to Jefferson City.

A MAN OF GOOD WILL.

"Every man may speak truly," said Montaigne, "but to speak prudently, methodically and fully is a talent that few men have."

Arthur Henderson, the British statesman, dead at 72, was of the few described by the immortal French essayist. He has for years been rated high among England's men of consequence. Honors have been piled upon him officially, but before preferment had made him a statesman he was a politician, in the best sense, and in his capacity as secretary of the Labor party it is possible, we should think, that he contributed most importantly to his country.

Other labor leaders eclipsed him in showmanship. He was no such glittering figure as Ramsay MacDonald. He did not possess the specialized knowledge which made Philip Snowden an economic authority, Chancellor of the Exchequer and ultimately raised him to knighthood. But the rise of the Labor party from inauspicious beginnings, its steady growth numerically and in popular esteem, the determining influence it exerted in vitalizing and broadening British democracy, its arrival at last as the Government, with MacDonald occupying the Prime Minister's residence at 10 Downing street—all this eventful history was written in large part by the organizing genius and rigorous sincerity of the man affectionately known as "Uncle Arthur."

In the United States a comparable career would be termed typically American. The youth who started out as an iron molder was at 40 Mayor of Newcastle. In his late fifties he was Minister without portfolio in Lloyd George's Cabinet, and, if he had wished, could have been Ambassador to Russia. In the first Labor Government he served as Home Secretary, and as Secretary for Foreign Affairs achieved the notable triumphs accredited to the second Labor Government. The economic crisis, long brewing, was finally to break in full force upon the world. In the name of coalition, MacDonald was to espouse a new cause and, morally, if not literally, was to wear "a rind in his coat," even as the decorated Snowden, and the Labor party as a unit was temporarily to be submerged. Henderson remained steadfast, as faithful to his party in its political sunset as in its struggling morning and blazing noon.

It was his philosophy as a labor leader that made him such a champion of peace, that brought him the Nobel prize, that inspired the zealous and sustained efforts, through so many adversities, in behalf of disarmament.

Of the English it has been said, "They take their pleasures sadly but their troubles with a smile." In a world prattling peace, but practicing militarism on a scale of colossal expenditures, Arthur Henderson stout-heartedly battled for sanity, officially at Geneva and dauntlessly through the disillusion and despair of futile international conferences. Always his gaze was fixed, as he phrased it, on "the high table-land of peace and co-operation."

England and the world have lost a man of great good will.

FINANCING THE ETHIOPIAN WAR.

What Mussolini will use for money to pay for his little "colonial expedition" in Ethiopia is partly answered by a dispatch from Rome on Italy's financial situation. He will get it from the Italian people, who will soon know the full meaning of the phrase, to give until it hurts. At least, he will get it from them until they have no more to give.

Just now the Italians are being asked to convert their 3 1/2 per cent Government bonds into 5 per cent securities and, as a consideration for the higher rate of interest, to pay a premium to the Government of 15 lire for every 100-lire bond. A very odd transaction, one would say, especially in view of the dubious future of the 5 per cent bonds. With funds already available and with the sums collected on these premiums, Mussolini hopes to pay for the $800,000,000 which, it is estimated, the war will cost.

But wars have a way of costing more than the estimates, and the $800,000,000 might prove to be hardly the entire bill. For Italy, which has a gold reserve of only about $300,000,000, even $800,000,000 is a terrific sum of money. It occurs to a simple outsider that Mussolini might have bought Ethiopia in fee simple and with no fuss and feathers for a tithe of it. Didn't Promoter Rickett get half of the country for approximately $1 down?

Anyway, Mussolini decided to fight, and his financial advisers have got to find revenue. One of them hopefully points out that the Italian people have accumulated savings of some $3,110,000,000, enough to finance the war for several years, if needed. That places the bambino's bank in jeopardy. Higher taxes are in store, too, especially on war profits. With foreign credit cut off by the League of Nations sanctions and, so far as the United States is concerned, by the Johnson Act, and with a League boycott looming, Italy's situation is a desperate one.

And all this for the manufactured glory of avenging a defeat that occurred 40 years ago and to annex a country that all of the smart imperialistic nations, like Britain and France, have repeatedly passed up as not worth having!

BILLIONS OF BEERS.

An unidentified Einstein has figured it out that the people of the United States drank 23 billion "beers" last year, meaning, we infer, the number of glasses of beer consumed. Taking Mr. Hoover's favorite divisor, the distance from the earth to the sun, the traveler, as we calculate it, would drink 255 glasses of beer on every mile of the journey. His condition when he arrived at the doorstep of the orb may better be left to the imagination, we reckon, than to mathematics.

Yet all this furnishes no clue to the amount of beer in bulk. The Hoover calculation discloses a mere detail without even vaguely revealing the quantity in its entirety. Perhaps we shall have to go back to the late Mr. Coolidge's comment on the occasion of a luncheon to be served in the White House. "It looks like a lot of ham," he remarked.

It looks like a lot of beer—like a foaming young ocean, one might say.

A CITY OF COUNTRY FOLKS.

A big city like St. Louis is made up in large part of folks from the country. To be sure there are lots of people here who were born inside the city limits. Any community must have its natives. But then virtually every block has its residents from country towns out in Missouri, over in Illinois, down in Arkansas and elsewhere. There is no walk in the city's life which these immigrants from the hinterland do not occupy. They preach sermons, argue cases, drive busses, cut out tonsils, serve up hamburgers.

An announcement that the Jersey County Society, consisting of 800 former Jersey Countians now living in St. Louis, would hold its annual dinner and elect officers set us to thinking about this under-the-surface fact of metropolitan life. For the Jersey County Society, with its Illinoisans from around Jerseyville, Grafton, Rosedale, Nutwood, Fieldon and Otterville, is only one of many such organizations in St. Louis. Nowaday County Missourians gather to talk about things up at Hopkins, Skidmore, Arkoe and Conception Junction. Those like City Counselor Hay, who were born in Wayne County in the opposite corner of the State, meet to go over the doings at Hiram, Gad's Hill, Leeper and Taskee Station. The Perry County get-together brings out folks who find themselves thinking of the variegated hills round about Menfro and Longtown, Wittenberg and Seventy-Six this time of year.

Then there are the Calhoun County Club—men and women from around Hardin and Batchtown, Gilead and Golden Eagle, Meppen and Kampsville, who grew up reckoning time by apple blossoms and apple harvests; the Clinton County Club, whose members get hungry for backbone and ribs and head cheese the way they make it on farms near Carlyle, Breese, Posey and New Memphis in hog killing time; the Randolph County Club, to whose membership Christmas still means snow on the hills from Prairie du Rocher and Sparta on down to Chester and Rockwood. The list could be extended—the folks from Butler, Pike, Jefferson, Dent and many other counties are organized. Why, 2500 have been known to turn out to the Southeast Missouri Club picnic alone!

Outwardly a large city like St. Louis may be impersonal, sophisticated, highly urbanized. In reality, it is made up in large measure of people who like to talk over new things and old times back home.

Nineteen years after it happened, a witness appears who says he saw Tom Mooney on a roof a mile away from the scene of that Preparedness day explosion. Most of us, we imagine, would forgive Mooney for flinging a bomb at that chap.

OPEN SEASON.

British Psychology in Ethiopian Crisis

American visitor says British ability to become self-righteous in matters affecting own interests is again demonstrated in Ethiopian affair; even pacifistic Laborites favor sanctions; continuation of Anglo-French friendship, in all probability hangs upon latter's co-operation with Britain in action against Italy.

A Letter from William S. Wasserman of Philadelphia to Business Associates.

LONDON.

THE Ethiopian affair is being taken very seriously here in London, far more seriously than in France. It is on everybody's lips. Yesterday evening, as I came out of the Kensington Museum, I overheard two workmen talking. One of them said, "I've heard they just bombed Addis Ababa." The other replied, "That's a damned lie. The British reaction to this whole affair is a rather complicated one. The answer is to be found in the make-up of the British character, the strongest factor, being that the British have the amazing ability to become completely self-righteous about a cause which affects their own vital interests; a self-righteousness so sincere that it is entirely able to ignore the ironies of the situation. Certainly when one sees the entire League of Nations are willing to give it this one final test, because all parties feel that a League solution of the Ethiopian problem at this time offers the one chance of preserving world peace. The British argue that if France backs England up now she will never have anything to fear from Germany. Even if Italy should go into the German camp, Italy and Germany together would never dare to defy the League, which would have at its command the combined strength of England, France and Russia, and unquestionably the moral support at least of the United States. Stop Italy now and you weaken all the cause of world peace, that they are capable of cynically making a deal with the Italians."

To justify their own sentiments and their own sense of fairness, this Ethiopian incident has had to be made into a righteous cause, mainly the cause of world peace, and the only force that is available at the moment that can act collectively and with sufficient strength is a League composed of nations willing to use their strength and make their sacrifices for that cause.

I agree completely with British opinion that if France backs England up now she will never have anything to fear from Germany. Even if Italy should go into the German camp, Italy and Germany together would never dare to defy the League, which would have at its command the combined strength of England, France and Russia, and unquestionably the moral support at least of the United States. Stop Italy now and you weaken all the cause of world peace, that they are capable of cynically making a deal with the Italians."

The irony of all this, and the tragedy of it, is that the League did not function at the time of the invasion by Japan of Manchoukuo, so that the French, who are both cynical and realistic at the same time, accuse the British of invoking the League solely because their own special interests are involved. This accusation the British deeply resent, even to the point where it is likely to destroy what Anglo-French friendship remains.

The French are in a difficult position. They have asked Mussolini at considerable sacrifice and effort, and now when they have him where they want him, they see all their efforts being destroyed by what appears to them a minor colonial war, which should, of their way that if they go very far in enforcing sanctions against Mussolini, they will inevitably drive him into the German camp, and their dream of a complete circle around Germany would thus be finished.

Therefore, they argue to themselves, "Why can't the British be realists and let the Italians alone?" smoothing the whole trouble over by some innocuous formula that will save the face of the League and at the same time preserve the system of League military alliances which the French so ardently desire. At the same time, they are aware that the British would be able to come to terms with Italy in such a way as to preserve British interests in Ethiopia.

This French logic leaves out of consideration the real quality of the British people, a quality which I call their sentimentality, and which the French, with greater cynicism, call British hypocrisy. Unconsciously, the average Britisher feels that the Italian threat to Ethiopia is a threat to the British Empire. No Briton's pride will permit him to admit this even to himself, and so this thought has to remain in the background, but nevertheless dominating the emotional response of the British. They dare not admit even to themselves, that they are capable of cynically making a deal with the Italians.

To justify their own sentiments and their own sense of fairness, this Ethiopian incident has had to be made into a righteous cause, mainly the cause of world peace, and the only force that is available at the moment that can act collectively and with sufficient strength is a League composed of nations willing to use their strength and make their sacrifices for that cause.

I agree completely with British opinion that if France backs England up now she will never have anything to fear from Germany. Even if Italy should go into the German camp, Italy and Germany together would never dare to defy the League, which would have at its command the combined strength of England, France and Russia, and unquestionably the moral support at least of the United States. Stop Italy now and you weaken all the cause of world peace, that they are capable of cynically making a deal with the Italians."

Thus, in a sense, this little Ethiopian affair becomes the balancing point on which is hinged the future of European civilization. If France should fail to support England strongly and courageously, the English people would withdraw from the League, spiritually if not physically. France would be isolated and to Germany would be handed the hegemony of Europe. Hitler, encouraged, would undoubtedly plan for his way of conquest, a way that would be aimed at the east, Austria, the Balkans, Russia and the Ukraine. This the British know; their statesmen know that if France fails them now the people will never forget and that it will be difficult, if not impossible, to bring England's help to France when she may next need it.

CAMPAIGN FUND NORMALCY.

THE quarterly reports on campaign funds are filed by the Republican and Democratic national committees. Though recently in the hole, the Republicans now are and have a surplus. The Democrats are sunk deeper into the red, owing $417,000. In unpaid hotel and office-rent bills, they owe $25,000.

The Republicans flush and the Democrats broke! That's evidence that old times are here again!

From the Kansas City Journal-Post.

VERY few years, farmers of the Middle West get the brunt of financial depression, or feel the effects of the ebb and flow of the complicated economics of today, when the world is not yet recovered from its last great illness.

When demand and shortage or other factors, natural or artificial, result in high prices for a given commodity, be it live stock or grain, many rush to get on the bandwagon. The result is always an over-supply in that commodity, with a resultant sag in prices.

Through long periods of such recurring fat and lean years, there is one type of farmer who seems to weather the storms pretty well. He maintains a well-run farm, efficiently managed; does not overreach himself in asking or getting credit; does not, so to speak, put his eggs all in one basket.

His family is supported, or used to be, largely because, regardless of the direction in which the economic wind is blowing, he has a safe set out to catch it. He is not under pressure from the town bank, because he has avoided heavy borrowings in order to become a "big shot" in farming. This man believes in pastures as well as in seed crops. He keeps hogs for meat as well as to sell. He raises chickens and lives on the eggs, or sells them when prices are up. He has some fruit trees. He does not necessarily specialize in fancy livestock, to the exclusion of a well-proved anchor to windward. And in times of stress and uncertainty, there is always a market at prevailing prices, some of which at least are good, for a part of what he has to sell.

Diversified farming has been the savior of many a farmer in the Mississippi Valley. Realizing that as time goes on, there is a periodic return to ill-fortune already has returned, others are in process of doing so. But as long as farming remains the backbone of the business of this section, making possible some large industrial and commercial centers, there will always be a strong pull for the rising generations to pull away from the land and to go to the cities. That is at times a snare and a delusion, unless the land is still there. It is always needed. Its products will always have a market, or can be used for self-sustenance. But overreaching will also spell disaster at one time or another to a farming specialist.

INDIA'S NEW CONSTITUTION.

THE bill is an act. Whatever the deviousness and tedium of the approach to it, and however discordant the clamor that has heralded it, the event has had no parallel anywhere on the earth.

Never before has the whole of this sub-continent, from the Kilik Pass to Comorin, from the Chauhan Pass to Robat, had a single constitution making it one in law. Never in history has a unique diversity of peoples been given a compelling opportunity, not merely to call themselves a nation, but many of them have already done in spite of sometimes contrary behavior, but to work together as such with machinery made for that very purpose. Nor is there any precedent in the rise and fall of many empires for so great a voluntary handing over by one ruling race of legislative authority to a different and subject race.

These are facts, and no criticism of the Government of India Act, none of its obvious defects, not even all its imagined evils can alter or gloss those facts.

The DAILY WA
MERRY GO

By DREW PEARSON and RO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.

HOW closely the British are keeping of every move they make in a war-charged Europe was emphasized in a recent cable to the State Department by the American Ambassador in London.

Ambassador Bingham fairly glowed as he gave him advance information regarding everything they intended doing. In fact, the former Kentucky Judge sounded almost like that other great friend of the British, Walter Hines Page, who urged American entrance into the World War during the days of Woodrow Wilson.

Entirely aside from the personal opinions of Ambassador Bingham, however, the most important element on the international front as far as this country is concerned has been the constant exchange of information with the British.

The niceties of diplomatic language do not permit the use of the word "co-operation." Roosevelt has been careful to keep the United States clear of any alliances, indirect or otherwise. But behind the scenes there has been daily evidence that within the limits allowed by Congress, Roosevelt is giving what moral support he can to Britain and the League.

Confidential Moves.

ALL of these moves are of a confidential nature and subject to diplomatic denial. However, below are summarized the most important:

The British inquired (very informally) what the United States could do if a naval blockade was imposed against Italy. The State Department replied (with equal informality) that the blockade would be respected.

The British inquired whether, in case of war, their fleet would have the support of the American fleet in the Pacific. So far as is known, no commitment was given.

The American embassy in Paris addressed an informal and vaguely worded communication to the Quai d'Orsay, which had the effect of placing the United States morally behind the League and the British.

Roosevelt's arms embargo proclamation from the Houston and the warning to American citizens against travel on belligerent vessels—which meant Italian—was calculated to support the peace plans at Geneva.

The action of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in circulating member banks against the sale of the belligerents—which again means Italy—had the same purpose.

High officials responsible for these moves are loath to discuss them, but it can be stated that they are motivated by two chief factors.

One is fear of trouble in the Far East while the British are absorbed in the Mediterranean. The Japanese already have shown signs of aggression in Siberia and South China.

The second is the almost certain knowledge that if the Abyssinians are prolonged, the rest of Europe will come in.

The Roosevelt-Hull philosophy, whether right or wrong, is that an ounce of prevention now is worth a pound of cure later.

General Johnson

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

HITLER is an explosive force in the European powder magazine. Mussolini could not maintain even a few months of modern war, because that requires a vast steel industry. Italy does not have that—but the Nazis have.

Switzerland sharply conditioned her "sanctions" against Italy and Austria is closing no doors across her borders. Thus the way is wide open for the shipment of all materials of destruction from Germany to Italy.

The Nazi and Fascist business is much greater threat than Communism. There are too many important men in our own country who like to flirt with something of the same idea and too many sympathizers with the Nazi cause. It may seem a superficial thing, but it is worth remark that there is not more general condemnation Health Failed After He Contracted Tropical Disease on Hunt — 73 Years Old.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—Langdon Elwyn Mitchell, playwright, died here yesterday. He was 73 years old.

The ill health which preceded his death was attributed to a tropical disease contracted while on a bear hunting expedition in the Southwest. He maintained a summer home at Santa Fe, N. M., but for other times was a resident of New York.

The son of Silas Weir Mitchell, physician and author, he was born Feb. 17, 1862. He studied law at Harvard and Columbia and was admitted to the New York bar. Then, after traveling abroad he took up practice in Philadelphia, but soon turned to writing, first contributing stories and poems to magazines.

His first play "In the Season" was produced in London in 1893. He dramatized Thackeray's "Vanity Fair" under the title "Becky Sharp" and this, together with a play dealing with American life, "The New York Idea," which was played by Mme. Bertha Kalich; "Step by Step," "The New Marriage," and "Major Pennington." He also wrote several books of verse.

A volume of essays, "Understanding America," appeared in 1927. In 1929 he became the first occupant of the mask and wig chair of drama at the University of Pennsylvania.

In 1892 he married Marion Lea, an actress, formerly of Philadelphia. She survives, together with two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Day, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. William Gammell, of Providence, R. I., and a son, Weir Mitchell, of New York.

General Johnson's Article

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

HYTLER is an explosive force in the European powder magazine. Mussolini could not maintain even a few months of modern war, because it requires a vast industrial base, which he does not have.

Switzerland sharply conditioned her "neutrality" against Italy and Austria is closing no doors across her borders. Thus the way is wide open for the shipment of all materials of destruction from Germany to Italy.

It is this that Britain fears. Here lies the principal threat of European war becoming general.

This Nazi and Fascist business is a much greater threat to Communism. There are too many important men in our own country who like to flirt with something of the same idea and too many sympathizers with the Nazi cause.

It may seem a superficial thing, but it is worth remark that there is not more general condemnation of our sending athletes to compete in the Berlin Olympiad.

If there is one human enterprise where men can and ought to be treated with scrupulous equality it is in athletic contests. How can there be a "fair field and no favor" in a country which not only indicts but condemns a whole people?

A contest the sole purpose of which is to find out nothing less than who are the best athletes in the world is simply "no contest" when an entire class of contestants is handicapped in it for no other reason than that their racial strain is not approved by the Keeper of the Show.

This and other signs of national madness are not lunacies of whole peoples. They are the insanities of individuals. War itself is insanity and these things demonstrate that what all of history proves—dictatorships make war because they permit the unbalance of a single man to topple over a whole nation.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY GETS PIN WORN 90 YEARS AGO

Tortoise-Shell Bonnet Ornament Loaned by Descendants of Mayor Peter G. Camden.

A slender, tortoise-shell bonnet pin, which was worn about 90 years ago by Mrs. Peter G. Camden when her husband was Mayor, has been loaned to the Missouri Historical Society by her four grand-daughters, the Misses Julia, Delia, Sallie George and Eleanor Case of 420 Carson road, Ferguson.

The pin was stuck in the hair knot at the back of the neck to form a support for the small bonnets of that day. It has been placed on display in the east wing of the Jefferson Memorial with other objects of its period. Mayor Camden's administration ended in 1847.

Some Abyssinian coffee which has been among the Lindbergh trophies since his and Mrs. Lindbergh's South Atlantic flight in December, 1933, was placed in a special display yesterday after a visit by two coffee experts from San Salvador, who recognized it. FIRST DEFENDANT
PLEADS GUILTY IN INSURANCE KILLINGAlbert Vowels, One of Five Charged With Murder at Charleston, Mo., Admits
Part in Crime.Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHARLESTON, Mo., Oct. 22.—Albert Vowels of Wyatt pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of first-degree murder in the death of E. P. McCutcheon, who was killed, allegedly in an insurance plot, July 3.

Vowels, first of five defendants in the case to come to trial, is the proprietor of a store in Wyatt where McCutcheon was last seen alive the night of the killing.

The plea was entered with a minimum of publicity, and most of those who came to the courtroom to hear the case, continued from last Wednesday, left without learning its disposition.

It was first announced that Vowels would not be tried yesterday. Then, after a recess had been taken Vowels' attorney entered the plea. Vowels was not valued on to testify, nor did his lawyer enlarge on the plea.

Sentence was deferred by Judge Frank Kelly, who did not indicate when sentence would be pronounced.

May Be State Witness.
Vowels, it is known, has made a confession in the case, but details have not been made public.

It is expected he will be used as a witness by the State in the trial of Fred Mansker, Chester Brightman, Negro, and Bud Greese, scheduled for Thursday.

Judge Kelly also granted a change of venue to C. V. Williams, Charleston insurance man, who sold policies to McCutcheon. His trial on the murder charge will be held before Judge Kelly in Jackson, Cape Girardeau County, during the January term of court.

Implicated by Brightman.
While Vowels' confession was not made public, it was learned that Brightman had named him in a confession as having struck Mc-Cutcheon the first blow.

According to the Negro, Vowels and Mansker offered him $250 to kill McCutcheon, saying they would get $1000 for the crime. They put McCutcheon in an auto, Brightman said, and drove to the place where the body was later found.

The Negro said Vowels struck McCutcheon on the head with a hammer, causing him to fall to his knees. Then, he said, he gave the hammer to Brightman and told him to hit the man again. This he did, Brightman said, and McCutcheon fell to the ground and flattened out. Brightman said he got blood on his hands and walked in front of the car's headlights to inspect them, but Vowels made him get out of the light.

Then, he said, Vowels took the hammer, went behind the car, out of Brightman's vision, and threw it away.

After McCutcheon's body was found authorities received reports that money had been offered for the killing of McCutcheon, a 45-year-old levee worker.

Had Sold to $2500 Policies.
Authorities then learned that Williams had sold McCutcheon two $2500 insurance policies, which named the dead man's estate as beneficiary.

Other evidence indicated that several of those charged with the murder had collected $200 to pay up back premiums on the policies. The five were arrested and charged with murder, Williams and Vowels being released on bond. Their bondsmen, however, later asked to be released, and the two were returned to jail.

It was first believed McCutcheon had been killed by a shotgun charge fired at short range, but the body was disinterred during a grand jury investigation, and it was decided death had been caused by blows struck with a hammer or some other heavy instrument.

for Bad Government.

It is useless for honest people to vote and more futile to attempt to run for office, the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., asserted last night in supporting the affirmative side of a debate at St. Louis University Auditorium on the question, "Resolved, That Good People Are to Blame for Bad Government." The audience gave him a three-to-one vote over the Rev. Edward P. Dowling, S. J., who argued for the negative.

"It is like using a bow and arrow against a machine gun for a decent citizen to vote against a machine," Father Lord said. "In our fair State of Missouri a certain gentleman decides long before election time who is going to win. When you go to the polls you are given two slips containing the names of those selected by party machines. The average voter has no choice in the matter."

Father Dowling joined Father Lord in a criticism of American newspapers, which, he asserted, had failed in their duty to the people by misleading them with "blind partisanship."

CHICAGO THEATER TO CLOSE

Counsel Announces After Kelly Signs Order to Revoke License.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Counsel for the Selwyn Theater announced last night that "Tobacco Road," the play which Mayor Edward J. Kelly described as "just a mass of filth," would not reopen.

Henry Hull, the leading player of Erskine Caldwell's drama of life among the share croppers of the South, and John J. Garrity, representing the Shubert interests, agreed to close the show after a conference with Mayor Kelly, they said. Previously, the Mayor had agreed an order revoking the theater's license. Officers of the theater refused his request to close the show voluntarily.

The Mayor, who saw the play last night, objected especially to what he termed its "profane language."

40-Hour Week Law.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Postal officials said yesterday that 7600 substitutes have been given permanent jobs as postoffice clerks and mail men since the 40-hour week for postal employees took effect Sept. 1. For the first time in nearly five years, examinations for postal jobs are being given again throughout the country, they said.

The railway mail service, which started holding examinations again this week, expects to hire about 1000 men, and the postoffices of the country will add another 200 or 300 men to their staffs. Hiring of new postoffice clerks and mail men has been "very limited" since 1929 and 1930, postoffice officials said. The 40-hour week was applied to all postal workers, effective Sept. 1, under an act of the last Congress.

Interfering Factors.
He said he found three major types of business organizations which have interfered with competitive price movements: Unifed monopoly or industrial combination, the "collective monopoly" cartels, found chiefly in Europe, and trade associations.

The report continued: "Over an ever-widening area the process of persistently expanding purchasing power by means of price reductions has been checked." The results have been clearly manifested in the decade of the twenties. This was a period of remarkable technological advancement and both the amount of capital and the efficiency of its use increased in nearly all lines.

"But the benefits were not automatically passed on to the masses of consumers either through price reductions. Wholesale prices of manufactured commodities declined a scant 5 per cent and retail prices not at all."

ELECTION IN DENMARK TODAY
Voters Choosing New Lower House;
Old One Dissolved.By the Associated Press.
COPENHAGEN, Oct. 22.—Denmark is voting today for a new lower house in Parliament, with the Government's agricultural policy the major issue. The action of Prime Minister M. Stauning in dissolving the former lower house and forcing the election was accepted as a challenge by farmer extremists who want further devaluation of the krone.

No great change in the existing lineup was foreseen. The Government held 76 seats in the former house, divided between 62 Socialists and 14 Radical Lefts. In the opposition of 62 members the Conservatives held 27 votes and the Peasants' Left party 35. The remaining 11 seats were divided among unimportant parties. The farmer extremists seek devaluation of the krone to 30 to the pound, compared with 22.40 as at present, in order to receive more in kroner for their exports to Great Britain.

STOCKHOLDERS SEEK REHEARING
Want to Intervene in C. & E. I.
Railroad Reorganization.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The protective committee for 7 per cent and 6 per cent preferred stockholders of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co. applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission today for a rehearing by the entire commission of its plea for permission to intervene in reorganization hearings of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad Co.

The committee recently suggested to the Commission a consolidation of the Rock Island, C. & E. I., and the St. Louis San Francisco Railway. The C. & E. I. is a Van Sweringen-controlled line. All the roads are in receivership, and the committee wants them combined into one great Midwestern system. The committee says it represents more than 10 per cent of both classes of Rock Island stock. Its first effort to intervene was overruled by Director Sweet of the finance division of the commission.

[A FABLE WITH A MORAL FOR YOU]

A man got into a legal tangle. He looked about for someone to handle his case. His logical choice was a lawyer who was noted for his ability and experience. But he said: "I'll get Doctor New-Comer. He did a neat job on my appendix last year and his fee wasn't stiff." So he persuaded the doctor to act as his counsel. The good "Doc," not being experienced in matters of this sort, overlooked a few important technicalities and lost the decision.

HE LET HIS DOCTOR PLEAD HIS CASE
... and he lost

WHEN you want sound advice, expert treatment, or economical service, get it through the man or the company who has had years of successful experience in giving the kind of advice, treatment or service you need. That's common sense. It is applicable now to millions of people throughout the country... perhaps to you.

Let's say you are going to buy a new car... a new oil burner... a new refrigerator... a fleet of trucks for your business, or an engine for your factory. HOW ARE YOU GOING TO FINANCE YOUR PURCHASE?

Time payment financing dates back many years. It is a highly specialized business requiring specially trained employees. It calls for a business man's knowledge of the article being purchased; a banker's knowledge of finance; an insurance actuary's knowledge of probabilities; a lawyer's knowledge of legal rights and obligations; and above all an expert personnel, familiar with and considerate in handling credit and collection problems. Only then can both the buyer and the seller be thoroughly protected.

When you are offered a new plan of time payment financing, by a company or institution new to the business, think carefully before you accept it. Lack of experience tends to create difficulties and embarrassments. You can't afford to experiment. Plans that seem cheap at the outset may prove costly in the end. It has taken experts many years to perfect the economical, safe system of operation that has made Commercial Credit Company an outstanding leader. But today, its reputation, experience and personnel guarantee your protection from annoyance, humiliation and even material loss.

For twenty-three years it has been helping millions to better and happier living. You can pay for a car, refrigerator, oil burner, engine or other needed equipment out of current income or earnings, at the lowest cost consistent with the complete service and kind of protection the Official Commercial Credit Plan gives you.

So, buy what you want and need... for your home... for your business. But bear one thing always in mind. In making arrangements to pay for purchases, insist on a financing plan backed by a company of long experience in nationwide operation. Tell your dealer you want the Official Commercial Credit Plan. Insist upon it when you buy on time.

HOW COMMERCIAL CREDIT COMPANY SERVES BUYER AND SELLER
Commercial Credit Company purchases current open accounts receivable, notes, and installment obligations from responsible manufacturers, distributors and dealers. Financing plans are provided to cover the time payment sale of automobiles, refrigerators, oil burners, engines, machinery and equipment, air conditioning, heating plants, store and office fixtures, boats and a score of other such broad classifications, including hundreds of individual products.

In addition to financing wholesale and retail purchases of merchandise, Commercial Credit Company offers valuable special services to industrial concerns including the purchase of current open accounts receivable, notes, installment obligations and financial assistance in the replacement of fixtures, machinery or other important equipment.

Founded in 1912 with $100,000 capital, Commercial Credit Company is today one of the largest institutions of its kind. It operates through more than 2,000 employees in 134 local offices in the United States and Canada, and is owned by nearly 15,000 stockholders.

With more than $45,000,000 capital and surplus, and a volume of more than $450,000,000 for the last twelve months, it offers large resources to promote local industrial activity.

He said he found three major types of business organizations which have interfered with competitive price movements: Unified monopoly or industrial combination, the "collective monopoly" cartels, formed chiefly in Europe, and trade associations.

The report continued: "Over an ever-widening area the process of persistently expanding purchasing power by means of price reductions has been checked." The results have been clearly manifested in the decade of the twenties. This was a period of remarkable technological advancement and both the amount of capital and the efficiency of its use increased in nearly all lines.

"But the benefits were not automatically passed on to the masses of consumers either through proportional wage increases or price reductions. Wholesale prices of manufactured commodities declined at about 5 per cent and retail prices not at all."

AUTHORITY OF LABOR BOARD CHALLENGED AT HEARING

Attorney for Bus Line Declares Wagner Law, Under Which It Functions, Is Void.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 22.—The authority of the National Labor Board was challenged today at the outset of a hearing into charges that the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc., dismissed nine employees for joining a union.

Ivan Bowen, general counsel for the bus line, filed an objection against the proceedings, contending the Wagner law, under which the board functions, is unconstitutional. The attorney gave these reasons: "It delegates legislative power to the board contrary to and in violation of section 1, article I, of the Constitution. The act is invalid, void and in contravention of articles 13, section 1, of the amendment to the Constitution, prohibiting involuntary servitude."

The three-judge board, headed by J. Warren Madden, came here personally to hear the case.

COAL DEALER FINED ON CHARGE OF ALTERING WEIGHT TICKET

Tony Casenza Accused of Changing 5650-Lb. Fuel Certificate to Read 5750.

Tony Casenza, a coal dealer, 2931 Cass avenue, was fined a total of $100 today by Police Judge Vest for fraud and deceit in the sale of merchandise, using a false weight certificate and altering a weight ticket.

H. W. Kessler, inspector for the Department of Weights and Measures, testified that on Oct. 12 Casenza contracted to deliver 6000 pounds of Belleville lump coal to W. E. Thiemeyer, 2710 Sullivan avenue.

On that day, Kessler said, Casenza delivered only 5650 pounds of coal. He said that a city weight ticket had been issued to the dealer by a bonded weigher, and that Casenza altered it to read 5750 pounds.

Financing plans are provided to cover the time payment sale of automobiles, refrigerators, oil burners, engines, machinery and equipment, air conditioning units, heating plants, store and office fixtures, boats and a score of other such broad classifications, including hundreds of individual products.

In addition to financing wholesale and retail purchases of merchandise, Commercial Credit Company offers valuable special services to industrial concerns including the purchase of current open accounts receivable, notes, installment obligations and financial assistance in the replacement of fixtures, machinery or other important equipment.

Founded in 1912 with $300,000 capital, Commercial Credit Company is today one of the largest institutions of its kind. It operates through more than 2,200 employees in 154 local offices in the United States and Canada, and is owned by nearly 15,000 stockholders.

With more than $45,000,000 capital and surplus, and a volume of more than $450,000,000 for the last twelve months, it offers large resources to promote local industrial activity.

Here's VERY FAST WAY To "Alkalize" Acid Indigestion Away

NO MORE HEADACHES AND NAUSEA EVEN AFTER A BIG DINNER, DOCTOR—AND THINK HOW SIMPLE YOUR SUGGESTION WAS!

THERE'S NOTHING LIKE PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA TO ALKALIZE THE ACIDS CAUSING SUCH TROUBLES—(IT'S WONDERFULLY EFFECTIVE)

If you want really quick relief from an upset or painful stomach condition—arising from acidity following over-eating, smoking, mixtures of foods or stimulants—just try this:

Take—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a full glass of water. OR—2 Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets, the exact equivalent of the liquid form.

This acts to almost immediately alkalize the whole stomach content. Neutralizes the acids that cause headaches, nausea, and indigestion pains. You feel results at once.

Thousands of people are finding out that nothing else they've ever tried, alkalizes, and eases an acid stomach so quickly. Try it. AND—if you are a frequent sufferer from "acid stomach," use Phillips' Milk of Magnesia 30 minutes after meals. You'll forget you have a stomach!

When you buy, see that any box or bottle you accept is clearly marked "Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia." Only 25¢ for a big box of the tablets that you can conveniently carry with you.

St. Louis County is changing to Gas Heat

The One-Year Plan

makes it easy for ST. LOUIS COUNTY residents to modernize their heating systems

The Gas Company will tell you how much gas it should take to heat your home for one year... will install a gas burner in your furnace and remove it at the end of the year, refunding all payments on the burner, if the cost of gas exceeds that specified under the plan.

This Plan will put gas heat in your home now and will either prove that its cost does not exceed the budget set for it or will give you the privilege of having it removed without losing a penny on the burner.

THERE ARE A LOT OF PEOPLE IN THE COUNTY who have not allowed an old idea to bluff them out of the comfort and many other advantages of Gas Heat. They went after the facts! Finding that this modern heat gives more for the money, they had it put in their homes. Now they can enjoy Winter! No matter how cold it gets or how impassable the streets, they will have all the heat they want... and without touching or worrying about the furnace.

Gas Heat is carefree and sure, clean and healthful! It has gone into more COUNTY homes this year than ever before. Have you arranged to have it go into yours?

As the cost of heating a house depends entirely upon the requirements of that particular house a careful survey must be made. We do this for our customers free of charge and free of obligation. They have only to ask for it, calling REpublic 4561.

LIEUT.-GOV. FRANK HARRIS TO SEEK RENOMINATION

He Is Expected to Get Support of Boss Tom Pendergast in August Primary.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank G. Harris announced in Columbia yesterday his candidacy for renomination in the Democratic primary next August.

Harris was among those considered as possible candidates for the nomination for Governor until last week, when Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City announced that his support would go to Lloyd C. Stark of Louisiana. Harris is expected to have Pendergast's support for renomination for the office of Lieutenant-Governor.

The Best GRAY HAIR Remedy is Made at Home

YOU can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy, by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Use the last twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. Barbo imparts color, streaks, faded or gray hair, makes it soft and glossy and takes years off your looks. It will not color scalp, is not sticky or greasy—does not rub off.

TWO SENTENCED ON CHARGES OF DRUNKEN DRIVING

One Gets 10 Days, Other Paroled on Promise Not to Drive for Six Months.

Cecil Edwards, 17 years old, 6131 Eveline street, was fined $50 on a charge of driving when intoxicated by Police Judge Simpson yesterday and paroled on the condition he would not drive an automobile for six months and would attend traffic school for eight consecutive Monday nights.

Clarence Jordan, Negro mechanic, 3412 Pine boulevard, was sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse by Police Judge Simpson on each charge of careless driving and driving when intoxicated. Police testified that Jordan's automobile hit a parked car in the 3300 block of Market street.

William P. Hogan, an employee of the City Water Department, 1218 Clara avenue, was fined $100 for careless driving by Police Judge Vest. Testimony was that Hogan's automobile struck Joseph Nestle, 3940 Palm street. Hogan appealed. Three companions of Hogan, Jesse Jones, 2825 Hickory street, Joseph Sweetin, 3818 Finney avenue, and Patrick Moynahan, 3951 Evans avenue, all employees of the Water Department, were each fined $25 for interfering with a police officer. Police testified that the three men tried to take Hogan from their custody when they had arrested him after the accident.

WAITRESS SAID TO ADMIT ROBBERY MILK TRUCK DRIVER

Believed to Be Companion of Two Younger Girls Who Are Accused of Shoplifting.

A 17-year-old waitress, sought as the companion of two younger girls who held up Wilfred Freund, milk truck driver, at Olive Street and North and South roads, Oct. 12, and robbed him of $1.25 at the point of a pistol after he had given them a ride in his truck, was arrested yesterday.

Police reported she confessed taking part in the holdup and in one of 15 burglaries admitted by the other girls. A watch and a ring, stolen from the home of Curden Lanier, 9610 Page boulevard, Oct. 11, were recovered from young men to whom the waitress had given them.

She told police her mother was dead and that she did not know the whereabouts of her father. Her companions, 14 and 16 years old, were identified by Freund after they had been arrested for shoplifting.

Los Angeles Prosecutor Alleges Forgery; Body of A. L. Cheney to Be Exhumed.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—Arrest of Mrs. Hazel Belford Glab, 37-year-old widow, was ordered last night by the District Attorney's office after the grand jury, investigating the $400,000 Albert L. Cheney will case, returned secret indictments naming three persons.

When he went before the grand jury yesterday, Deputy District Attorney Eugene Williams said he would advance charges of forgery and preparing false evidence.

Mrs. Glab was named chief beneficiary in a purported will which Superior Judge William Palmer recently called a forgery.

Player of Lincoln Roles Dead.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—The body of Joseph Appleton Mills, 60 years old, who portrayed Abraham Lincoln on stage and screen, was cremated yesterday, after funeral services at a mortuary. He died Saturday. He took the part of Lincoln in the picture, "Abraham Lincoln," filmed several years ago.

SPEAKERS SAY CHILD SHOULD HAVE FREEDOM

Effects of Domination Discussed at Parental Education Conference.

The child, from infancy to maturity, should be allowed to grow up free of parental domination and dependence, and under adult guidance be permitted to determine the course of his life, speakers stated yesterday at the parent education conference. The conference, sponsored by University College of Washington University and the St. Louis Council for Parent Education, opened yesterday at Hotel Statler.

The speakers, taking part in a panel discussion of "Growing Up With the Child," told of the problems faced by the parents and the child during the various stages in the child's schooling. Dr. Katherine Bain, St. Louis pediatrician, the opening speaker, pointed out that during babyhood the child frequently gets off to a bad start in life by being allowed to become too dependent on the mother.

"Education at this stage," she said, "is wholly a family matter. The trouble is that mothers seem to derive satisfaction in seeing how dependent their children are on them. The parents should attempt to adopt a philosophy which regards the child as an individual, and should strive to train the child to be physically independent when 2 years old."

From 3 to 5 Years of Age.

Taking the discussion at that point, Mrs. Julia B. Goldstein, nurse-very school head, stated the child should be taught from 3 to 5 years of age how to be physically and emotionally independent. He should learn, she said, to lace his shoes, button his clothes, wash and comb his hair. Emotionally, the child should learn how to act in social situations, to take care of himself with other children, and not to run to adults for help. This training is impossible, she said, unless in the home, the parents are mature and emotionally stable.

On entering the lower grades of the primary school, the child is subjected to a more complex change, Miss Mildred Bush, teacher at Hamilton School, said. Up to this time, she stated, everything in the child's life has been "I," but now he must learn to be considerate of others. "At this age the parents begin pushing the child in his school work—become too ambitious for the child to advance more rapidly than he should. They want their child to be the first to learn to read in the neighborhood, or to keep up with the 'Jones' boy."

By the time the child reaches the upper grades he begins to feel important, feels that he knows everything and becomes assertive, Miss Mary Henry, public school teacher, said. It is characteristic at this age, she pointed out, that when the child is in an uncomfortable situation, he attempts to dodge the issue by crying, blaming someone else or by day-dreaming. The remedy, she said, was to make the child see the difficulty and realize he is wrong.

The Child in High School.

Julian M. Aldrich, assistant principal of Webster Groves High School, declared the child in high school is practically an adult mentally and physically, and lacks only the experience of the parents.

"Parents of high school students," Aldrich said, "do not allow their children to be adults, and continue to make the children dependent on them economically and socially. This results in the familiar family arguments over money, use of the automobile, selection of friends, and where are going and when will you be back."

Adults must recognize that these students are adults, he commented, and give them the opportunity for self-direction. He warned parents not to try and have "your children fulfill your unfulfilled desires."

Missouri U. Students' Reports.

Dr. Fred McKinney, psychology professor at the University of Missouri, told of the results of papers written 73 university students on what they thought of their parents. Undesirable factors brought out, Dr. McKinney reported, were parental domination, lack of understanding, nagging, refusal to discuss questions frankly, too much sympathy and the selection of vocation for them.

Favorable qualities noted, Dr. McKinney stated, were companionship, knowing and meeting physical needs, frank advice and discussions, impressing ideals and social freedom.

Quoting sentences from the papers, Dr. McKinney said these were characteristic: "My parents think I'm a child—they are always explaining the obvious." "My parents make my decisions for me." "My mother is always telling me what sacrifices she has made for me." "I am afraid of my father." "I enjoy the faith and trust of my parents."

The conference continued today with a morning panel discussion on "Parents and Teachers Look at Children," and an afternoon panel on "Child Guidance as Seen by Experts." A father's luncheon was held at the hotel, at which Dr. Mandel Sherman, University of Chicago, spoke.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

SUNDAY was spent showing Niagara Falls to three young daughters. For the occasion, there was an unusually fine rain-fall, starting on one side of the Horseshoe Falls, ending on the other, no "pot of gold" visible at either end.

The children, who knew about the big lakes from their geography, were interested in so much water falling down over the big cliff. Your narrator was interested in wild ducks standing on the edge of the stone precipice on the American side in a spot where the water was rather thin. Those intelligent ducks, each being "reported" by machine, did not worry about being swept over the edge. When it happened occasionally, they flew up through the mist and came back.

They chose their hunting ground intelligently, for small fish, drawn into the rapids, knocked against the rocks, unable to swim upstream, are very dizzy as they go over the edge of the cataract. It is easy for the ducks to select the right size and swallow them.

Some able conquerors from Asia may do the same thing for some of the poor fish of Europe some day, unless they develop intelligence and learn to refrain from wholesale murder.

The Ethiopian legion in London, in a public statement, warns Italians to discontinue "reported use of poison gas, explosives and dum-dum bullets," suggesting that such warfare "may bring savage retaliation against Italian war prisoners. It will not be possible to restrain the wilder and bared sections of the Abyssinian army from retaliating on Italian prisoners."

Ethiopia's representative warns "all white people that they will be intensely hated by all peoples of Africa and, we think, of Asia, for some years to come."

On the other hand, reports from the "Holy City of Aksum" say that the Italians began distributing grain to the starving, say "ten chicks came in from the surrounding country to surrender with their men and swear allegiance to Italy."

The man who came expressed delight when informed by Italian political officials that slavery was abolished.

The Ethiopian Emperor has ordered 500,000 warriors to attack the Italians on the Tigre front line, because "waiting for the League of Nations will be a long wait." He is even thinking of going to the front line himself.

In that same Tigre country, held now by Italy, all the slaves have been set free and Italy, wishing to make friends, will pay cash for slaves freed from their masters. There remains a problem about married slaves. Will their marriages be recognized under Italian law?

Intelligent fellow citizens of the Negro race in America may find their sympathy for Ethiopia cooled by the fact that Mussolini is ending slavery as he advances.

Ethiopia's ruling family of an Arabic branch of the Semitic race, has for centuries found prosperity in the slave trade. Many of the Negroes sent in horrible slave ships to the United States in days past were shipped here by Haile Selassie's Arabic ancestors.

A League of Nations' appeal to the United States "to scrap its neutrality policy in the Italian-Ethiopian war, and join Europe in clamping iron-clad sanctions against Italy" is on its way to our State Department.

President Roosevelt returning next Thursday might reply: "What about a little payment on account of the ten thousand million dollars you owe us? That interests us more than 'clamping.'"

You will be delighted to hear that the League of Nations would like the United States to agree to help make good the losses of small countries that lose money by refusing to trade with Italy.

Your Supreme Court orders the national administration to answer by Nov. 11 the State of Georgia's attack on the New Deal "cotton control" program. THE DUCK SEASON OPENS

The 1935 duck hunting season got under way yesterday. These two hunters bagged the limit in the Grass Lake region, 45 miles northwest of Chicago.

THE Language of Plays
By Ely Culbertson

FROM the opening lead to the thirteenth trick there really are no meaningless plays in bridge. Even when the card played cannot possibly win the trick, it still can convey information. Since only very young girls, who really are not interested in bridge, and tired business men—who wives inflict bridge on them as a sophisticated form of torture—are pip-blind to the extent of not noticing the difference between any two cards below the jack, it becomes possible to develop a logical and complete network of information for defensive play.

The information generally can be conveyed by either of two distinctly different methods: Positive (encouraging) plays, and negative (discouraging) plays. Both methods are of inestimable value when following suit or discarding to any trick.

In the encouraging or "come-on" method, an unnecessarily high card is played. For example, partner leads the king of a suit, and you, holding the eight and deuce, play the eight rather than the deuce. This you cannot hope to win the trick from your partner's king, your play of the eight obviously is intended as signal. It requests partner to "come on"—to continue leading that suit at the earliest possible moment.

In the discouraging or "stop" method, the lowest card possible is played. Suppose, again, that your partner leads a king, and that you have the eight, five and deuce. This time you play the deuce. It urges partner to discontinue leading that suit and to switch to another at the earliest possible moment.

When the signal is has no "unnecessarily high card" which is not too low to convey encouragement, he employs a device called the "high low" or "echo" by following up his first play with a lower card of the same suit at his earliest convenience. Thus, the play of the three or four from A 2 or K 4 2 is confirmed by following with the deuce. While this device is extremely valuable, its value depends on partner's noticing the order in which the cards are played. So it's a good idea to watch every card partner plays.

A bid of one no trump after an opponent has opened the bidding shows a strong hand of balanced distribution (containing no singleton or void suit). It guarantees at least one trick, and probably two, in the suit the opponent has bid. And while it does not guarantee four honor tricks, as does an opening one no trump bid, the hand as a whole should be capable of winning no less than four tricks not vulnerable, and five tricks vulnerable. The following hand was correctly bid:

♠AKQ53
♥J106
♦852

SOUTH

♠109
♥AK542
♦AQ94
♣J94

♠842
♥AK10
♦AK73
♣AK73

The bidding (neither side vulnerable):
East South West North
1Ht. 1NT(1) Pass 2NT(2)
Pass 3NT(3) (Final bid)

(1) South's hand is too strong to pass. A two-club overcall would not show the four-plus honor tricks, and a take-out double would falsely proclaim strength in spades. The bid of one no trump shows exactly the type of hand South holds.

(2) Game in spades seems doubtful, but game in no trump quite possible, since North's hand probably will win five sure tricks.

(3) South has slightly more than the four trick winners necessary for an overall.

West opened the nine of hearts, and East won the king and ace. Then South got the lead with the heart queen and ran off five spade tricks, two diamonds, and two clubs, making four no trump. Four spades could not have been made, due to a heart ruff.

Today's Question.
Question: What sort of hand is shown by overcalling with a bid of one no trump?
Answer: If the opponents have bid up to two in a suit, and you bid one no trump, you show a stopper in the opponents' suit and the ability to win five or six tricks surely, depending upon whether vulnerable or not. Usually you cannot be sure of winning so many tricks if your strength is distributed, so most two no trump overcalls show a strong minor suit, such as A K Q x x or A K Q x x x, in addition to

Dogs Have Day in Hollywood

PETS ARE POPULAR AMONG SCREEN LUMINARIES

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19.

HIS the most cuddled individual in the household of the star, next to the star himself. He accepts the homage paid him as his just due, and goes about his affairs as though the world were his. He is the screen luminary's dog.

Some are just plain "muts," and others are canine aristocrats with pedigrees as long as a Mahometal Hadji's, but they're all alike in affection and loyalty. Proudly they ride in imported cars on Hollywood boulevard, or sit in dressing rooms while their master works before cameras. There's scarcely a star who hasn't at least one dog, and some own a dozen or more.

Charles Ruggles probably owns more pups than anyone else in Hollywood. His terrier kennels are ranked among the finest in the country, and he often crosses the country in search of dogs. Wirehairs, Cairns and West Highland Whites are his specialties. He had more than a hundred on his San Fernando Valley ranch kennel.

It started as a hobby, but Ruggles found there were substantial profits in dog-raising. Now he ranks it as business. He has bought a shop on Santa Monica boulevard, along which many stars pass en route to their homes in Beverly Hills and Bel-Air.

Another breeder is Harold Lloyd, who has a score or more of Great Danes. Some are of the regulation big color, and others are pie-bald, like pinto horses. They all have the run of Lloyd's estate in Benedict Canyon, a few miles from Hollywood. He has had as many as 65 at one time, besides Scotties and Cocker.

Carole Lombard and Marie Prevost own dachshunds. The two got along fine when Miss Lombard and Miss Prevost started work together in "Hands Across the Table" at Paramount. But on the morning Miss Lombard acquired her pup's nails a brilliant red their friendship ended. The Prevost pup became jealous.

Dachshunds are also Gertrude Michael's choice. She has one of the miniature variety which she calls Johannesburg. When Miss Michael is at leisure Johannesburg has the run of her home in Toluca Lake, and when she's working he waits in her dressing room.

Claudette Colbert's ancestry is indicated by her preference for French poodles. Her Smokie, a beautifully coiffured pet, is a big fellow, able to guard her home. Standing nearly three feet high, Smokie makes a formidable bodyguard.

Some time ago, when Miss Colbert was taking a dancing lesson from LeRoy Prinz, Paramount dance director, Smokie mistook Prinz's intentions and bit him. Smokie has a ruff of black, curly hair around his shoulders and those puffs of curls on tail and legs that are considered so fashionable for French poodles.

Gary Cooper likes bulldogs. He recently bought two bowlegged English bull puppies. So clumsy that they fell all over themselves when they tried to run, they endeared themselves to everyone at the studio in spite of their rather formidable appearance.

Mary Boland, frequent screen teammate of Ruggles, is also a dog fancier, but her preference runs to smaller pets. Her Peka, Little Slam, is the uncrowned ruler of the Boland household. Whatever Little Slam wants he gets, but he is singularly unspoiled. Wherever Miss Boland goes Little Slam is sure to be somewhere in the offing.

Carl Brisson and his career have been linked with dogs. At present he has two large shepherd dogs that he picked up, lost, in Beverly Hills. He has trained them so no one can lay a hand on him without their objecting. The dogs obey him perfectly when he tells them that "It's all right."

The patterned clarity of crystal has been carried out in all types of dishes. One of the loveliest examples is a shallow compote on a plain finger-like stem and smooth base.

Tableware of pure clearness seems to be the most popular just now. Sets of all sizes from liqueurs to goblets may be had in triangle-shaped bowls with various types of stems—fragile, slender, designless stems; a lovely three-terraced effect; or exquisite little balls, which will remind you of summer rain drops. Half a dozen or more different monograms, plain cut or frosted make beautiful settings for a formal dinner table.

If thoughts of the sea turn to memory to happy hours spent with a fishing rod, you'll like the cocktail trays in fish shape. They come in white, blue, green and red, some with cups in the shape of a fish, with bulging eyes that ogle at you. Milk-white fish—four of them—make grand hors d'oeuvre dishes on a round blue plate.

A tiny deep-diamond-cut crystal set is composed of four pieces on a glass tray, not more than eight inches long. Hobnail glassware—beverage sets, drinking glasses and bowls—will make you dream of colonial days. One manufacturer has made a modern chromium lazy susan with a round, five-sectioned glass tray. It's a good-sized affair, and would whirl around gayly with spicy hors d'oeuvres or relishes.

Brisson feels that dogs bring him luck. On his stationery and his handkerchiefs are portraits of Shep, another sheep dog picked up years ago in London. Brisson had been having a run of bad luck until he found Shep, but then it changed. Since then, although Shep long ago passed on to dog heaven, Brisson always has had at least one dog.

Katherine DeMille at one time had six strayed mongrels that she kept until she could find homes for them.

Sandy is Fred MacMurray's favorite wire-hair. He is a frisky and faithful companion on drives, on fishing trips and at the studio.

THE grounds of Marlene Dietrich's Beverly Hills home offer a preserve where her two Russian wolfhounds romp. Huge white fellows, with proud bearing, they accompany Miss Dietrich when she goes walking.

Sir Guy Standing, whom one would expect to have a kennel of fox hounds or gun dogs, has a dachshund instead, that likes to ride in Standing's 16-cylinder roadster, or watch him fish from the leafy shores of Lake Malibu, where he has his home.

Rosalind Keith has three mongrels, a cat and several birds. She picked the dogs up on location trips. Joe Morrison's dog is a big, white Eskimo husky. Weighing nearly 80 pounds, the animal makes a grand watchdog on camping trips. When Morrison recently went on location in the High Sierras, the dog thwarted an attempt to burglarize the trailer.

Bing Crosby, on his country estate, Rancho Santa Fe, has a half dozen shepherds. A little Boston bull, Marion, is Mae West's pet. Sylvia Sydney has a cocker spaniel and a Doberman pinscher. The cocker is friendly, but the pinscher is a self-appointed bodyguard. Henry Wilcoxon has a little "mutt."

Best Efforts
And Modern
Hitch-HikersA Discussion of Increase In Tendency to Demand Things.

By Elsie Robinson

"HAT," said my friend the Thinker, as our far swung around the curve, "is the most significant development in America today."

He didn't look like a "significant development," the husky young loafer in filthy rags, who stood thumbing us for a ride. For a moment I hesitated—I hate passing anyone up. But all these hold-ups tell, besides, in this State, if there's an accident and a hitch-hiker is hurt, he can hold you legally responsible and get heavy damages. So we slid by. The tramp shook his fist—cursed us.

Elsie Robinson

"Not very polite, is he?" I answered. "But why a significant development?"

"Can't you see it for yourself? That fellow wasn't just asking for a lift. He felt he had a right to it and that you had no right to refuse it. That isn't just rudeness—it's a step in history."

"Think back 30 years—even 20. Would an obvious tramp have expected to share the family buggy; cursed you if he were refused? Of course he wouldn't! Decent people have always believed in giving the other fellow a hand—always will. But the other fellow didn't demand it as his right—until he'd done something to earn it."

"There were certain things we always respected. Among them, any man's right to enjoy the simple comforts he'd been able to accumulate through his own hard work. Didn't matter whether a man were a ditch digger or a millionaire—he had a right to the fruit of his own labor and a right to his privacy."

"But there's a new attitude now. Everywhere. You can't just put it into words, but you can see it in these hitch-hikers. They way they expect you to give them a lift—"

"But haven't they a right to expect it?" I questioned, puzzled.

"These are tough times. Many a man can't help being idle. You and I—we've both been penniless. We know how helpless a fellow is before the System. If, in spite of our best efforts, we're busted—"

"But that's just the point!" my friend cried hotly. "That fellow—millions like him—don't give a hoot for the old American 'best effort' theory. They think they've a right to anything they need, whether they've struggled, themselves, or not."

"You and I, when we were young, expected to try to make good for ourselves before we asked for help. Democracy means we should be fair and generous—but it doesn't mean we should get things free. Even Nature doesn't give life free. Even a turnip has to work to survive."

"But now—they demand things as their right, regardless of their personal record. Hitch-hikers? I tell you this hitch-hiking idea is the most dangerous thing that has ever happened to us. And it's spreading. We're all getting infected with it. Unconsciously, we're all beginning to feel we should have things handed to us as our natural right. WHERE'S IT GOING TO LEAD US? WHERE'S IT GOING TO LEAD AMERICA?"

I couldn't answer. The underdog—heaven knows he's often had a raw deal. And many a man may work his head off, yet get nowhere through no fault of his own. Yet—does that mean we should swing to the other extreme? Abolish all sense of personal responsibility? Allow people to feel they're a right to anything they want—anything the other fellow has—regardless of their own records? And suppose we give it to them—"

How long will anyone have anything?

That Engagement Will Be Announced.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:
I HAVE always sent a bouquet to an old friend on her wedding anniversary. During this past year she lost her husband and now I don't know what I ought to do?

Answer: If she lives in your town, go to see her and take her a few flowers—if possible choose those that are different from those you have been in the habit of sending. If you always sent roses, you might choose violets perhaps. Ask at the door if she would care to see you.

If she is seeing no one, write on your card that you only want her to know that your thoughts are with her, and with him.

Dear Mrs. Post: I wish to announce my daughter's engagement at an informal tea. Will you please tell me what should be written on our Mr. and Mrs. Card? Should the name of our daughter's fiancé appear on the invitation?

Answer: If you mean to announce the engagement at (and not before) a visiting card with your daughter's name written under your own and across the top this abbreviated message:

Sat., Nov. 2
Tea at 5 o'clock
You should really write notes to your few most intimate friends telling them that the engagement is to be announced the afternoon of the tea, and ask them to tell no one until then. Or if not even they are to be told, then send the same cards to them that you are sending to others. Do not include the fiancé's name.

Dear Mrs. Post: Why do you never suggest that a bride send some of the very attractive and gracefully worded thank-you cards to those who send wedding presents? Answer: Because such cards are abominably rude. No matter what their printed sentiment may intend to say, their actual message is one of the complete lack of appreciation. When people are kind enough to go out and personally select presents, the least the bride can do to write Mrs. Kindheart a personal note of thanks. If she chooses to write her note on a picture card instead of a sheet of note paper, it would not be formally correct, but neither would it be rude.

IF YOU A
My OPINION

By MARTHA CAR

Dear Friend:

OUR little boy is just starting kindergarten and he cries every day when at first I said I wouldn't punish him, because I wouldn't know children that were made that way and punishing just seemed to make them worse. At first he cried a little but he is getting used to it now and I feel I must do it at his luncheon so I feel I must do something right away.

I promise to take him some place, or give him something each day he does not cry. I am afraid if he keeps on that way it will hinder him in his school days. Do you think it would?

He seems to like school after he gets there but he gets so lonesome to think of leaving.

ROSE.

I do not believe punishment will help the little boy. I think that is what he is called that "sinky feeling" which I understand so well. Gentleness and diversion are the only remedy. The child is naturally a little more emotional than most children and loves to mother with some persons know. I believe your first aid will let him be another child. Without letting your little boy know anything about it, try to arrange to have one of his little friends, a jolly, roly-poly sort come by for him. If you can't arrange for one about his age, perhaps an older boy will help you out. Your child's mind will be diverted from the parting with you and it will bridge the distance between home and the more business-like and (to him) severe atmosphere of the school.

If you will look up the books and read the articles about children written by Angelo Patri you will get much help and many new and reasonable suggestions.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I HAVE written to you before and received excellent advice, as am trying again.

About two years ago, I went with a boy whom I liked as a friend, but nothing more. Because of this, we quit going together. Just recently, I have discovered that I love him, but am too proud to tell him as I am so independent that I am afraid he will think I am "running after" him.

He has two sisters that I am very fond of and I am with them a great deal. While I am at their home, he always comes as a very good friend but never asks me for a date.

What do you suggest that I do in order to let him know how I feel, without giving him the idea that I am being forward?

WONDERING.

You know it is said that a woman may stalk her game all she wishes, but never in the open. The old rule, a fainting spell, has been given up, practically, I believe, by the younger set, because it would ill-become the husky young women of the present to feign frailty. I would deceive no one. But aren't there certain little tricks of the eyes and manner which tell a man something. Couldn't you flush just a little and act "fussy" when he comes near, and show by your glances and smiles toward him, when other boys are about, that he is your preference? As to telling him in so many words—unthinkable! But take a new interest in whatever interests him, you might even tell him he is "wonderful." That always seems new to a man.

My dear Mrs. Carr:
THE summer sun has left me with plenty of freckles. If you have a way to remove them, I shall be grateful. I know that lemon juice will help some, but I believe I need something else. I do the work quickly, as winter is coming and my summer tan and freckles will not be so pretty.

DELPHINE.

I have had so many requests lately for this help and they always come at the end of summer vacations that I have decided to print a remedy here.

Sweet almonds, 30 parts; bitter almonds, 15 parts; distilled (boiled) water, 300 parts.

Mix the three ingredients together thoroughly and pound to an emulsion. Strain through cheese cloth and add 25 parts tincture of benzoin and 15 parts lemon juice. Spread the resultant mixture thinly and evenly over the tanned or freckled skin. Let it remain on as long as convenient, beginning with 10 to 15 minute periods—longer as the skin accustoms itself to the immediate effects of the treatment.

When first used, the "mask" may produce some slight irritation of the skin, in which case it is advisable to discontinue the treatment until the disturbance disappears; meanwhile, bathe the irritated parts with fresh sweet milk.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
TELL me, Mrs. Carr, why don't men like stout girls? I am one weighing more than 200 pounds and hear everyone say, even my own family: "She is a nice girl; too bad she is so fat." I know some of the nice stout girls—nicer than some thin ones.

Mrs. Carr, you must know how I feel. I want to get married, keep

My dear Mrs. Carr:
I WOULD like to see you. I am a younger single. I mean no harm. You are right you stopped girls behave. You menting behind it. You hit it. I am enough on it. I seen anywile anyone and front. Intimate Friends Are Told
That Engagement Will Be Announced.
By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: I have always sent a bouquet of paid some special attention to an old friend on her wedding anniversary. During this past year she lost her husband and now I don't know what I ought to do?

Dear Mrs. Post: I wish to announce my daughter's engagement at an informal tea. Will you please tell me what should be written on our Mr. and Mrs. card? Should the name of our daughter's fiancé also appear on the invitation?

Dear Mrs. Post: Why do you never suggest that a bride send some of the very attractive and gracefully worded thank-you cards to those who send wedding presents?

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM 38 years old, have been married 15 years, have a good husband and a nice home, belong to club which meets once a month, but somehow I am not satisfied.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I have no children and no hope of any. Sometimes I don't know what to do with myself. I have often thought of adopting a baby, thinking that would solve my problem, but then again that is a great responsibility. I cannot say that I am so "wild" about children. I cannot make over them. I see so many spoiled and unruly children nowadays. I also, am getting hard-hearted. I never used to be that way. I need something to soften me again.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I have had so many requests lately for this help (and they always come at the end of summer vacation) that I have decided to print a remedy here.

THE FUR VOGUE GOES TO THE HEAD
Milliners Make Lavish Use of Material as Trimming or Entire Hat

By Sylvia Stiles
MILLINERY salons are beginning to resemble a zoo. Hat cases look like cages where fur-bearing animals are kept. The minks are on exhibition in one cage, the foxes hold forth in another. Sheep are so numerous in the departments they no longer are kept in enclosures—black ones, white ones and mixed gray varieties adding interest to the collections.

By Sylvia Stiles
Hats which are made entirely of fur or at least trimmed lavishly with it are the high style millinery of the season. Every woman wants at least one in her wardrobe. She matches her fur coat or the collar of her cloth coat with a fluffy chapeau and occasionally purchases a second fur hat to harmonize with the decorations on her wool street dress.

By Sylvia Stiles
Some skeptics may think that these furry hats would look too heavy for plump faces and slender forms. They are remembering the old-fashioned toques which made grandmother look like an Eskimo. But the new fur hats are far different from those of a former era. They are skillfully designed and equally as skillfully made so that there is a type to suit every age and every face.

By Sylvia Stiles
The five hats sketched illustrate the wide scope of styles as well as the great variety of pelts in fashion this season. Several youthful styles are included as well as those suitable for the matron. The hat sketched at extreme left was designed for a very young and perky looking person. It combines the pointed crown with the an- telope while the band is of the krimmer. This band is shaped so that it is much higher at the front. The hat fits snugly to the head, but its pointed lines are accentuated by the little pill which pulls down at the front.

By Sylvia Stiles
Next is sketched a hat for the matron. It combines black Persian lamb and black belting ribbon. The turban has the high Russian effect that is very smart, this season. Belting ribbon forms the crown which is banded with the Persian. The lower band suggesting a slight brim. Two stiffened quill-like ornaments jut out at the side. Galyak is the fur which gives the fur hat at the center of the group its sleek appearance. This is a notch of brown felt supplies an element of height. Nutria bands the hat at extreme right but any other flat fur would be equally as attractive. The crown is of brown felt and is molded to the head and has no surplus height. The nutria is applied so that it forms a decided roll that suggests a narrow brim. A bow of felt is tied into a tight little knot to trim the front.

By Sylvia Stiles
Bands of mink have been swirled together to form the clever looking young girl's hat sketched second from the right. This is quite shallow of crown and fits closely to the head. It looks most attractive when worn at a jaunty angle. A top-notch of brown felt supplies an element of height. Nutria bands the hat at extreme right but any other flat fur would be equally as attractive. The crown is of brown felt and is molded to the head and has no surplus height. The nutria is applied so that it forms a decided roll that suggests a narrow brim. A bow of felt is tied into a tight little knot to trim the front.

Birthday Flower Design

FLOWERS OF THE MONTH PATTERNS 998-999

INDIVIDUALITY—something we all strive for—and here is a way of being decidedly individual by having your birthday flower—the flower of your month on your linens. You can do it in cutwork or in plain embroidery, as you choose. And if you like you needn't hold yourself just to the flower of your month—you can group them by seasons and use them on tea-cloths, scarfs, buffet sets and other linens. There are two identical sprays of each flower in each pattern and six different flowers. That gives you half the year's flowers in one pattern and the other half in the other.

Pattern 998 comes to you with a transfer pattern of two sprays each of the flowers from January through June, each spray averaging 4 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches needed; directions for doing cutwork. Price of pattern 10 cents.

"M" "Who gave you a D? How many times have I told you not to speak like that! Call people by their names. She means the cat."

Pete pondered that well. Something in his mother's voice, as she called him a D boy, made him squirm inside. Grade A milk cost more than B, and loose milk less than either. Maybe he wasn't as good as he thought he was? All day long he went about his business with that thought haunting him. He was only worth a D, the lowest price the teacher paid anyone. The longer he thought about it the madder he got. About 3 o'clock he was boiling over. He stayed behind to speak to the teacher.

volunteered no service of any kind? "Why should I pick up papers? What's the janitor for? He's paid." "Exactly. So are you. You missed three to five times in every subject. Your composition for the month is not in yet, and I suppose I shall have to keep you in the room one of these days until you write it. You've done about as little as a boy can do and keep alive. So you are worth D. I'm glad you don't like it. I hope you keep on not liking it. I'd hate to have that tag on me. I sympathize with you but I see no help for you unless you get to work and earn a higher rating. Good afternoon."

It's a known fact that the makers of famous washers recommend Rinso for best results and for safety. I've been convinced from my own experience that there is nothing about Rinso that will yellow clothes or turn aluminum black. Rinso gives rich, lively suds—even hardest water. Marvelous suds for washing. Soaks out dirt and gets clothes snowy and bright without any scrubbing or boiling. Grand for dishwashing. Kind to hands. Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

Off to Join the Dodo Bird

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

WE keep pretty close tabs on the folks who are doing good in this world. On that list we cannot include the lady who wants to give an upright piano to the poor.

There is no longer any place in upholstered civilization for the upright piano. Children no longer strum its keys and mice build their nests elsewhere.

We had one and were proud of it before the fashions changed. For the last six years we tried to get rid of it. It had the resale value of a busted balloon. The old-bottles-man spurned it. Even the installment refused to take it back. We couldn't give it away because nobody wanted it.

But we finally got rid of that like the Arabs get rid of a mailing address. We folded our tents and silently stole away. In less reasonable words, we moved, and left that upright piano behind.

Our ex-landlord is suing us for defamation of character, treason, embezzlement and malicious mischief. That makes four counts. But he has the piano. Which is what really counts.

NEW HAVEN ROAD, DENIED HUGE LOAN, FILES BANKRUPTCY ACT PETITION

Seeks Court Permission to Reorganize After I. C. C. Vetoes Application to Borrow $5,000,000 More From RFC.

WA ALSO REJECTS PLEA FOR MILLION

Line Borrowed $20,175,000 During Depression—Revenue Has Dropped 50 Pct. Since 1929; Temporary Injunction Granted

By the Associated Press. NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 23.—New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, prevented by the Interstate Commerce Commission from obtaining a $5,000,000 increase from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in its Federal bankruptcy court here today filed a petition for permission to reorganize under section 77 of the Federal bankruptcy act.

The road at the same time was granted a temporary injunction by Judge Carroll C. Hincks restraining any party from interfering with its business. Judge Hincks set Nov. 15 for a hearing on the injunctive proceedings and for the appointment of a trustee.

The application for the RFC loan had been made available to get money from banks to which it owed more than $16,000,000, and offered what it described as its equity in stocks and bonds already hypothecated with the RFC and the Railroad Credit Corporation.

The road owes the PWA $6,777,000, and it to pay for maintenance and new equipment.

Directors' Statement. The directors in a statement issued after a meeting in New York City said they had "reluctantly" taken the step only after exhausting every practical means available to the company for meeting its obligations as they mature.

The $5,000,000 loan was sought from the RFC to pay taxes due later and municipalities through which the road operates. The Interstate Commerce Commission refused yesterday to approve the application for the loan.

The railroad is faced with the problem of paying the State of Connecticut $448,465.20 in taxes by Nov. 15.

Also due soon are taxes amounting to $1,277,000 payable to the City of New York on buildings and land owned in that city.

Other items of considerable amount also fall due between Nov. 15 and Jan. 1, including $1,500,000 in taxes to the city of Boston.

Big Decrease in Revenue. Howard S. Palmer, president, in a statement issued at the close of a meeting of the directors, explained that continued low gross revenues which dropped from $142,000,000 in 1929 to approximately $70,000,000 in 1935, the exhaustion of its collateral through loans granted by the Government last year, and inability to obtain new loans at the present time, together with the uncertain outlook for meeting cash requirements in 1936 made the step inevitable.

Palmer said the company had borrowed $20,175,000 during the depression to cover costs, deficit in income, equipment trust installments, additions and betterments to the property.

Bonds of the railroad dropped to lowest levels in many years in New York Stock Exchange today.

The ICC refused to approve the application for a loan from the RFC in the ground it could not certify that the railroad could meet all charges without reduction through court action.

WA Refuses to Lend New Haven Line $1,000,000 For Laying Rails. WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The Public Works Administration today announced rejection of an application by the New York, New Haven & Hartford for a $1,000,000 loan. Officials said the application, designed to provide funds to lay $1,000,000 of new rails bought with an earlier PWA loan, was rejected because of lack of adequate security.

WA had loaned the railroad $7,000,000, including $1,300,000 for rails, $2,200,000 for 50 passenger coaches and $3,500,000 for equipment repairs.
